BOTTOMS UP!

Next month's issue is going to be so hot we just had to let you into a few of its secrets ahead of schedule. For a start, we've got a hilarious report from the US Gold conference, when ACE readers gathered in Birmingham and were greeted by...well, words fail us. The picture on the right should give you a hint of what to expect. Then we've got a red hot on-the-spot report from the Entertainment '90 conference in New York - a stunning expose of the future of interactive television, games, and on-line technology. If you're serious about gaming, then it's an issue you just mustn't miss.

On the gameplay front, we'll be covering more games than ever before as well as providing in-depth hardware and software buyers' guides for the Christmas season - so if you're out for a game, a console, or a computer make sure you check with us first. There'll also be news of the next ACE conference (and how you can join us), a special 8-bit Christmas games guide, major 16-bit entertainment exclusives, and a huge quiz for games trivia fans with bags of prizes!

All that AND a Christmas freebie! ACE is really going to kick ass on its fortieth issue so don't monkey around: reserve your copy now on page 178!

Just one of the obscurities in next month's issue. Colonel Parkerton of Titmouse-on-Sea, you have been warned.

Could this machine be the next big thing in British console gaming? After the success of the Master System and the Megadrive, ACE tests out the Sega handheld on page 8

IMPORTANT NOTICE The publishers of ACE Magazine recognise that the contents of this issue may prove offensive, or even harmful, to certain people. Those of you who think that handheld gaming is a vicious, destructive habit may be disturbed by our intensive gametesting of the Sega Gamegear on page 8. You may also be appalled by our irresponsible distribution of 50 free Game Boys on page 25. Narrow minded bigots who insist that time travel is not possible will be outraged by our Gamesworld feature on page 19, and failed comic strip artists may conceivably shoot themselves at the sight of pages 38, 39 or 53. You have been warned. The rest of us can relax and have a stonking good read...

0898 AND OVERSEAS

Don't forget: as promised last month, the contents of the 0898 numbers for the £10000 software scratchcards are printed in this issue - and there's still time to claim your prize or discount. See page 26.

ROGUE LOADS AND RUNS

...and so do Judge Dredd, Ranx Xerox, Hagar the Horrible, and Spiderman in the latest glut of comic-inspired scenarios. ACE takes a look at silicon strip art and wonders whether hot strips make for hot games on page 38.

The face of the future. Face it on pages 19-21 in our timewarped feature about Gamesworld 1999.

It's that girl again! Mel Costin models the latest accessory for the hi-tech, mobile gamer who wants it all in colour.

Japanese console companies are putting a lot of faith into the 'Walkman' theory of portable electronic entertainment. If you visit your local electro-gadgets in downtown Tokyo you can buy a Nintendo Gameboy, Atari Lynx, NEC PC Engine GT (Turbo-Express), and now a Sega Game Gear... the latest addition to the team of handheld consoles. So how does it compare to the portable competition?

The Sega Game Gear is a sleek black console with the now classic handheld top-design of screen, joystick, two fire buttons and a start key. Its size and weight is pitched between the Gameboy and the Lynx. Game Gear weighs a reasonable 570g and is a little larger than a VHS video-cassette. It has a similar internal architecture to the Sega's 8-bit Master System deck, but cannot use any Master game cartridges.

Six AA-size batteries provide you with a 3.2" backlit colour LCD screen at a resolution of 480x146 with 16 on-screen colours out of a palette of 4096. A loud internal speaker blasts COLUMNS, a colourful update on the Tetris style of arcade puzzle games.

The Sega Game Gear colour handheld console... 4096 colours, four-channels of sound, optional TV tuner and it only costs £79 (in Japan!)

GAME GEAR SPECIAL

SCREEN: 3.2" backlit LCD
RESOLUTION: 480x146
COLORS: 16 colours on-screen out of a palette of 4096
SOUND: 3 stereo-sound channels (PSG) and noise.
SIZE: 103x210x38mm
WEIGHT: 570g
PORTS: Walkman headphone socket, 9V DC power socket, external 'expansion' socket
CONTROLS: eight-directional joystick, two fire buttons, volume/brightness controllers POWER: six AA batteries (or 9V DC mains supply)
PRICE: 19800 yen (£79)
GAMES OUT NOW: Super Monaco GP, Columns, Pengo
GAMES OUT SOON: Wonderboy, G-Loc, Pro Baseball '90, Dragon Crystal
AVERAGE GAME PRICE: 3500 yen (£14)
OPTIONAL EXTRAS: TV tuner, link-up cable so two Game Gear owners can play head-to-head games, output lead with two stereo 'phono' sockets, mains power supply, car cigarette-lighter power lead.

out three PSG stereo-sound channels (plus a noise generator). If you don't want to annoy your fellow commuters you can connect 'Walkman' headphones. You plug your game cartridges into a slot in the top-back of the console.

Game Gear has a wealth of optional accessories including a TV tuner, link-up lead to let two Game Gear owners to play head-to-head games, and various power supply options such as 9V DC mains-adaptor and a cable which allows you to power the Game Gear using a car cigarette-lighter.

But the most impressive feature of the new Sega machine is its very low price. You can pick up a Game Gear in Japan for only 19800 yen (£79). This compares to the official UK prices of £69.99 for the monochrome Gameboy, with the Lynx coming in at a hefty £179.99. And let's not forget the 'Rolls-Royce' of handhelds, the PC Engine GT costing the equivalent of £250 in Japan! Already the Game Gear has a clear advantage, but what about the software?

PLAY THE GAMES

There are three games available for the Game Gear at present. Prices are in the region of 3500 yen (£14) per games cart. Pengo is a conversion of the ancient Sega coin-op, while Columns is a more up-to-date coin-op adaption taking advantage of the current craze for arcade puzzle games (fast becoming the defacto standard for handheld games). In fact, you can think of Columns as a colourful version of Tetris.

Super Monaco GP is the most impressive title of the three. This fast Pole-Position style racing-sim is full of extra features like a multitude of

One of the attractive 'splash' screens from WONDERBOY. The Game Gear is very similar to the Sega Master System... only it's fully portable (he, he).

SUPER MONACO GP: probably the best game available on the Game Gear at the moment.

It will be interesting to see how G-LOC converts over to the Game Gear... it's not looking that hot from this screen-shot.

PENGO hits the Game Gear.

POWER

Grand Prix circuits to race in and the chance to customise your racing car with different wings, engines and tires.

That's not all. Wonderboy, Pro-Baseball '90, Dragon Crystal and even G-LOC will be released on the Game Gear in the coming months.

GETTING INTO GEAR

The future looks very bright for the Game Gear. Software supply should not be a problem. Sega is one of the top Japanese games companies with a string of classic coin-ops already under its belt. We could soon be playing Game Gear versions of Space Harrier, Out Run, Afterburner, Thunderblade, Powderdrift and Galaxy Force II.

And don't forget all the Japanese, American and European third-party software houses that Sega has signed up to produce games on the Master and Megadrive. So will they be developing Game Gear titles as well?

Geoff Brown, boss of US Gold, was most enthusiastic about the new Sega baby. It seems likely that the Master versions of Paperboy, Gauntlet, Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade - the Arcade Game, and Impossible Mission will be converted over to the Game Gear. "We also have the opportunity to develop other titles in the future," added Brown. Meanwhile, Gary Bracey at Ocean told us they have no plans to develop Game Gear titles at present. Though he did manage to mention the fact that Robocop is nearly finished on the Gameboy and looking very good.

Mirrorsoft's boss Peter Bilotta was very secretive about the whole subject of Sega's Game Gear, repeatedly saying he was bound by a non-disclosure agreement. Does this mean we'll shortly be playing Game Gear versions of Xenon II, Back to the Future Part II and Speedball?

IT'D BUY THAT FOR A DOLLAR

Nick Alexander, boss of Virgin/Mastertronic - the official UK distributor of the Sega Master and Megadrive, was pretty non-committal on the official UK launch of the Sega Game Gear. "There's no firm release date but we're hoping for early next year," confirmed Alexander. And what about the price? "We'd love it to be under £100 - we just don't know at the moment."

In the meantime, you can bet the grey-importers will be buying up huge stocks of what must be the best value handheld console in the world.

Soon you'll be able to play WONDERBOY on the Game Gear.

Special thanks to ACTIVE CONSOLES on 081 752 0260 for supplying the Sega Game Gear and games.

PLAY IT AGAIN, SID

Now you can relive the classic C64 music hits on your Amiga courtesy of a remarkable piece of public domain software.

Tears will stream from your eyes as you boot Your 100 Best Tunes from the Commodore 64 and listen to the sound effects and music tracks from such classics as Commando, Crazy Comets, Delta, Ghosts 'n' Goblins, Hypaball, International Karate, The Last Ninja, Master of Magic, Mutants, Parallax, Samxon, Terra Cresta, Thing on a Spring, Trap and Warhawk - to name but the best.

Per Hakan and Ron Birk have managed to simulate the infamous SID - the C64's custom sound chip - on the Amiga. And they claim to have achieved this amazing feat in a mere six weeks. There's only one thing missing from the list, there's no sign of Wizball. This is an outrageous omission - Martin Galway's work on Wizball was undoubtedly the best audio heard on any C64 game.

Many thanks to LM Software of 1 Queens Road, Southend-on-Sea, Essex for supplying this essential £2.99 Amiga program. What are your favourite game tunes and sound effects? Why? Send your top ten tracks to ACE Letters, EMAP Images, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU.

Archer Maclean, the veteran programmer of the classic games Dropzone and IK+, has now turned his attention to the 'mundane' sport of Snooker... and produced one of the most stunning micro simulations the ACE team has ever played.

The lively programmer is putting the finishing touches to his yet unnamed Snooker game, which should be released within the next few months on 16-bit format by Virgin/Mastertronic.

Archer's new masterpiece incorporates some of the fastest 3D filled polygon graphics yet seen on an ST, with a very respectable screen rate of 25 frames per second. It also includes a multitude of play options, viewpoints and a handy 'undo' feature allowing you try out and perfect some nifty trick shots. Look out for a full review in a near future issue of ACE.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD

Honey, I Shrank the Kids Movie Set Adventure is the latest attraction to the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park in Florida, USA.

"This takes studios theme park guests into the illipitlan land of the 1989 Disney hit motion picture Honey, I Shrank the Kids," says Disney. "Towering blades of grass reaching 30 feet in height, gargantuan backyard beasts and gigantic sprinkler heads all dwarf human-sized visitors."

All three Florida-based Walt Disney World

theme parks are open daily throughout the year, with extended hours of operation during the summer and at other peak vacation times. DON'T BELIEVE THE HYPE!

First of all, I would like to say how much I think your mag has gone downhill, heading more towards consoles and endless speculation on CD technology. Why dedicate so much time to consoles? Don't you think that the market will soon (if it hasn't already) become overcrowded and people will not have a clue as to what to buy? I don't believe that all these computer, consoles and handhelds can possibly all live together. Consoles in particular seem to be aimed at the very people (the younger generation) who cannot afford to lay out £170 or so on a console, and then anything from £30-£50 for the software.

My guess is that in the next few months you will have forgotten about the Megadrive (for instance) and will be raving on about CD hardware (such as the Amiga), shortly followed by the latest hi-tech gadget you think we should buy. Perhaps you should realise that most of your readers do not have an endless supply of cash and a desire to change their machines every six months. You may as well rename your mag Advanced Console Entertainment! This may seem harsh criticism, but while I welcome technological advancement I do not welcome unending hype. By all means report such things - but in moderation!

John Glover, Middlesex

Harsh words indeed Mr. Glover, and (in our opinion) quite unfounded. Taking your first point, we would disagree that too much space is being devoted to console and CD news. You yourself state that they are new technology and as you know, ACE is dedicated to bringing its audience news of such.

As for the price of consoles, we are inclined to agree, although the cost of hard/software is only relative to the U.K. market. Japanese consumers pay around £130 for the Megadrive itself and £24 for cartridges. Granted, that may not be applicable to the U.K., but even here £170 for a 16-bit machine with arcade capabilities and £35 per title is considerably cheaper than any other such machine. As regards handhelds, (retailing at around the £70-£80 mark), they provide a cheaper alternative and all the playability a younger gamer/player could wish for.

As for forgetting current technology when the future comes around, take a look in ACE and you will find that we still cover the 8-bit machines that could long ago have been disregarded. Covering new technology does not necessarily mean that we are attempting to force readers into purchasing - just to advise and inform those who wish to know. Let's face it - who wants to live in the past?

Letters

Console aggro, computer aggro, adventure aggro, and a debate on economics....

THE WUMPUS IS DEAD...

I would like to offer a few thoughts on the subject of text adventures, as it seems that they are a dying breed.

A form of game similar to a book that actually lets the player take part in the story ought to have a lot going for it, yet the popularity of books and novels has always far outweighed that of adventures. The reason must be that the implementation of such games is all wrong.

For a start, text ought to be dynamic and captivate the readers attention. I am a great fan of just a few locations being initially accessible and progress being made via logical puzzle-solving, giving the player a sense of achievement and allowing the story to develop along a set course. There is nothing worse than being faced with dozens of locations and an inventory full of useless objects, right at the outset. It is very daunting and dilutes the plot.

Progression is the keyword, and text-based games on today's machines could involve quite a journey. Puzzles should always be logical and never include the kind of ludicrous random element you see in today's adventures. About 90% of all adventures I have played, I've been stuck within about half an hour, no wonder nobody buys them anymore. I only hope that I haven't written a eulogy, but software houses should realise that text-based titles now have even greater potential.

Mr C.A Horsley, Birmingham

Your letter evoked a fit of nostalgia in our Editor, who got onto the 'phone to someone called The White Wizard and asked his opinion. It arrived the following day by gnome-drawn buggy...

Honourable Wizarding Horsley, Greetings!

Although in retirement near the North Pole I was interested in the points in your letter and felt a reply was in order. Like you, I believe that the adventure format is far from dead, but simply suffering a temporary set back. The attractions of verbal puzzling and the power of the written word will certainly make a comeback.

But how? My feeling is that CD technology will make a huge contribution to adventuring. Remember that CD's can store the spoken word very efficiently. The big problem with traditional adventures was reading all that text on-screen. Now you'll be able to enter into adventures in an aural fashion, with the games presenting themselves much like interactive radio dramas with video screen graphics and powerful stereo sound effects.

This will happen because (a) the spoken word is cheaper than moving pictures and (b) good actors can work miracles with the right text. Stand by for the return of the Wizard! And the Pilgrim! Uncle Tom Cobbley! Anita Sinclair! Pete (Contd p999)

CONFUSION FUSION

Could you please tell me why when reviewing Megadrive games, prices in ACE are quoted as being £59.99? When readers see this I'm sure it must put them off buying the Megadrive. You only have to look at numerous ads to see that most suppliers charge around £30-£35. Perhaps that is why games get such low ratings. For £60 you would expect something outstanding. As it is, Megadrive games are outstanding anyway...

Graeme Silburn, Essex

The Megadrive titles we reviewed were received at a very advanced stage (although admittedly not reviewed for some time) - hence the £60 price tag. We are aware of mail-order firms offering cheaper prices and will be taking note in future. NB ACE reviews always concentrate on the gameplay - value for money is not included in ratings. We believe that only you know best how much you're prepared to pay for a game.

THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME

In your console special (issue 36), you exhort all 16-bit computer owners who are "serious about games" to "seriously consider buying a console", implying that the way forward for Advanced Computer Entertainment lies with dedicated games machines such as the Megadrive. Do you seriously think that I and other Amiga (or PCST) owners are about to abandon the versatility and capabilities of our computers, for the limitations imposed on console owners by their machines?

Certainly those who can afford it should certainly consider a Megadrive as well as their computer, but I'd be willing to bet that after the flashy customised graphics and multi-channel sound of the 'new toy' had worn off, it will be the computer, not the console that will continue to demand the most time. Where else but on 16-bit computers can you continue to tax the brain with strategy games like Midwinter and Ultima VI, and fulfill your dreams of flight with sim's such as Interceptor.

A glance at the current batch of console titles should confirm the limitations of these machines - games like Flying Shark, Thunderforce III and Ghostbusters on the Megadrive, and Ghosts 'n' Goblins on the Nintendo are like junk-food for the mind. Plenty of arcade action but little to hold the prolonged interest of the brain. I would suggest that such machines are only suitable for children, after which (hopefully) they graduate to slightly more advanced forms of computer entertainment.

Additionally, the enthusiasm which ACE and other mags have for the new beasts would seem to be premature - of the nine consoles featured in 'Hotboxes', four are not yet available in the UK and Eire, three are very dated and definitely a step down from the likes of the one meg Amiga and many PC's. And that leaves? The Neo-Geo, truly an advanced machine but one which, (as ACE rightly pointed out) is beyond the reach of the everyday user (at £400 anyway). I also have my doubts about software support for many of these machines - EA seemed enthusiastic but I wonder if their style of advanced simulation is really suited to consoles.

Don't be swayed to easily by new technology just because it's new. In my view, the new way forward is with the likes of already established machines like the Amiga, ST and Mac - who would have dreamt ten years ago that the likes of Cosmic Osmo would be stretching the latter to such limits.

E. Daly, Co. Dublin

Why is everyone fuming these days? The arguments currently being put forward hail back to those put forward by ST and Amiga owners, and Spectrum and C64 owners before that. The 'my machine is better than yours' debate is all rather petty when you consider that anyone not wanting to involve themselves with a certain format may exercise their right of consumption and simply not 'consume'!

To say that consoles are very limited as regards game styles shows a cynicism and lack of understanding. To begin with, Populous has already been converted to the Megadrive as have golfing titles, and the Nintendo (the World's most successful system to date) sports a range of Ultima products. For the future, plans to convert titles such as F29 Retailer to console format further demonstrate the capabilities of dedicated machines - how's that for versatility? Certainly there are numerous straight conversions available for consoles which may require little thought to play, but that is so for all machines.

Next, the machines mentioned in 'Hotboxes' are all planned for release in the UK with exception of the NEC Handheld - and are all available through specialist dealers even if not yet officially launched. If you can buy it, we're going to cover it.

Yes, the Neo Geo is expensive, but you can rent it and in any event we always let our readers draw their own conclusions about price. We give you the facts - you decide whether you should splash out on it or not.

WHY NO BINDERS?

I now have a year's supply of ACE but still no binder to put them in. When, oh WHEN are we going to get the binders you've been promising for so long?

A. Baker, Liverpool

We do apologise about the long delay on binders. However, readers will be relieved to hear that a deal has been struck with a supplier and they should be available by mid November at the latest.

STOCKS AND SHAREWARE

'Inspired' by the withdrawal of the UK arm of Activision, I'm writing you what could be a remedy for both software houses and game-players. Why don't software houses convert at least part of their capital into shares to be offered on the stockmarket? In this way, game-players could support their favourite software houses and (more importantly) influence the kind and quality of published software - perhaps even pushing prices down. Software houses needn't worry so much about piracy and big losses because shareholders would see the whole situation from a company viewpoint, so buying more games (especially from the 'houses they invest in'). A new kind of responsibility would develop and activities such as piracy would decrease. Additionally, smaller software houses would gain more strength and be able to compete in the market better.

In short, the two sides of the market would come closer together, resulting in better relationships and conditions for both. I'm no Economics specialist, but I think this would be very possible, couldn't it? Anne Maczowski, Germany

Although a nice ideal, the answer to your final question is no - it wouldn't work.

For a start, in all probability, only the larger software houses would have the resources to float shares. Any smaller house wishing to do so, would have to guarantee a good return on shares to attract investors in the first place, and to ensure a good return, they would have to be very sure of sales to create the revenue needed to invest on further product (Whew!)

In addition, consumers would inevitably invest in those houses which they considered to be worth the most, rather than a 'favourite'. Smaller software houses would be more likely to be swamped, creating a very limited market of large companies or conglomerates.

As to the concepts of less piracy and more spending, both would be unlikely to occur as firstly, there are always people who will prefer 'free' software and secondly, consumer's investing would have less, rather than more disposable income, thus buying less software!

A nice idea, but sadly unlikely - although flotation is more frequent in the larger American market.

BETRAYAL

'The West Marches is a corrupt land ruled by immoral leaders. You are one of four Knights with a lust for power. And in the pursuit of power, the end justifies the means.'

'The bloodiest battles yield the greatest spoils. Strategically extend your domain, reduce your rivals' resources, and tighten your stranglehold on the peasants of the land.'

'The towns provide your power base. Manage them successfully, and harvest the wealth needed to buy, bribe and fight for ultimate power.'

'Betrayal involves a long, hard, ruthless struggle, starting with the economic management of your towns and cultivation of your lands, culminating in the honing of your military strategy and execution of political subterfuge.'

'Develop a mastery of political subterfuge, gaining places for your Courtiers at the palaces of the King and Bishop, ready for the coup which will make you the master of Betrayal.'

BETRAYAL A HELL OF A GOD GAME

A new barrel of fine Welsh ale had just been broached. The royal palace's smoky dining hall resounded to cheery voices. To one side of the top table a harpist and a minstrel were struggling to be heard above the commotion caused by two dogs snarling over a bone in a corner.

'Eating slowly, I leant forward to catch the breathless whisper of a rival knight.'

'They came in at a run, baying like wolves. Four wild-eyed barbarians ready to cut, gouge, pulverise and kill anything that moved.'

'That news was indeed music to my ears. My forces' attack on his wealthiest town had met with success. Financially weakened, militarily broken, and politically bankrupt, he could no longer hold influence at Court.'

So long as no evidence of my wrong doing remained. So long as the Gods blessed the crops of my harvest. So long as the rumours of the capture of my brother were true. The throne was mine.

I've cheated, lied, spied and slaughtered. The fruits of Betrayal are mine.

 "...it's simple, but it's dead hard... more exciting than many other puzzle games - tricky, but also very addictive." Crash
 "...fun to play and will keep you addicted for hours on end. A good game that is sure to please." Amiga Action

It all seems so easy, but can you beat the micro or your partner, at this hideously mind boggling game.

Special blocks will give you extra lives... GREAT!... but believe me, you'll need to take every advantage of this software's hardware! You'll need the skill of a Rubi-Cube master and the reflexes of a pigeon at a skeet shoot! Plot your move, make aim and block 'em out!... It's that simple... as simple as grilling ice cubes!

Welcome to...

The year is 1999. The location is Southern England. The venue is Gamesworld, an entertainment complex that may seem out of this world, but in reality uses readily available technology. In fact, it could just as easily have been built back in 1990, but no-one had the idea. A pity, because it's proved to be one of the most successful entertainment innovations since the Bingo Hall.

Construction of Gamesworld began in 1997, financed by a rights issue taken out by Maelstrom Gigagames Euro Inc. The original concept was developed by the ACE Think Tank (Tokyo branch) and the project took eighteen months to complete at a cost of ECU420M. The site covers four acres of prime land in downtown Welwyn Garden, just round the corner from the Tesco Ministry.

DREAMWORLD

Gamesworld was envisaged as a haven for committed gamers who wanted more than just another round of Robocop 6. Right from the start, it was decided that the complex should offer dedicated entertainment scenarios for ALL players – not just for Gamepunks and Cyberwills. Strategy, combat, simulation, brainpower...even romance – we wanted to ensure that everyone had a gameworld they could feel at home in.

Unfortunately, it was a condition of the finance house that an 'adult entertainment' section be included (the 'Porniverse') but this was against the wishes of the Think Tank and (judging by the demonstrations) the public. This unacceptable face of cybergaming is liable to be the subject of government legislation later this year.

So what has Gamesworld got to offer you? Is it really worth taking a trip on the Turbe and forking out ECU20 an hour for? Judge for yourself...

WORLDS WITHIN WORLDS

Gamesworld consists of eight scenario centres, each dedicated to a particular game discipline (see the various panels in this article), and connected to the Main Lobby. Each centre runs different scenarios each week and comprises a main cockpit area (where the individual players sit and participate), an Actiondome (a scanned area usually used for live encounters), and Robos – robotic figures who commentate or otherwise take part in the scenario.

When you arrive at Gamesworld, you'll need to place a deposit of ECU20 in the IDC machine at the main entrance. This unit will lasergraph your facial appearance and etch it onto your Smart ID, which you take from the slot at the bottom of the machine. If it doesn't appear, try kicking it.

Your Smart ID is a small smart card with transceiver and CPU, originally developed in Japan in 1989 and exhibited at the ACE Living Room of the Future show in 1990. Credit card sized, it holds 250K of memory and can receive/transmit at a range of up to 30 metres. It's used to store your Gamesworld credits (see below) as well as your game status (for all scenarios), personal information, medical details and Community Charge ID (included by law). The lasergraph picture enables us to make a visual identification when necessary – remember, the card is NOT transferable. Your Smart ID card remains the property of Gamesworld and you may surrender it at any time for a 50% refund of your deposit.

This feature is based on an article in ACE Issue 150. We have, by special arrangement with our publisher, transmitted it down a temporal fax for your attention. This, people of 1990, is the future of games. And it's not just a dream, as you're about to find out...

This shot is taken from a cyberspace EVA interlude in the Warworld Eurocraters scenario (see other screenshot). The player is making his way along Farringdon Road towards the old Guardian offices, now the headquarters of the European Commissariat Propaganda Division.

You should now enter the Main Lobby. Your card will be scanned automatically on entry and inscribed with the current Gamesworld status and options, preparatory to your joining any of the scenarios.

The Lobby, like the Actiondome (see caption to main illustration) within each scenario centre, is scanned permanently by a Hyper-IMME system based on the engine developed in 1990 by Subjective Technologies in California (and demonstrated in prototype form at the 1990 CES). Infra red sensors combine with laser tracking devices to monitor your movements throughout the complex, recording any encounters onto your Smart ID.

Eurocraters: Europe is in the grip of a long and bitter civil war. This screen-shot shows a scene from the Battle of London 2040, in which 200 live players and 800 homeplayers participated over a 48 hour period. The player is on a strafing run of Tower Bridge with two Eurocrater Bombs in pursuit.

BUYING TIME

Gamesworld is divided into eight scenario centres. Participation costs ECU20 an hour and is deducted from your Smart ID store as soon as you enter the specific scenario centre.

Credits are purchasable in the Main Lobby 24 hours a day. Ensure therefore that once you're past the Centre Roboguard you get to your assigned cockpit as quickly as possible. All scenarios play 24 hours a day. Please ensure that you leave your cockpit after the session as you would wish to find it. Bedding is not allowed.

Please remember: Gamesworld cannot take responsibility for death or disfigurement unless directly attributable to negligence on the part of its employees. A Medibutton is provided in each cockpit and is tested daily. Use it to summon help if you experience chest pain, breathing difficulty, or acute adrenalin poisoning.

Information about the current scenarios available in each centre is displayed on the Wallmenu at all times, together with booking information that tells you how many spaces are still available for players. Remember that in addition to the cockpit players, there are limited places for home players - see elsewhere in this article. Choose with confidence, enter, and enjoy...

BEHIND THE SCENES...

Here at Maelstrom head offices, beside the clear, sparkling waters and golden beaches of the Mersey estuary, we evolve the complex scenarios that inject life into the Gamesworlds.

A coordinator heads each development team and allocates tasks for the think-tank, the software workshop, and the art studio. The think-tanks are tailor-made for each project to provide a broad spectrum of ideas - a Warworld think-tank usually includes a historian, two or three novelists, a games designer, a physicist, and one ordinary Gamesworld player, chosen at random. In the software workshop, we use 3D modelling hooked up to 5th generation language program generators to develop the code that runs the game. Our art studio is, perhaps, the strangest. Most of our artists are sculptors and all of them do their work directly in a cyberspace environment. Come into our studios and you will see a group of people wearing goggles and waving datagloves about!

Cyberwille comes in all shapes, sizes, and sexes. They share one obsession: cyberspace encounters - and not always amorous ones, either.

This smoothie from Romanceworld is actually a Gamespunk in disguise (Gamespunks are the Gamesworld equivalent of hackers, buying and selling dodgy Smart IDs).

A regular visitor to the Porniverse. This is the sort of game that we can do without, thank you.

HOMEPLAYER

You don't have to attend Gamesworld in person to get involved. Purchase or rent a Gameslink and you can play a part in all the scenarios except Fantasyworld. Home players take different roles in scenarios from live players, often interacting with the players at Gamesworld and even making money out of them.

NINJAWORLD

Ninjaworld offers players the opportunity to develop after egos of awesome power and throw them into combat against other players. The cockpits give full control over giant robotic machines which are configured by the player during practice combat sessions. Details of configurations are, of course, stored on your Smart ID. The Actiondome is fully scanned by a Hyper-IMME system and is used by players to develop physical fighting manoeuvres that are then 'learned' by the players' mechanical counterparts. For example, if you decide that the only way to defeat Mechnacho 4 is by using a particularly vicious throat kick, you can enter the required movements by carrying them out yourself (in slow motion) on the Actiondome floor, then editing the sequence in your cockpit before going into battle.

THE PORNIVERSE

The less said about this the better. It is currently closed due to technical difficulties following the unauthorised actions of a Cyberwille who gained illicit access to Level 42, although complicity by our backers to develop this centre, we are undismayed by impending legislation aimed at making this sort of thing illegal.

Robots are located beside the Actiondome in each centre. They are computer controlled figures who fulfil different roles in each scenario. Think of them as a 'who's who' - feeding opinions and information into the action and occasionally even participating in it.

Although of a similar basic design, cockpits can vary hugely in control configuration depending on the centre in which they appear and the scenario currently in progress. This cockpit has been extensively modified for High Moon - the most popular scenario ever to run at Fantasyworld, involving players in a scenario about to turn to a ghost town on the dark side of Luna.

CYBERHORSE COCKPIT

FANTASYWORLD

This scenario centre gives you the chance to fulfil your wildest dreams. The cockpits have been especially designed for maximum flexibility and as a result, the mechanical interactivity of the scenarios is somewhat reduced. As compensation, however, Fantasyworld scenarios feature considerable cyberspace interludes and use the Actiondome as a Hyper-IMME scanned area to monitor the interactions of numerous live players involved in role-playing encounters. The Robots adopt different identities at various points during the scenarios. Because of the emphasis on human interaction in this world, home players are able to log on as observers only.

Gamesworld is split into eight centres. Each centre can mount different scenarios and has hardware dedicated to different game disciplines.

SPORTSWORLD

Sportsworld bears a similar relation to Ninjaworld as Crimeworld does to Strategyworld. The two centres are very similar, but the scenarios are very different. Sportsworld also uses the Actiondome to enable players to perfect actual physical manoeuvres. Scenarios cover all the main sports and some very exotic ones as well. The most popular is Bloodball - a totally unsuitable blend of Kick Off II and Karate Kid 6.

POWERUP BOOTH

STRATEGYWORLD

Some of us prefer to develop our offensives over a greater period of time than the busy-busy of Ninjaworld and Ninjaworld allows. Strategyworld scenarios have highly detailed cockpits with numerous control and monitoring facilities. As in Warworld, the Actiondome serves as a vast display area that alters configuration according to the scenario. Kingside Robos act as commentators and informants, occasionally (very occasionally!) broadcasting news of particular importance. Homeplayers can often play a larger part in Strategyworld scenarios than in any of the others.

COMING SOON DRAGONFIRE

FANTASY WORLD

The Main Lobby is entirely 'live', scanned continuously by a powerful Hyper Tattle system. If you're not 'at credit', you will almost certainly find yourself 'assisted' by a friendly credit sales executive. Gamepunks who are not to fight the system and often apprehended in this area if they are careless in programming their Smart IIs.

ROMANCEWORLD

Become a Barbara Cybercartland! Romanceworld cockpits are tastefully decorated in pink and fully equipped with Gossiphones, Image Enhancers, and Charismatrons. Our current scenario, Royal Wedding, challenges you to manipulate your social standing amongst your fellow players until you can worm your way into the bedroom of the Silicon Princess Mara (or, for female players, the Silicon Prince Marky). The Actiondome serves as a 'live encounter' location for hot blooded Romances and Juliet! Scenario turns last five hours - listen to the wedding bells at the end of each cycle!

Note: to comply with Jesso Ministry legislation, certain sequences in Romanceworld may not be available to younger players. Latex bodypunks are mandatory for players wishing to play at Level 10.

Cockpits (see other illustrations) are in essence the same in each centre, but are designed to be modifiable for different scenarios.

The Main Lobby also features the Camera Booth. This booth sells Gameslides (see illustration) to home players. It also enables players to leave messages for each other and to communicate via satellite with other Gamesworld complexes throughout the world.

WARWORLD

Confront your fellow players in a fight to the finish. Warworld cockpits give you complete control of the fighting machines involved in the current scenario. The Actiondome in Warworld is given over to a large constantly updated battlemat, and the Robos act as news casters. Homeplayers may participate as 'spies', hacking into player's cockpit strategy systems, and selling information to other players for game credits which may be used for live participation at Gamesworld.

The Warworld cockpit is unusual in that it can be modified to some extent by the user himself. Players can purchase power-ups in the Main Lobby which literally plug into the fascia, giving additional combat potential. Cockpit hardware design was done by Neo-Kimix and the control circuitry is by Flame International. Players participate in limited cyberspace sequences at various parts of the game, or when they want to indulge in EVA (extra vehicular activity).

WARWORLD COCKPIT

Each centre has an 'Actiondome' - an area set aside for physical interaction. The Actiondome in Warworld is smaller than the others as it serves only as a display device. In Crimeworld, Fantasyworld, and Romanceworld, however, it occupies half the centre and is used for live interactive Actiondome scenarios. The Actiondome is scanned by Hyper Tattle systems (see main text).

The Main Entrance to Gamesworld leads the punter by a Smart ID issue device. No-one gets in without a card.

CRIMEWORLD

Similar to Strategyworld, but the game turns are much shorter, usually lasting no more than a week (for international terrorist/fugitive scenarios) and often as little as six hours in more conventional, but more intense murder investigations. The scenarios here are always crime mysteries and pit the players against complex simulations of criminal and terrorist activity.

GAME BOY GIVEAWAY

Yay! Not just one, not just two, not just twenty...FIFTY

Game Boys are up for grabs as ACE and Nintendo celebrate the console's UK launch

Picture the scene. It's Christmas Eve, and down the corridor your kid brother is waiting eagerly for the clippety-clop of cloven hooves and heavy breathing down the chimney. Could Santa possibly be bringing him a passport to endless portable gaming pleasure??

Who cares. Because YOU, your lucky dog, have already got your mitts on your very own Game Boy, thanks to that superlative ACE/Nintendo competition in issue 39. When howls of disappointment echo down the corridor (as Kiddo unwraps his pair of fluorescent nylon socks), the only sound that will come from your room is that of dancing Russians celebrating Level 9, handi-cap 5, in Gameboy Tetris. Ho, ho, ho...

IT COULDN'T BE EASIER

Yup, even sickeningly selfish dreams like that can come true. All you have to do to get into the running for one of these superlative little hot-boxes is follow the instructions below. Nintendo are very generously giving away 50 Game Boys and to celebrate we've produced our own Game Boy Companion (mounted on the cover of this issue). Read it carefully: if your smart, it could unlock the secrets of the competition!

Right. Here's the nitty gritty. On these two pages you will find a short narrative report concerning one of the country's most influential personages. You will note that five words have been missed out. All you have to do is jot down each missing word on a postcard as instructed in the HOW TO ENTER BOX. It's as simple as that! So get to it, and you too could be going ping-ping-whizz instead of plink-plink-fizz in the New Year.

HOW TO ENTER

Here's how to enter the competition. It couldn't be easier....

1. Get yourself a blank postcard.
2. Read our very silly story, Game Prince Charlie. There are five words missing. Each missing word is numbered in the text.
3. Use your immense skill and awesome judgement to determine what the missing words are. Your cover booklet The Gameboy Companion will help with some of the answers. The booklet is free with this issue - if it was missing when you bought it, check with your newsagent.
4. Write down the five missing words, together with their numbers, on the postcard. EG 'Word Number 1 is Philip' and so on.
5. Write down your name, address, and (if possible) a daytime telephone number.
7. For our information (this is not part of the competition and is optional) tell us (a) which bit of this issue you liked best and (b) which bit you liked least.
8. Check the entry rules below, then post the card to:

ACE Gameboy Competition
Box 1
30-32 Farrington Lane
London
EC2R 3AU

RULES

- a) Employees of EMAP Images, Nintendo, and anyone involved in the manufacture, sale, or distribution of their products are not eligible for entry.
- b) Closing date for entries is 7th December 1990
- c) The winners of the 50 free Game Boys will be the first 50 correct qualifying entries drawn at random
- d) Entries MUST be addressed as shown above. Incorrectly addressed entries will not be entered into the competition.
- e) Only one entry per household.

ZAP!
This guy didn't collect his Mystery Bonus Voucher from the last issue. He has paid the price. But if you gave yourself our special 'unfair advantage' you can use it to boost your prize earning potential. Find out more on page 178.

GAME PRINCE CHARLIE

Dawn was poking its cheery face over the trees at the bottom of the garden as (1) stirred sleepily in his four poster bed. Somewhere in the distance came the disgruntled yap of a Corgi, followed by a yelp of pain. Old Cobbett was up to his tricks with the dogs again, shattering the fragile peace of early morning.

Charles turned over in his bed and slipped a hand under the pillow, feeling the reassuring bulk of his (2) where he had slipped it the night before, exhausted, after a vigorous round of Paperboy. Such larks! Despite the early hour, he felt a shiver of excitement as he contemplated the day ahead. Breakfast with Diana, followed by a few quick rounds of that Russian thingie, (3), which should put him in a good position when he met that Gorbys fellow for lunch.

If only Diana could share his new found enthusiasm for advanced computer entertainment, mused Charles, as the butler entered with a cup of tea, a charcoal bikkie, and a spare set of batteries. The irony was that whereas the sprightly sound of dancing sprites brought spring to his heart, it appeared to send Diana screaming out of the room.

Surely some of the games should take her fancy? What about (4), where you had to collect the diamonds - positively oozing Princess appeal, one would have thought. But no, she absolutely refused to play ball, or anything else, for that matter.

Absentmindedly, he slipped the Game Boy out from under his (5) and fingered the switch, his restless soul eased by the innocent 'ping' as the machine booted up. How clever he'd been to persuade that Nintendo chappie to let him have one of his very own!

And what a pity that the fellow hadn't had a spare to give to Diana! And how absolutely spiffing it was to be able to show her how jolly good he was getting at all those games! Strange, though, how offish she'd been recently...

NINTENDO HOTLINE

If you've got a Game Boy, you'll be pleased to hear that Nintendo have launched a UK Helpline. There are two numbers you could call. The first is 0626 65300 and has three operators to handle general enquiries. Then, from January 1st 1991, 0232 625652 will be open for club queries, new release information, and playing tips. Nintendo hope to build up the second number with as many as 20 operators by the end of 1991.

£1000 OF SOFTWARE STILL TO BE WON!

Last month's scratch card competition was one of the most popular we've ever run. And there are still some prizes to be claimed: including the £5000 first prize. That means that SOMEWHERE there's a card lying about that could revolutionise your gaming career! And there are still many free games left to be claimed. *

Meanwhile, here - as promised - are the contents of the 0898 numbers. There's still lots of time to get your claims in: the deadline is November 30th (1990, of course). Overseas readers (who may be unable to connect with the 0898 service) should check the number on their card with the list below.

● If your card bears the message WINNER 0898 334 301, you've won a discount off a game from the OCEAN list printed in the last issue.

● If your card bears the message WINNER 0898 334 302, you've won a discount off a game from the US GOLD list printed in the last issue.

● If your card bears the message WINNER 0898 334 303, you've won a discount off a game from the MIRRORSOFT list printed in the last issue.

● If your card bears the message WINNER 0898 334 304, you've won a discount off a game from the MICROPROSE list printed in the last issue.

● If you get the number 0898 334 305, you've won either a free game or - yay! - £5000 worth of software.

Follow the instructions given on pp66/47 of the last issue to claim your discount or prize.

list this Christmas!

Sega's hack'n'slash coin-op, Golden Axe, is a very popular coin-op thanks to its simple gameplay and gorgeous graphics. And any arcade success must be converted. First came the critically acclaimed Megadrive conversion, now Virgin has turned Golden Axe into micro-code on the Spectrum, C64, Amiga, ST and CPC. So are you ready to slash some sprites and hack without hesitation?

Once upon a time in a strange kingdom filled with fire-breathing tax-collectors, an alliance of three brave warriors began a deadly quest for the Golden Axe. This is their story. The fair land of Yuria has been thrown into a state of chaos by Death Adder and his army of monster thugs. After savaging defenceless villages, this evil reptile has kidnapped the King and beautiful princess. Only one thing stands between Adder domination and lasting peace – and that's you.

Golden Axe is a six-stage horizontally-scrolling hack-everything-to-death beat'em-up. You (and a friend if you opt for the simultaneous two-player option) start the game by choosing to be one of the aforementioned warriors: Ax-Battler, Gilus-Thunderhead or Tyrus-Flare. Armed with a sword or axe, your warrior has a full complement of combat manoeuvres such as punch, stab, slice, body twirl, body slam, kick and head-butt. Your Hit Meter shows how many hits you can take until you lose a life.

In addition, each warrior has an individual magic spell which you use as a 'smart bomb' to destroy all your enemies currently on-screen – though some may survive the devastation. The power of the spell depends on the amount of magic pots you're carrying (shown at the top of the screen). You collect magic pots – and bars for extra strength – by 'mugging' little Elves who appear throughout the game.

Warriors of the wastelands. These are the guys you can control: Ax-Battler the Barbarian heard his mother's final screams and she was put to death by Death Adder – now he wants revenge. Ax-Battler

TOTAL DEMENTIA

Dementia was the software development team in charge of the converting Golden Axe onto the Amiga. Richard Costello wrote the code and Kevin Bulmer produced the graphics. Additional graphics were provided by Mark Knowles and Adrian Carless. "Golden Axe on the Amiga is a hybrid of the Megadrive and coin-op versions," says Costello. "Everybody says the Megadrive version is identical to the coin-op, but it isn't. The Amiga version shares the coin-op's sprite designs but obviously doesn't have as many colours." The Amiga conversion has a two 16-colour palettes for the sprites and backgrounds. The blitter and 58000 work overtime to produce a game that runs within a frame – 960 'blits' are performed every 1/50th of a second. "It stretches the boundaries of Amiga games," confidently states Costello. Costello even reflects the sprites in real-time. Golden Axe on the Amiga even includes subtle colour-changing during the six-stages. Some more Amiga Golden Axe tech-specs: over 800 sprite animations, max. sprite size of 64x96 pixels, 18 sound FX (including upperscut hit, pommel, hitting the ground and female/male scream) and 6 soundtracks (incorporating such classic tracks as 'Wilderness' and 'Pass of the Fiend'). Surprisingly Costello thinks Golden Axe has a lot more depth than the normal fighting game. He previously worked on Mask and Ramrod for Gremlin, Hot Rod for Activision and the C16 version of Way of the Exploding Fist for Melbourne House.

Axe

As VIRGIN goes on a coin-op hack attack, Rik Haynes is there to pick up the pieces

ACE PREPLAY

Amiga Golden Axe FOR:

- Very close to the coin-op and Sega Megadrive versions.
- Bright colourful sprites.
- Has a neat 'arcade' feel.

Amiga Golden Axe AGAINST:

- Gameplay lacks variety and quickly becomes repetitive.
- Like the original coin-op, the game does not possess any depth.

can command up to four levels of Volcano Magic. Tyrus-Flare is a tough Amazon warrior, the last surviving member of her jungle tribe. When she's really angry she can command up to six levels of Fire Magic. Gilius-Thunderhead lost his twin-brother in a fight against Adder's soldiers. His speciality is somersaulting and scorching his enemies with up to three levels of Lightning Magic.

Battle beyond the sprites. Between a walk in the woods and the final confrontation with Death Adder, you meet Twin Brutes, Lizard Women, Skeleton Swordsmen and Bizarrians – Death Adder's riding-beasts. If you knock an enemy off the back of a Bizarrian, you can mount the creature yourself and spit flames and twirling fireballs, or wallop people with its tail. Golden Axe even includes a Turtle Village, though fortunately there's no sign of any teenage mutant ninjas.

Probe handled the micro-conversions of Golden Axe. The Amiga version of Golden Axe was written by Dementia (the software development team responsible for Core's ACE-Rated Corporation). David Whitaker provided the music, and three graphics artists worked on the game. David Shea programmed the Spectrum and CPC conversions, with graphics by Jason Green and music by Sound Images. The Design Team (the same guys who produced the C64 version of Turbo Outrun last year) wrote Golden Axe on the C64 – Mark Kelly programmed, Steve Crow designed the graphics. Golden Axe's manual was even written by ex-ACE editor Graeme Kidd.

ACE played the near-completed versions of the game on Amiga (see the Pre-Play panel further details) and CPC. Golden Axe on the Amiga is very close to the original coin-op. All the important features have been included and the graphics and sound bear a close resemblance to the technically-superior arcade machine. The CPC version suffers a little in the scrolling department (it's a bit jerky) but has colourful, detailed sprites and backdrops. ACE's only worry about converting Golden Axe onto micros is the original's lack of gameplay variety and depth. But as Neil Young (Software Producer at Probe) points out, "Our brief was not to enhance or modify Golden Axe, but stay within the limits of the target machine". Golden Axe may only keep you hooked for hours instead of days or weeks. Still, you'll have immense fun slashing and bashing creatures from a fantasy world, especially during the simultaneous two-player option – you can even hack each-other to bits!

The problem with life is that you only live it once.

One lifetime of experiences, one lifetime of fun.

And that seems a little harsh.

As the leading force in simulation software, we try to expand horizons at MicroProse. So, this Christmas, we're giving you three different lives to live. Three stunning experiences. Three lots of fun.

THE PAST

The date is 1914, and you are a British, American or French flying ace of World War I, attempting to take out Axis pilots in hair-raising dogfights and shoot down Zeppelins before they can cross the channel. "Knights of the Sky" is historically accurate, allowing you to use more sophisticated and powerful aircraft as you move towards 1918, navigating by map and compass, just like the real aerial combat pioneers of seventy five years ago. You can even end up challenging the the best hot-shot pilots that Germany could put into the air, such as Oswald Boeckle, Max Immelman, or even the great Baron von Richtofen, the Red Baron himself. "Knights of the Sky" features MicroProse's acclaimed 3D graphics system, further enhanced and improved, taking the flight sim genre into a whole new era. Available initially on IBM PC compatible machines, Atari ST and Commodore Amiga versions will follow shortly.

THE PRESENT

The 1990's are the age of international crime, terrorism and espionage - and you are the clandestine superspy charged with travelling the globe to combat these forces in MicroProse's new techno-thriller, "Covert Action". Using the latest electronic bugging techniques, high tech intelligence sources and good old fashioned clue hunting, its up to you to identify the ringleaders and bring them to justice. Become expert in wiretapping, decipher acquired information with the aid of sophisticated code-breaking programs, and use surveillance to complete the picture. And if your technological know-how, cunning and luck ever let you down, you've always got the latest combat weapons such as CS gas, stun grenades and compact sub-machine guns to help you out. Across Europe, the Middle East and Central America, with 16 cities to cover in each area, you'll have your work cut out to make sense of the allegiances between numerous terrorist groups, known political activists and foreign spies, all undertaking "Covert Action". Available for IBM PC compatible computers.

THE FUTURE

The end of the 21st century. The Earth is an ecological wasteland. Nuclear meltdowns, climate alteration, species extinction; all have taken their toll. Humanity must evacuate its mother world, to give the Earth time to recover from the devastation wrought by past civilisations. The human species has left Earth in immense transport ships. You are the pilot of a Trailblazer series dreadnought, sent ahead of the main ships to prepare an alien star cluster for human colonization. You must find a planet suitable for humanity and obtain the resources the fledgling colony needs to survive, by mining them from unclaimed worlds or through interplanetary commerce with friendly aliens. You must make the cluster as safe as possible for human families by making friends and eliminating enemies. Flying at incredible speeds through deep space, the many lifetimes you encounter will see you, quite correctly, as the alien. "Lightspeed" is MicroProse's first space simulation and it is one which will set new standards by which others will be judged. Original music scores and the latest in 3D light sourced graphics provide the stunning technical backdrop for your journey as you fight, trade, and talk your way towards your goal of finding a new planet for your people. "Lightspeed" will initially be available for IBM PC compatible computers.

MicroProse bring worlds to life.

An evil force of monster machines has risen to conquer the Galaxy. One by one the peaceful races of the Galaxy have been attacked and enslaved by the Cyborg Monsters. No race has the strength to stand against the power of the Cyborgs. One lone rebel rises from within the ranks of the mechanised monsters. Part dragon, part machine, the Cyborg Warrior fights back against the tyrant masters. The Galaxy has a Hero. Hope returns to the hearts of the people at the rise of the armoured champion they call 'ST DRAGON'.

Kick Off 2: looking good on a state-of-the-art Philips monitor

Light Fantastic

Dutch giants Philips have produced just about every conceivable electrical device for the home, many of which have been innovative and influential.

Having made its presence felt in the computer market in previous years, (an early eighties console, PC compatibles and the like) Philips return with a successor to their immensely successful 14 inch colour monitor (the CM8833), with the MkII version. The original CM8833 has notched up over 2 million sales worldwide (four of them are in the ACE office) since its launch four years ago, enjoying success as a multi-functional monitor for both games and business-applications.

The latest model has been redesigned and upgraded with 1992's single European Market and compatibility firmly in mind. Fortunately for you, 1992 will come sooner than you think, because not only do the Dutch give us diamonds, cheese and tulips, but they give us monitors as well - 3 to be precise. All you have to do to win one of these sleek new screens, is discover all 12 words hidden deviously within the grid. Each is associated with the new CM8833/MkII and our thanks go to Philips and Mathieu Thomas (PR) for the prizes.

TECH-SPECS

The CM8833/MkII is compatible with a wide range of computers including the Amiga, Atari, IBM PC and laptop computers, and incorporates TTL digital, RGB analog and CVBS input signals (the first two for computer and the latter for video). Sound output is delivered in stereo and may be run through an in-built headphone socket. The 14-inch slotted anti-glare screen sports a CRT pitch of 0.42mm, a resolution of 600x285, line frequency of 15.6 kHz and 2000 characters per screen. The monitor can also receive TV pictures with an optional tuner, while a fast blanking feature allows superimposition of computer graphics over video images.

If all of the above means as much to you as a Bessel Function (7), what it all boils down to is a rather sexy monitor that gives you a clear, crisp picture and real stereo delivery.

SILICON STRIPS

...or silicon strip offs?

ACE investigates the latest batch of comic-inspired releases

Why can't a game be like a comic? Or, for that matter, why can't a comic be like a game? There have to be some pretty obvious answers to these questions but, notwithstanding the obvious differences between games and comics, softcos persist in trying to borrow the glamour of the world's more successful strips and varnishing their products with it. Cinema, with its big budgets and star promotions, means that practically every software company under the sun has tried the 'interactive movie' marketing slant; comics, with their high graphic content, cult status, and cheap mass distribution, have a similar effect. So called 'interactive comics' go back a long way and, judging by the current batch of releases, have still got a long way to go.

But you've got to hand it to the softcos. They keep on trying. When you've paid heavy pennies for that comic license, you've got to make at least some effort to ensure that your program reflects the atmosphere of the great original.

Game designers and programmers have taken different approaches to this thorny problem, ranging from the bizarre to the ingenious. Remember Slaine, where the central figure had continual 'thoughts' scrolling above his head - you had to grab them as they floated past to get him to do anything. Weird, huh? Other approaches were more mind-numbingly literal: Melbourne House's Redhawk and Kwahl configured the screen as a comic strip in glorious monochrome. Frames scrolled past horizontally (and slowly) as Redhawk acted according to your commands. Yes, it did look terrible.

Judge Dredd makes a definite effort to mimic the original's graphic humour. That Fattie there is going to cause our hero serious damage on impact...

Spiderman's scenario is disturbingly similar to Jet Set Willy - but Spidey does get up to some impressive acrobatics.

Other softcos took a more relaxed approach. Take the hero, shove him in a scenario that somehow reflects his qualities or character, and damn the rest. Perhaps it's not surprising that this approach has resulted in the best games: the original Dan Dare from Virgin, to take one example - or Batman from Ocean. Very sensibly, neither of these games made any attempt to LOOK like a comic, and as a result they didn't play like one either. Just as well.

However, just because games like those weren't bad because they put gaming first and comic presentation second doesn't explain why they were any good. With that question in mind, we've checked out the current comic releases and tried to determine what makes a good comic license...if there be such a thing...

ATMOSPHERE

First, comics succeed when they generate atmosphere. 2000AD (one of the most prolific licensors into software formats) once ran a strip (not one of its most successful) called Metalzoic - a tremendous epic of a time when the world was dominated by a robotic ecology and distinguished by almost no speech at all. Much of the strip was concerned with textless sequences of tumultuous action, generating bags of atmosphere but perhaps a little obscure for the little ones. However, that same atmosphere underpins the success of Judge Dredd.

BECOME A COMIC STAR!

We've got a great competition next month to celebrate our review of Rogue Trooper. Rogue Trooper artist Dave Gibbons will be conspiring with Krisalis to give you an opportunity not only to win some original Rogue artwork but also to star in it yourself! Don't miss it in the next issue of ACE, out Thursday 6th December.

Swinging on the rope with Spiderman... the screen combines puzzle solving with acrobatic timing problems. One sad point - the pace of the game is rather slow. One good point - there are lots of screens.

Rank sequences often end up with piles of bodies on the floor. Just like the original, but hardly startlingly original stuff in gameplay terms and Rogue Trooper. Any game wanting to capitalise on that has to have programmers and designers that are fully in tune with the original. Andy Wilson, one of the principal programmers of Dan Dare, was a rabid Dare fan. Coincidence? Surely not.

GRAPHICS

Graphic presentation is obviously a very important part of the comic recipe. Unfortunately it's highly detailed, with wide variations in colour (often monochrome). It's also, of course, static. Comic art styles could, however, be better implemented in screen designs than at present. Of the games under consideration, only Dredd and Spiderman (plus, judging by the demo disk, Hagar) really borrow the graphic style of the originals. A pity.

CHARACTER

Most comic strips have one central hero who's personal idiosyncrasies make him both attractive and compelling. Dredd may be the Law, but he also shows occasional self-doubt. Rogue may be half-machine, but he's also half-man, as his fantasies about his lost love frequently reveal. Rank may be all machine, but his exuberance is all human. Spiderman may be a super-hero but like Batman, he's also more vulnerable than most of his impervious companions. Any game scenario has to recreate that character as far as is possible in terms of both scenario and game objectives.

NARRATIVE

Apart from the above, the other essence-of-comic is straightforward narrative. A good story needs a good story. If your game simply consists of a series of bang-bang encounters followed by a congratulatory sequence then you haven't got a real story. Early comic games like Questprobe's Spiderman were pretty heavy on story - a pity they weren't heavy on gameplay as well.

Check out this spread for the rest of the story...

One technique to identify your game with the original comic production is simply to borrow the artwork look, stock, and barrel. Unfortunately, comic frames aren't designed with interaction in mind, so they tend to end up as intros to game sections. Here are three examples of static screens: two strangely similar ones from Dredd and Rogue and from Rank.

RANK

Ubisoft

ST, Amiga, PC £24.99 Imminent

C64 £9.99cs • £14.99dk

Rank punches his way through a decaying urban environment, accompanied by a slick user interface that enables you to interrogate bystanders and carry on limited encounters. The atmosphere of the game is a reasonable reflection of the original but the effervescent originality of the strip here is heavily compromised by extreme lack of originality in the punch/kick/grab scenario. The storyline, concerning plague medicine, is more complex than some other games in this section but fails to compromise for the otherwise standard fare.

ROGUE TROOPER

Krisalis

ST/Amiga £24.99 Imminent

Slick beat-em-up arcade adventure as you escape from the Nerts in an episode from the infamous 2000AD Nu-Earth futuristic war scenario. The slickness, however, hasn't contributed much in the way of originality and the colourful graphic design is rather a long way from the nihilistic atmosphere of the original. However, the programming here is certainly on a par with the best of the rest and the game combines some scrolling flight sequences with punch-ups and simple object-based puzzles. Nothing in the game, however, that really tells you much about the principal hero.

JUDGE DREDD

Virgin

Spectrum, C64, CPC $14.99 dk • £9.99cs

Amiga, ST £19.99 Imminent

Does a reasonable job of capturing some of the graphic humour of the popular 2000AD series - witness the Fatties in the screenshot elsewhere - and the backdrops seem suitably Mega City One-ish. Dredd can walk or mount his bike as he patrols the city and busts up crime situations by achieving simple gameplay objectives. The idea of keeping down the crime rate and blasting the perps is in tune with our hero, but this good news is drastically devalued by the gameplay which varies from the frustrating to the obvious but rarely seems even vaguely inspired. Neat packaging (e.g. Dredd's personal computer log-on sequence at the beginning) save this from total disaster.

SPIDERMAN

PC, Amiga, ST, C64, Spectrum, CPC £TBA

Jet Set Willy for 1990, but with a wall-crawling, web-slinging hero. Despite the appallingly outdated game style, in which you solve puzzles in a series of rooms before a final confrontation, the animation and control of Spidey really does conjure up some of the original excitement. Being able to walk along the ceiling also makes for some slightly more interesting puzzles. The graphic style isn't that Spidermanish, however, and the central sprite, although attractive in motion, is too small to carry graphic conviction.

HAGAR THE HORRIBLE

Kingsoft

Release details to be announced. Still only in demo stage, but the graphics are large and very much in the original style. An unknown at the time of going to press...

NEW ALLCOPY-SYSTEM
COPIES ALL AMIGA SOFTWARE

At last a backup-copy, which is easy even for the beginner to use. We have not found a single program whose copy-protections would have prevented making a backup-copy with Allcopy System.

The equipment functions as if it made a copy with two-base diskdrive. ACS (Allcopy System) does not mind even the most awkward codesystems. It accepts all formats. You must have an Amiga with an extra diskdrive in order to utilize the Allcopy-mode of the set. The low price, the many utility programs and the new generation copy-program all make the ACS a necessary investment even if you do not own an extra diskdrive.

WARNING: Because ACS copies all Amiga software it's use to copy and distribute commercial software is illegal.

The utility program set following ACS is usable even without an extra diskdrive. The set includes several functions which make the copyprocess and it's surveillance easier. One function different from other copy programs is being able to see from screen what kind of error was made and in which diskdrive, on which diskside and on which sector. This is possible whether you used your Amiga's own diskdrive or 3 extra diskdrives. ACS is at least as necessary investment as buying an extra RAM memory or an extra diskdrive.

The Final Assault

Games designer Matthew Stibbe concludes his mini-series on the design and coding of Domark's Nam

Janine Hodgson-Jones, graphic designer for Nam

*"And it's one, two, three, what are we fighting for?
I don't give a damn,
Next stop is Vietnam..."*

Country Joe MacDonald

Last month I described how I went about designing Domark's Nam. This month, as promised, I'll cover some of the technical issues that came up during the game's implementation.

In my last article I described the problem of designing a coherent and intuitive metaphor for a game. Nam uses the idea of a Presidential report including all the information needed to make decisions, a newspaper, and maps. The player makes presidential decisions by entering details into this report. Apparently even this was too complicated for President Reagan, who had to have video presentations and who made his decisions by ticking in boxes marked 'approved' or 'disapproved'. The military decisions are made by interaction with the map. It is easy enough to say all this in a game design document, but how to implement it?

This was the question I faced in early June of this year when I began programming the first Macintosh version of the game. I approached the problem by designing a prototype using 'Hypercard' which allows you to place graphics, text, scrolling lists, buttons and editable text on hypertext-linked 'cards'. Using this, and the graphics that Janine Hodgson-Jones had prepared beforehand, I came up with a working prototype that looked very much like the current version of the game.

I then took this 'stack' (as a Hypercard file is known) as a model, and implemented in 'C' (Think C V4.0 to be precise) all the basic user interface items that I had used in the prototype. This meant that I had to re-implement scrolling lists, buttons, text from scratch. Luckily the Mac ROM's give you a lot of help, if you don't mind reading the 2000+ pages of 'Inside Macintosh' II cheated because I have Apple's CD-ROM version which is much quicker than looking things up in the paper version's five volumes. Nevertheless the code for the user interface came to about 150k of source code, including all the code to buffer the screen so that redrawing appears instantaneous.

As I have been programming the Mac for over three years in Object Pascal and MacApp (a brilliant Smalltalk like object oriented environment for the Mac with another 2000+ page manual) I tried to make the code interface to this set of user interface building blocks as 'object-orientated' as possible. This means that it is possible to define as many screens and with as many different user interface bits and pieces as I wanted simply by giving short descriptions of what I wanted and where it should be. Some screens can be described in less than a dozen lines of code.

I originally designed and tested the models for the game in Excel (a Mac and PC based spreadsheet). I updated the models and tested the further using a fantastic programme called Stella which makes it very easy to model the kind of complex dynamic models used in Nam or Imperium. Programming the models was therefore simply a matter of taking the formulae from Stella and expressing them in C.

While the Mac version was being developed I received a great deal of help and advice from a small group of Beta testers, who were never slow with constructive criticism. I am sure the game is better for the help, but any faults that remain are, of course, mine! All the beta testing was carried out using AppleLink and CIX (both electronic conferencing systems - AppleLink is Apple's own network) to store test files, and to exchange comments about the game. Often I would upload the latest version at 7pm, and there would be comments on it by 9!

The PC version was started when the Mac version was nearly complete. I worked with another PC programmer, until he fell ill, and I had to complete that version by myself.

Even President Nixon dictated military strategy by ticking boxes on the reports from his advisors!

It was programmed using Microsoft C V.6.0. The biggest problem that confronted me with the PC version was how to re-implement the user interface code without using up loads of memory (which is at a premium on a PC thanks to DOS), and, more importantly, without spending days wrestling with video cards and screen modes.

Microsoft Windows, which initially I preferred, was ruled out because of the cost of bundling the four disk runtime version. After some searching and desperation I struck upon a software library called 'Metawindows'. Amazingly, this provides device independent graphics for the PC, and even more impressively does so using function calls that correspond parameter by parameter with the Mac equivalents. Thanks to this, programming the user interface on the PC took about two months. At first we used different coordinate systems for different screen modes - 640x480 in 16 colours for VGA, 640x200 mono for CGA and so on.

Once I added all the models and combat code, there was no room for the two offscreen buffers that I had used in the Mac version when running VGA. With some reluctance, I decided to adopt a universal 640x200 in all modes, simply varying the colour depth to suit the graphics card. This makes it easier to do some things, but having achieved a working VGA version it was disappointing to have to prune the programme like this. If anyone wants a VGA version that flickers, perhaps they might like to write me! Just kidding!

Luckily there are no such memory problems on the Mac, and so the Mac version will run in 256 colours on a 640x480 screen if you have the memory, otherwise it will run in mono in progressively smaller windows.

I cannot speak for Colin Boswell of the Kremlin who is working on the ST and Amiga versions of the game, suffice to say that I have seen the work in progress and it seems as faithful an implementation of the original as is possible, and that he is trying to take advantage of the individual machines where possible (for example using gadgets on the Amiga version).

Finally, I must add that I was sustained throughout the long development of this game by copious amounts of coffee, the wonderful source code management tools of Apple's Mac Programmer's Workshop, and (of course) a very scratchy tape of the Woodstock concert from the 60's, and especially by the recording of Country Joe and the Fish!

SOBERING FACTS PT 1

Between 1961 and 1973, 47,264 US servicemen were killed and 303,794 wounded by direct enemy action.

SOBERING FACTS PT 2

4 generals, 8 colonels, and 61 Lt Colonels died in action.

SOBERING FACTS PT 3

65% of injuries came from shrapnel fragments, 16% from small arms fire. 86% of those wounded survived thanks to swift medevac and advanced medical facilities.

SOBERING FACTS PT 4

Booby traps and mines deprived 10,000 victims of one or more limbs - more than WW2 and Korea put together.

THE WHOLE SAD STORY CONTD.

1967 was a year of big battles, and marked a major U.S. offensive in the South. However, the doctrine of area warfare, limited numbers, and the mobility of the enemy meant that the army had little to show for its efforts in terms of captured ground, or moral victory. Instead it had bodycounts, and captured stores and weapons. The American people were told that these meant victory.

In 1968, these myths were exploded by the Tet offensive. This was in many ways as ineffective as the American attacks made the year before. It was not so much the communists abortive attempt to start a military assisted revolution in the South, but its ability to mount nationwide attacks in strength that astounded public opinion. In the end it was a military disaster for the communists, the VC ceased to be an effective fighting force, and had to be bailed out by more and more NVN regulars. However, it was a great political, moral and propaganda victory. If the south Vietnamese did not rise in support of the Communists it was not because of their support for the Saigon government, but because of their resignation - there had been war in SE Asia since the beginning of the Second World War.

1969 marked a turnaround for the Americans. They began to look for a way to extract themselves from a war that was increasingly unpopular, and expensive. Indeed, many were convinced by Tet that it was unwinnable. 1970 to 1972 marked the phased withdrawal of American ground forces, and the emphasis on Vietnamization, whereby the armed forces of the south were expanded and equipped, regardless of their chronic inability to fight. It was ineffectual a sell out by the Americans, and I believe that they knew that South Vietnam would not long outlast the Peace treaty made in 1973. This, I think is borne out by the fact that no American assistance was forthcoming when South Vietnamese resistance crumbled when the North launched their final victorious offensive against the South in 1975.

One of the attractive full colour maps from the Mac version. You can dictate military strategy and tactics directly from these screens.

FIGHTING TALK - GLOSSARY OF 'NAM TERMS

Airmobility The use of helicopters to move troops.

Airstrikes Airborne indirect firepower.

Arclight A strike by B52 bombers - 3 bombers could flatten an area of 5 square km's.

ARVN Army of the Republic of Vietnam, army of SVN.

B52's Strategic nuclear bombers converted to carry up to 82,000 lbs of bombs.

Battalion See division.

Brigade See division.

Commitment A measure of material commitment; and hence political commitment to the war by all sides.

Corps area Pronounced 'core', these were the military regions of South Vietnam, starting with I Corps (pronounced 'eye-core') in the North and IV Corps in the South.

Division A division comprises 3 brigades, which in turn comprise three battalions. Each subordinate unit has its own HQ (NLF), in the case of the US HQ elements have been divided into their subordinate units. A name such as 10/12, would indicate the first battalion of the 2nd brigade of the 12 division.

PWA Free World Allies, units of SEATO (countries that fought in 5 Vietnam).

Game turn The shortest game turn lasts one week.

Ho Chi Minh The leader of NVN (trans 0 think) "the one who enlightens".

Ho Chi Minh Trail Supply lines through Laos and Cambodia to SVN, from the North.

I Corps The northernmost military region - pronounced 'eye - core'.

II Corps The area containing the central highlands.

III Corps Area containing Saigon.

IV Corps The southernmost area of South Vietnam, mostly marsh, and rice paddies.

Indirect Firepower Firepower coming from outside the combat zone - from naval, air, or artillery gunfire.

IndoChina The area of SE Asia - includes Cambodia Laos and the two Vietnams.

Khe Sanh US combat base, in the highlands of I Corps, also siege of Khe Sanh, in 1968.

My Lai Massacre of civilians, by US troops under Lt. Calley.

NVN North Vietnamese (the communists), also their army.

Outrages Events that are unpopular, and probably immoral - like My Lai.

Pacification US and SVN program, to "convert" the peasants - in the game the process of working out population control.

Rangers A type of US infantry unit.

RAR Royal Australian Regiment.

Regular VC These were the VC units that did most of the fighting, smaller VC units were confined to guerrilla operations.

Reserves A pool of troops, raised like ordinary units, used to replace combat losses - a way of representing the political cost of casualties.

ROK Republic of Korea.

Scenario A set of data that recreate the circumstances, in game terms, of a particular historical incident.

Search and Destroy Name of standard US military tactic - speaks for itself.

Stack A group of units operating together.

Strategic bombing Bombing of the North and the trail by both B52's and tactical bombers.

SVN South Vietnam also in this document the government of SVN.

Tet An offensive launched by the Communists, on the Tet holiday 1968.

Trail See Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Unit A military unit, in game terms the smallest is a battalion the largest a division.

VC Viet Cong (trans Vietnamese Communist) SVN guerrillas, sponsored by NVN.

UNDERNEATH THIS COMPUTER IS AN ARCADE FIGHTING TO GET OUT.

Underneath the respectable exterior of the new Amstrad Plus range of computers, lurks a monster.

And a few robots. And stacks of superheroes. In fact, a whole arcade full of games just waiting to be played.*

Because even though the 6128 Plus and 464 Plus are both serious computers (with free "BASIC" programming language) they're both ready for fun whenever you are.

Whether you choose the advanced, disk driven 6128 Plus or the cassette drive 464 Plus, you'll love the superb graphics palette, the stereo sound and your own paddle for total playing control.

Both computers also take instant loading ROM cartridges, so you get instant access to top rated games from the best software houses in Europe.

And they're both compatible with hundreds of CPC titles on disk and cassette.

You'll also get straight into the great high speed car game 'Burnin' Rubber' because it comes free with your computer. Both models come complete with a choice of stereo monochrome or stereo colour monitor and a full sized keyboard.

So if your Amstrad starts acting like an arcade, don't worry. Just play along.

ACE RATED!

Question: Is this game really going to grab me? And for how long?
Answer: the PIC curve – the heart of the ACE Rating System.

The PIC – Predicted Interest Curve

– is the most sophisticated reviewing tool around.

We on ACE know you don't just play a game – you experience it. The Predicted Interest Curve is the only review system that takes this all-important factor into account.

The curve is divided into six sections, indicating the player's adrenalin level after one minute, one hour, one day, one week, one month, and one year. And this can tell you a lot more about a game than just the interest levels...

For example, a high one minute rating means that the game must look fantastic and get you all excited from the word go. That means it's probably a good game to show off to the neighbours – who probably aren't going to pay attention for much more than a minute anyway.

The minute, hour, and day ratings can tell you a lot too. If there's a dip here, followed by a rise, you've got a game that may take a bit of getting into. Alternatively, the graphics may put you off for a while until the gameplay starts to grip. Check out the PIC comment for more details.

Finally, you've got the month and year ratings. The better a game holds up here the more deserving it is of your hard earned cash.

The packaging and presentation are mediocre, but after a few minutes the depth of gameplay really bites. Unfortunately a repetitive challenge means it's downhill from there on...

- The very fast multi-level parallax scrolling
- Excellent sound effects in the dentist's waiting room
- Gameplay in the 3D maze Barbican section

- Limited use of objects
- Over-frequent disk access
- Colour combinations in the bedroom scene

We won't rate a game unless it represents what you'll find on the shelves. If a game's not finished, we won't rate it. Instead we give it an ACE Preplay verdict panel that tells you how we think it's shaping up. In most cases, a full review of the finished game will follow in a later issue.

ACE AWARDS

ACE always awards seals of approval for outstanding software performance. If a game really breaks the boundaries in sound, graphics, or originality you'll see the appropriate ACE Award flash on the review. Unless, it's truly dire – in which case it'll get the ACE Turkey award. Software House: you have been warned!

ACE only awards this one to games of outstanding quality. A 900+ game is a classic title, recommended with reservation.

Originality counts for a lot these days, and any games that have it deserve a special mention. This ACE award is reserved specifically for these rare games.

One of the first things to grab you in a game is its graphics. Games that redefine the state-of-the-art get this seal of approval from ACE.

Sound is the 'forgotten' aspect of games – but can make or break them. ACE only awards this one to brilliant use of audio in a game.

Oigin must be developing a strong claim to the Software House of the Year Award. First, Ultima VI transformed the Ultima series with yet another quantum leap in playability. Then Chris 'Bad Blood' Roberts brought us the superlative Wing Commander and now – can you take it? – they've delivered another masterpiece. The only problem is going to be convincing you that it's as good as it is...

The problem's a real one and it arises because of the prejudices that many gamers have about Ultima-style games.

These prejudices fall into two categories. The first is based on actual personal experience of early Ultimas. These were graphically hideous and had extended, but very obscure, gameplay. You either loved them or loathed them. The second category belongs to people who lump Ultima games together with other pseudo-RPG and fantasy titles and who would rather get stuck into a more active scenario.

SAVAGE EMPIRE

The first category is missing out because the games have changed beyond all recognition. The second category are just missing out, period. Here's why...

Can this be true?? An Ultima game that's... gasp!...even BETTER than Ultima?! Yup...ORIGIN have come up with another fantasia of graphics, gameplay and long-term addiction

A quick glimpse of the intro – the end of a stunning slow scroll through the jungle! Welcome to the Savage Empire!

Aha! Lord British, you presume. The true sign of a great story-telling system is when the characters appear in different roles with no hint of tedious deja vu. And that's what you've got here...

THE ELEMENTS

What do you get in a game like Savage Empire? First, you get the Ultima VI software engine. This gives you a scrolling map window of considerable complexity, the ability to create and store game characters complete with their appearance and all statistics, a powerful icon-driven interface, and the capacity to process vast amounts of gameplay data. This engine can drive BIG games.

Gameplay consists of leading your 'party' (which may consist of between one and six members) around the landscape, entering buildings (displayed in high resolution right down to the cups on the tables) and encountering people much as you would do in real life. Unlike other games, these characters don't just sit there like parts of the furniture – under constant computer control every one of them is leading his/her own life and moving about the world just as you are.

When you encounter someone you can either ignore them, chat with them, or fight them. FIGHT as they would be in some other games we could mention – these options are powerful and complex. If you communicate, the other person may well have a lot to say and highlighted words in the text prompt you with subjects for further discussion. Characters may set quests, offer information, simply pass the time of day, solve puzzles for you, or even join your party and place themselves entirely under your control. You can't afford to ignore anyone.

COMBAT

Sooner or later you're going to bump into someone (or something) you don't like, or who doesn't

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Here are just some of things to check out in Savage Empire:

- Shamuru and Triolo
A couple of friends with suspiciously familiar sounding names. Can these be Shamino and Iolo from Britannia?
- Alidu
A beautiful princess of the Kurak tribe. Yup, you're in love.
- Toporu the Mad
He lives on an island and thinks his mind is a little blue rock. What's he been taking?
- Uruli Swamplands
There's a particularly unpleasant pet kept here by the Uruli – a tyrannosaur. You have to get past him – and past the charming man-eating things in the lake.
- Yunapotti
Yup! A robot! Just when we thought the whole world was swarming with nothing but dinosaurs, bloodthirsty tribesmen, and creepy crawlies, we get a real Tin Man. Put him together again and he may reveal the secrets of the Underground Empire that built him.

OTHER ULTIMAS

Since Origin seem to be THE software house around at the moment (Wing Commander, Savage Empire, and Ultima VI all in one year!), the question of format conversions is pretty important. Good news then, that Mindscape have established a European conversion team at the Origin headquarters specifically to cater for those of us the other side of the pond.

Ultima V, which we reported as a 950-rated Amiga update recently, was unfortunately delayed prior to final release but should be available as you read this. Amiga versions of Ultima VI and Savage Empire are under way – though the former needs to be finished before the latter can make much progress. CDTV and ST owners will not be neglected either – and expect more Ultima-type products for consoles too.

like you. In this case, you're into combat mode. Each of your party is directly under your control during fighting sequences unless you have previously set their combat status to include default tactics. There are four default tactics settings for characters in Savage Empire: CHARGE (rushes in and attacks nearest enemy); RETREAT (cops out); RANGE (stay back and used ranged weapons); and COMMAND (under player's command at all times).

A bout ends either when you or your opponents manage to flee/leave the area or when one party is destroyed. During combat you manoeuvre your party individually, concentrating on selected opponents that you choose according to the particular strengths and weaknesses of your own characters. You get frequent reports telling you how badly (or how well) the opposition are taking it. If you've been put off in the past by the sort of RPG fight routines in, for example, Bards Tale then check out Savage Empire because the system is infinitely better.

EXPLORATION

Exploration, like combat and interaction, is another extended opportunity for those of you used to simply wandering about a sparse map and grabbing the objects that litter the landscape. In Savage Empire the locations are not only graphically superb but are also choc-a-bloc with detail.

Close a window, the roof 'dissolves' and you can see inside – otherwise the interior remains a dark secret

Having a tussle with a Deinonychus. Methinks you and now-van-lole should get the hell out of there!

Not only is there lots to check out, but the various objects and larger items can all be manipulated, investigated, traded, used, repositioned and so on.

IN PLAY

The incredible thing about Savage Empire is that, in play, it's even better than Ultima. I suspect this may be something of a subjective supply (I) but I'm certain that for most people the scenario of the game is going to be vastly more approachable than the normal fantasy RPG set-ups we've had in the past. Even games like Wasteland, which have had wider appeal, have lost out because the scenarios have been killed off by the impenetrable game play and RPG jargon. You don't get any of that in Savage Empire – you just get a rollicking good yarn and a very meaty game system.

As a dedicated Ultima fan, I have to admit that I'm pretty taken aback by Savage Empire. I'd imagined a rather pale imitation of the previous games but instead Origin have come up with a winner. Even the close-up scrolling map, which I didn't like as much in UVI as the small scale display in UVI, works better in Savage Empire. That's an honour, who knows their way round Britannia will constantly feel hampered by the narrow field of view in UVI and be wondering where they are. In Savage Empire it's a whole new world and the large scale simply brings the experience closer.

Somehow, I found fighting dinosaurs and

THE STORYLINE

If there's one thing the Ultima software engine is perfectly designed for, it's telling stories. Ultima has some pretty complex narrative lines and it's a tribute to the system that Savage Empire comes across as being a completely different game. The story, with this software, is everything...

In this game, you enter into a classic Conan Doyle (Lost World, Allan Quatermain – yeah, you remember them...you're not that young!) style. There's initially some continuity with the Ultima series as you return from Britannia and meet up with a boffin who could help you unravel the secret of the moonstone you've returned with.

Dops! As plot would have it, there's a big bang and you find yourself with the Prof and a local journalist in a steaming jungle. A few yards away a doo-eyed beauty (that's Alela, who you've been having exotic dreams about, is about to be gobbed up by something that looks distinctly pteranodonish.

Naturally you save her tender bacon, but shortly after your hearthrob is (of course) snatched away by a positive brute of fellow called Darden the Huge.

When you come to after your confrontation with the chapie, you find that your friends and your lover are gone...

You're then faced with miles of jungle, ancient civilisation, giant ants, lizardmen, underground cities, and other delights. Go forth, get killed, enjoy...

You've entered a hut and someone seems to have slaughtered a tiger. Time to fill your inventory (top right) by checking out the pile of objects in the corner.

Isn't she daisy? The pteranodons certainly think so. You're own motives, of course, are entirely chivalrous

MARTIAN WORLD

Having seen how successful this reusing of the Ultima system has been, we were particularly pleased to hear that the next game in the Worlds of Ultima series should be available by next Easter. Called Martian World, it features a B-movie sci-fi scenario set on your favourite fantasy planet. Early reports say the storyline is excellent – stand by for more news in next month's ACE.

natives a lot more interesting than struggling with supernatural gargoyles. There's also far more variety in the social structures of Savage Empire than there is in Ultima.

This is a winner. I'm going native.

● Steve Cooke

PILOT 5 0

Even quicker to get into than Ultima VI because the scenario is – to non-Ultima fans – much more accessible. The controls are both fairly simple, given the complexity of the game and – provided you've got a mouse – the learning curve is nice and short. Once you're into the scenario the exploration element keeps interest high and even after that's learned the character development aspects will keep you playing for a very long time.

IBM PC

Superb 256 colour graphics. If you've got the hard disk, Speed thought you supported but don't expect anything beyond a barely enhanced scrolling of if you haven't got one. The system caters for those with limited disk space by offering you the choice between a compressed-but should be faster to load or a faster uncompressed one. Definitely better worth a mouse – the controls take longer to learn.

APPRENTICE

Attractive screen and music into the game nicely, and to start with, things set off really well. The game plays well and there's enough of a challenge to keep you going. But not frenetically or over enthusiastically. It's the game's complete lack of anything spectacular that mars your enthusiasm in the end, which is a shame because otherwise it's quite a nice product.

AMIGA

Camelot's pride and joy is worthy of a lot better than this. Disanted the sprites are attractive – but not overly so – and the scrolling is very smooth. There are a few happy in-game tunes, but the sound FX are far too flat. The only part of the game that is remotely original is the little player that pops out of your trousers, and the novelty of that wears off not even halfway through the game.

BUCK ROGERS

COUNTDOWN TO DOOMSDAY

S.S.I. give you the chance to join Buck Rogers and the rebels of NEO in the struggle against RAM domination

The year is 2456 and humanity has colonised most of the solar system, transferring the planets to suit his needs. Power lies with three international alliances, which – following the “The Last Gasp War” – have replaced national governments. Luna is owned by the Euro-Bloc faction, Venus by the Indo-Asian Consortium and Mars, seat of power among the inner worlds, by the despotic Russo-American Mercantile (RAM).

Earth, however, is in a bad way. Ruled for decades with cruel efficiency and an iron fist, mass pollution and war have taken their toll. In response, NEO [the New Earth Organisation] has been formed by a daring band of rebels to combat RAM's tyranny.

As fate and plot structure would have it, Buck Rogers is recovered alive from his frozen sleep and with his tactical genius and fearless daring he soon leads NEO to victory over RAM, who leave Earth after it becomes too expensive. Although NEO is now in control, RAM still attacks and, with a full invasion imminent, our heroes are desperate to build a defence force.

The game is in a similar vein to S.S.I.'s Advanced Dungeons and Dragons, Buck Rogers being the computer incarnation of TSR's role-playing game of the same name. The action starts with character generation. Each character has seven abilities (strength, dexterity, charisma etc) which are in turn modified by that character's racial characteristics. For example Martians (actually engineered earthlings for Mars) get a -1 modifier to their CON and STR values, but +1 to DEX and CHA. Other races include Terrans, Venusians, Mercurians, Tinkers and Desert Runners.

The next step is to pick a career class, the selection ranging from Rocketlocks to Engineers – all have minimum ability requirements and are open to only some of the races.

To personalise your character you allocate 80 skill points between various skills and advancement is achieved via the collection of experience points. Each time a character goes up a level you get an extra 40 points to add to any of his/her skills. With more than fifty to choose from you can create a varied party, ready for anything!

Combat occurs quite often and is fairly easy to get to grips with. Viewed from slightly above, you control colourful sprites which attack in a set order depending on initiative. This is a random value number modified by various factors including dexterity and surprise.

A varied arsenal is available although you start off with standard Bolt Guns, but as you progress you can upgrade to the likes of Laser Rifles and Plasma Throwers. Also possible is space combat. This too is controlled by a selection of menus, ramming being an option which can then be followed by boarding. To take a ship you must secure both the bridge and engineering sections. All booty is then yours and the team is credited with the salvage value. This account is used for ship repairs, fuel, and other necessities.

There are many locations ranging from Martian deserts to cavernous spaceships and all are inhabited in one form or another, some being hostile and others friendly. Control of your party's actions is via a series of menus with movement achieved by clicking the mouse on various parts of the 3D view.

Upon entering a room you are attacked by the evil RAM Termites...

...and a fierce fight ensues.

All the views are clearly presented with good shading and colours that help build the atmosphere. Most of the major locations are introduced with some really impressive pictures that further give the feel of the 25th century. Sounds include the usual PC beeps and whines although soundboards are catered for.

No-one expects a computer to beat a human RPG GM, but Buck Rogers succeeds superbly in its own right and is an excellent addition to the genre.

Most of the graphics are really done and some of the full screen pictures are excellent. That said, the overall graphics leave a lot to be desired with virtually no animation and the odd scene some close enough the game is well presented with a hefty box containing three disks, two manuals, and a Buck Rogers comic, which gets you into the game.

Get the Max

From the heart of Moraga in California, Maxis has produced some of the most original micro-computer software ever created. SimCity, the urban city simulation, and now SimEarth (can you manage a planet?) have taken the word 'micro-simulation' to a mass audience around the globe.

Maxis products are now available on a variety of machines ranging from the Spectrum and Amiga to the FM Towns and Super Famicom. But how did it all begin? Jeff Braun, President of Maxis, explains:

"Maxis started in 1987, it's a partnership between Will Wright and myself. Before Maxis I was involved with productivity software on the Amiga but I just didn't see that going anywhere. I then met up with Will at a party. He'd already written Raid on Bungeling Bay (see panel for further details). Will designed all the graphics in ROBB and had a system set up where he could just plop down factories and roads and build the islands you try to destroy in the game. While he was designing Raid on Bungeling Bay he decided it was more fun building the islands and cities than it was destroying them. This, coupled with the fact that his next-door neighbour just happened to be a knowledgeable urban planner with a stack of computer-model data from his university days, led to the neat idea of SimCity."

Will Wright, the creator of SimCity

"SimCity was finished in 1985 - it was originally called Metropolis on the C64 - but Will couldn't find a publisher, so we set up Maxis and converted SimCity over to more adult-orientated machines like the Macintosh. SimCity is now available on the Spectrum, C64, CPC, Amiga, ST, PC, Macintosh, FM Towns, Sharp X68000 and NEC-9801. It will also be available on the Nintendo Entertainment System and Super Famicom in January 1991. (Nintendo has actually bought these licensing rights for a reputed one million pounds, though Jeff was unwilling to comment - ACE). Before the Nintendo deal Maxis was just five people, now we've got over 35 people."

Where do you go after simulating the planet Earth? Rik Haynes talks to Maxis, the company that brought you SimCity, SimEarth and soon SimCity2...

"The Super Famicom version of SimCity is being developed by the same team who created Super Mario Bros. 3 - it's a beautiful product. The Super Famicom implementation will be the best version of SimCity with more 'gamey' features. It has animated ocean waves, a see-through menu system, and gives user-defined names to objects in the cities like the ACE Suspension Bridge for example."

WILL THERE BE A FOLLOW-UP TO SIMCITY?

"As soon as SimEarth is finished, we're putting the same team on SimCity2. A lot of the features in SimEarth will appear in SimCity2. We'll have elevation - mountains and valleys. We're going to have a much bigger area and multiple cities, it will be almost like a county. We're not certain how these cities will interact yet, but we're talking about a multi-player ability, so you can be mayor in one city and your friend mayor in another. There will be some kind of conflicts where there's a county tax-rate, and one city might be industrialised and the other more commercial so there'll be some tradeoffs. The budget window's going to

NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK

Maxis is introducing two packages of SimCity Graphics as add-ons to the original SimCity. Graphic Set 1 - Ancient Cities gives you Ancient Asia, Medieval Times and the Wild West. Graphic Set 2 - Future Cities provides Future USA, Future Europe and Moon Colony. In addition to building your own cities, you can superimpose each of the six venues on SimCity's pre-built and play wacky combinations like Moon Colony San Francisco, Wild West Tokyo and Medieval Detroit. These data disks cost £19.99 each and are available for the Amiga, ST, PC, Macintosh and FM Towns.

be much bigger, it won't be just three services - you'll have things like managing the sewers, water supply and waste disposal. There will be education and schools. We'll also have freeways, roads, rail, light rail and heavy rail - so there'll be a lot more transportation. We're going to add a lot more city services so that it's more realistic. We're going to have multiple-layers such as subway, sewer, city and high-rise levels to the city. You'll be able to zoom through levels of the terrain."

"SimCity2 will be set through time, you'll see the city evolve. You can play it in any time-scale, you can start in medieval times and work your city all the way up to future times. The graphics will change over the years. We'll put in more detailed information about the city, we'll have more statistics."

"With SimCity2 we've opened up the model so you have these toggles where you can change variables. For instance, you can change the relationships between land-value and crime, traffic density and population. You can go in and try your own rules. We're working on the specs now. SimCity2 will be a completely different type of game to its predecessor. It should be ready sometime next year."

WILL YOU ENHANCE THE CDTV VERSION OF SIMCITY2?

"Yes, we'd like to include some hypercard-type stacks in the CDTV version to give you a lot more information about the product. We'd also like to have experts who analyse the city for you - you'd also be able to ask them questions. We might commission some famous urban planners. For example, if the crime-rate is high they might tell you how to help the city combat it. We're looking at a lot of different ideas of how we can fully exploit the CD-environment. Hopefully we'll have more graphics as well."

SimCity has been nominated as the Best Contribution to Urban Planning in the United States by the American Planning Association.

Two mayors who were running for an election in a small town in America played SimCity for a night to see who would get the best score.

Maxis will be working with Bullfrog (the creators of Populous and Powermancer) in the future. You'll see something from them within the next year.

The crazy guys at Maxis.

Super Famicom version of SimCity.

SimCity on the Super Famicom.

RAID ON BUNGELING BAY

The game that inspired Will Wright to create SimCity is a very playable 360° scrolling shoot-'em-up. This mid-80's C64 title - released by Broderbund - also requires a fair degree of strategic thought. During the game you pilot a helicopter on a mission to stop The War Machine by destroying the production of its six war factories. These heavily defended buildings are scattered across islands spanning an area of 100 screens. You have five hellicraft to accomplish your mission, each carries an unlimited supply of missiles and nine bombs. You can repair and reload with bombs at any time by landing on your carrier - which you must also defend against attack. The bombs can hit everything except airborne targets, while the missiles destroys everything except the battleship and factories. The battleship is built on one of the islands during the course of the game. You can delay its construction by bombing it, but once it's built the battleship will put out to sea and head for your carrier. It eventually attacks and sinks your carrier if you don't sink it first. If your carrier is sunk, then the helicopter you're flying becomes your last and you cannot repair damage. You can still reload by finding bombs located on some of the islands. Apart from the battleship, The War Machine has a formidable arsenal of tanks, boats, anti-aircraft guns, fighter planes and radar installations, and bombers. Tanks and boats supply the factories and increase the rate of production, anti-aircraft guns cause heavy damage and normally protect factories and radar-posts. The fighter planes will chase and fire at you until you lose or eliminate them. The radar installations on the ground aid the fighters in locating you. Bombers occasionally attack your carrier, when this happens you receive a warning message and a limited amount of time to return to the carrier and shoot the bombers down before they sink your carrier. If you destroy all six factories, you see a newspaper headline story describing your victory. Raid on Bungeling Bay is definitely an ACE Classic. If you see it, buy it. The game was one of the first licensed titles on the Nintendo Famicom console and sold over one million units in Japan.

POWERMONGER

Populous was billed by some as the ultimate God game – now ELECTRONIC ARTS step down from the dizzy heights of deity to wage war as a Powermonger Previewed in issue 37, Powermonger may have been seen as the follow-up to the incredibly successful Populous – this is not the case. Programmed by Bullfrog, Powermonger is indeed a game of conquest and strategy, but places you in the role of an exiled warrior with twenty men under your command. You're out to establish yourself, having come ashore on strange and foreign islands. To reach this somewhat formidable goal, you must successfully conquer each of the 195 areas that make up the world of Powermonger.

As you progress, the status of your leader (displayed as a large character behind the main play area) will vary according to the orders issued to each character under your control. As with Populous, each of these characters moves independently unless specifically commanded, although success inevitably depends upon certain orders being issued.

Unlike Populous, the range of controls does not extend to causing 'natural' disasters, revolving instead around husbandry (livestock, dependent plantlife), invention and the odd battle or two. Whilst earlier islands are relatively easily won by force, many inhabitants are less than prepared to submit, preferring to either trade, bribe or persuade in order to gain alliance – (which of these methods you should employ may be decided by spying on opponents to discover weaknesses or requirements) – for instance, other leaders may have advanced their weaponry and supplies beyond yours, when your own troops may be starving and inadequately armed.

Before attempting any destruction, you must commission and equip an army. Having done so, you may then select from 3 levels of aggression (for posture), pick your destination, launch your attack and observe the resulting battle. A defeated captain will be directly under your command and may subsequently lead an independent body of followers to further your regime, (although orders are sent via pigeon, so take some time to be carried out).

Physical opponents aside, continually changing weather may wildly alter your intended course of action, or even render plans completely useless, (try mounting an attack during the winter and watch the driving snow discourage your armies to the point of desertion!) and coupled with various geographical structures, often pose considerable problems. For example, any attempt to attack from either an open plain or the top of a hill will see your chances of success decrease, as the enemy will have observed your intentions and preplanned defences. Alternatively, attacking from the cover of a forest or the brow of a hill increases your chances of success due to your having the element of surprise!

The complexity involved in producing the fully manipulable polygon landscapes that make up Powermonger's 195 areas, must be regarded as an achievement. The zoom and rotate facilities are not only excellently implemented, but add an extra twist, allowing full views of each game aspect, geographical and otherwise. Icon control is easily learned, although mastering the game itself will take considerably longer.

Graphically, Powermonger is in a class of its own. Not only are there thousands of independent characters (all well designed), but elemental disruptions and dozens of land formations combine to provide variety and maintain interest. Colour is appropriately used to enhance realistic scenery. Sound is both realistic and informative and nearby activities may be recognised aurally, so influencing a player's actions.

A sublime example of the art of computer gaming, and an essential purchase.

● Alex Ruranski

General appearance and techniques behind Powermonger keep it all consistently high, with its extremely pleasing, dense, many hours of play. The dip towards a year comes as a result of possible overexposure – the same complaint some aimed at Populous. However, this will fade some serious time to near its head.

THE IMMORTAL

EA prove that sometimes dead is better

If I were to tell you that Will Harvey's (author of Zany Golf and The Music Construction Set) latest, The Immortal, was a top quality arcade adventure, you'd probably be very interested. If I were to tell you that it had, in the words of the guy who wrote the packaging blurb "movie-quality animations", no doubt your palms would sweat a fair bit. If I finally followed up by telling you that it only has around 50 locations, your enthusiasm would no doubt collapse in a sobbing heap. But if to you hardened gamers out there, 50 screens seems like a pitifully small amount, let me tell you that this is no easy ride.

The plot is a standard one of goblins, underground mazes, rescue and magic scrolls. The game itself, however, is anything but standard. In terms of gameplay, design and presentation, The Immortal is in a class of its own.

You are a wizard on a quest to find and rescue your teacher and master, the Grand Wizard

A warrior lies slain: and so will you if you don't watch your back!

The inventory screen. Selecting an item will either use it or drop it.

The glorious screenshots on the back of the packaging easily cover for the lack of an intro screen, and your anticipation is well rewarded upon loading. The game starts tough and gets tougher, but is never frustrating. You learn a lot more each time you play, so you don't mind constantly restarting. The only problem is that as soon as you've finished the game, there is no incentive to play again.

ATARI ST
ACE RATING	910
If I said the graphics were anything other than fabulous, it'd obviously need no head swimming. Realistic and smooth, they only suffer in being a little too slow. The sound is as little as it gets, but it's more than made up for by an already highly atmospheric game. A lasting product, and if it doesn't appear to you, then you're probably brain dead!

Mordamir. The underground complex you have to travel through contains eight levels full of Goblins, Trolls, secret traps and all manner of puzzles, presented in isometric format. You begin the game totally unarmed magically, with only your wizard's staff for protection.

As you traverse, you find an assortment of items, be they locked away in chests, lying on the floor or hidden on the bodies of your enemies, only reclaimable when they lie dead. Even though some items may seem a little pointless, such as the bottle of water, every item in the game has a use. The key to progressing is working out what to use and where.

The lack of an intro screen was a little discouraging, but as soon as I begun the game, I realised why they didn't want to waste any disk space on something as minor as an attract screen. It seems as if every spare byte has gone into the graphics in the game. If ever a game could be said to have truly realistic animation, this is the one. Every movement made within the game by anything has been finely calculated to look as perfect as possible, right down to the swing of the wizard's robes and the glitter of the jewels.

In terms of the design of the game, Will Harvey and his band of merry men must have sweated blood. Every room poses a new problem, from following a secret path through a room laden with traps, to enticing some Will-O-The-Wisps to follow you into combat. All in all, you've got a game that'll lead you well into the early hours of next week.

One of the more endearing characters. Here, you have to try to persuade him to give you his gem.

BLUE MAX

ThreeSixty Pacific, Inc. is the American software developer responsible for the ACE-Rated Harpoon naval strategy game. Now this Californian-based company is working on simulations of WWI planes, WWII submarines and WWII bombers. Now that's a lot of WWs!

ACES OF THE GREAT WAR

"How good are your nerves at 2000ft with an armed Fokker DRJ on your tail? Forget glory... think survival," says '360'. Blue Max, Aces of the Great War, attempts to recreate the excitement and challenge of air-to-air combat over France during 1917.

You have the choice of flying one of eight classic bi- and tri-plane fighters from 'The War to End All Wars'. This realistic solid-3D flight-simulation is packed with features, including user-defined weather conditions, two-player head-to-head play options, instant replay, and multiple historically-accurate missions.

Blue Max is to be released this month on PC for £34.99dk - this version fully supports 256-colour VGA graphics and AdLib, Covox and Game Blaster soundboards. The game even features the soundtrack from the original George Peppard movie. Versions for the Amiga and ST will follow later this year.

MEGAFORTRESS

DAS BOOT

This German U-Boat simulation is based around the accounts of Peter Cremer, one of the three surviving U-Boat captains from World War Two, and technical source from the sensitive and absorbing TV mini-series.

"Sound, music and historical perspective combine to make this an intense and action-packed simulation," explains ThreeSixty. Das Boot incorporates missions in the Arctic, Norway, Gibraltar, Bay of Biscay and the North Atlantic as you attack sea, land- and air-based targets and avoid mine fields and depth charges.

BLUE MAX

Like the other games mentioned here, Das Boot is out now on PC (£34.99dk) with Amiga and ST versions available soon. "Scenes of confrontation between the sub and its enemies on the surface and in the air are vividly displayed in 256-colour VGA graphics and a full 3D world with multiple camera angles," states ThreeSixty.

Das Boot is basically an underwater version of Accolade's Ace of Aces flight-sim... which is hardly surprising as Tom Frisna, the boss of ThreeSixty, also happens to be the ex-President of Accolade.

FLIGHT OF THE OLD DOG

Based around the best-selling (but typically gung-ho) American novel, Flight of the Old Dog by Dale Brown, MegaFortress features a vintage American B-52 Bomber modified and armed with state-of-the-art weapons and avionics, a satin black finish for stealth avoidance, and go-faster stripes. This 'turbo-nutter' B-52 flies just 200ft off the ground at a hectic 600MPH, and is apparently capable of attacking any target in the world regardless of its location and amount of defences.

MegaFortress is a sophisticated flight-simulation available for PC (£34.99dk), and coming soon on ST and Amiga. During the game you take-on the roles and views of the pilot, navigaand American B-52 Bombers have in common?

tor, weapons officer, communications officer and electronic countermeasures officer. You have to attack a heavily-defended target on the Kamchatka Peninsula while warding off Soviet MIG-29 and SU27 fighters.

"You must employ planning, strategy and the ability to handle tremendous pressure under fire," reveals ThreeSixty.

Author Dale Brown actually collaborated with ThreeSixty's developers to produce the game. Brown was originally a U.S. Air Force Captain and participated in numerous top-secret tests and exercises for Strategic Air Command, including the Red Flag tactical combat exercise at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada where he took his FB-111 bomber over the speed of sound at tree-top level to escape 'enemy' fighters and ground-to-air threats.

BLITZKRIEG MAY 1940

IMPRESSIONS put history in your hands

The display fully zoomed out. You can zoom in for more detail on any section

On May 10th 1940 the German army launched its attack against the Low Countries and France. The plan was to trick the Allies into defending Belgium while the main weight of the German Army stormed through the Ardennes, crossed the Meuse and then struck out for the Channel. This would split the Allied army and cut its northern forces off.

The plan was largely successful and within a week the Allies had to retreat. The British Expeditionary Force decided to withdraw from Dunkirk on the 25th May and, by June 14th, Paris was in Hitler's hands.

The main reason for this success was due to the speed at which the German forces moved and the name 'Blitzkrieg' ('lightning war') was given to this form of mechanised warfare. In 1990, however, you get a second chance as Impressions put history in your hands and offer you the opportunity to send Adolf packing (in the May 1940 section) or to repeat his success (in the Blitzkrieg section).

Almost all of the game is played via a large four-way scrolling map showing France and the Low Countries. Also displayed are the major rivers and roads. Your armies take the form of square icons representing the units available to you. Different colours distinguish each of your armies which include Armour (tanks and other armoured vehicles), Artillery and Infantry, and finally Motorised Infantry (Vehicle transportation).

Each army has a percentage rating which determines its ability in combat. These ratings are altered depending on the unit type and terrain in which the battle is fought. Should a unit's rating fall below 45% it will be disbanded and combined with other units in the same army.

Terrain also effects movement, with each type costing a set amount of points. Armour, for example, has twelve points at its disposal, while Infantry on the other hand has only six.

Troop movements shown in close-up. No UM2 style topographical displays here...

The game can be played entirely by the mouse or keyboard depending on your preference and can be set at one of three levels. A number of facilities are available each turn. Issuing orders are the most important, here you can find out the status of all units in the army, current objectives and also current orders.

Also present are the Strategic Movement and Reserve options where you can resupply units and raise morale, along with sending support to armies with less than six units.

The game doesn't initially impress with its graphics but once you see your armies march into Belgium shattering the French, your interest builds and they become secondary to the game. Unfortunately there just isn't enough here to hold your interest and after winning both ways there's not a lot left, even with the three variable skill levels.

Graphics are rather functional and a bit garish. The scores are clear and the game is quite user friendly. There isn't any sound but this isn't really missed in a game of this sort. Feeling here that pushes the Amiga to its limits, although your army commanders do make quite intelligent decisions. This version however should be ready the same as the one available in the shops about now.

The units themselves can be varied in a number of different ways. For example, each army has three order settings, these being Attack, Defend and Discretion. Although not actually direct orders, these strongly influence the commander's decisions. Every so often a commander will make some comments, giving you some advice or informing you of his supply requirements, expecting you to organise reinforcements. Supplies depend on routes being available, with the type determining the amount getting through.

Combat is achieved by being adjacent to the opposing unit and damage is shown with a number depicting its new rating. Along with the factors mentioned above, Morale also plays a key part, raising effectiveness by up to 30%.

Graphics are functional and serve their purpose well, being both clear and logical, although they could have been made a bit more presentable with a better use of colour.

Blitzkrieg May 1940 is a good effort on the part of Impressions and, unlike some modern wargames, is very easy to get into. That makes it suitable for novice wargamers who fancy a spot of strategy without having any desire to don tin helmets and dig trenches in the front garden. For a dedicated soldier, however, the scenario and its implementation are too limited and, even though there are different skill levels, there just isn't enough variety to detain you at the Front.

IBM PC &

Set in the near future, as an alternative reality, BATTLE COMMAND is an arcade/strategy game in which the player controls a single "MAULER" Assault Tank in one of 16 scenarios (missions) in the ultra war fought between two dominant races in the NEW WORLD. The latest phase of the North/South war has been going on for over 10 years, with a stalemate eventually developing - a standoff between armies massed over a long dug-in battlefield. Such are the defensive capabilities of each side, full scale attacks are suicidal, so any offensive moves are, by necessity, small "behind the lines" actions performed by elite troops in specially designed vehicles. The Mauler is the latest such machine - capable of being lifted in and out of hostile territory by fast stealth choppers and armed with the most advanced weaponry the Northern scientists can devise.

Your girl-friend's left you and run off with your best friend. A witch doctor has put a hex on you. And you're stuck in the middle of the jungle. Thank PALACE.

VOODOO NIGHTMARE

Deep in the jungle, hunting for a temple. Watch out for the holes in the bridge!

Voodoo Nightmare is Zippo Games' final foray into the home computer market, sadly. From now on the authors behind such classics as Cosmic Pirate will be console only. So I loaded their farewell product with only one thought – will they go out with a bang or a squirt? A huge 3D isometric maze, cleverly disguised as a jungle, sets the scene as you search for five temples and the help of the five different gods who inhabit them in your struggle against a hex-dealing witch doctor. The jungle is over 500 screens large and also includes shops (for buying extra weapons such as knives and torches) and casinos, where you can increase your money (or fruit, as it is more commonly known).

MANUAL DEXTERITY

In a desperate bid to beat Origin at their own game of designing unusual manuals, Palace have released the style of the old Robert The Bear books to tell the story of the game. Artwork and text from Lorne Campbell and Simon Birrell adorn a book based around a primitive comic system, with two frames on each page and a short poem under each. Sounds ripe for bed time reading. Here's a little baster: "Boots Barker, his wife and best friend, Over the Congo one weekend Thrown to his death, can Boots be saved? I fear Boots' wife has misbehaved!"

Each temple follows the same lines: a small (only 50 screens!) maze of rooms filled with diamonds. The idea is to collect all the diamonds in the temple and bring them to the temple god. If you have collected all the gems, the god will present you with a pin with which to impale your voodoo doctor doll and a special power which you'll need later on in the game. To leave the temple, you need all the gems and some are in hidden rooms that can only be opened by killing certain creatures or by moving certain objects around, bringing a slight puzzle element into the game.

Once you have completed all five temples, you have to complete three special missions in the jungle itself, such as rescuing a lion cub, for the last of the eight pins. You then face the witch doctor himself in his massive underground hide-away – even larger than the jungle!

ISOTONIC CONTROLS?

The controls are definitely the game's weakest point. As with any isometric game, all the joystick directions have been rotated by 45 degrees with the fire button performing a standard attack procedure (if you have a weapon, you'll use it – otherwise you'll jump). For example, pulling down on the joystick makes your on-screen persona walk in a down-right diagonal. The problem is that, responsive though the controls are, the character moves far too quickly to be finely controlled, meaning that in times where precise control is necessary (e.g. trying to kill a spider by jumping on it) you end up racing around in uncontrollable circles. With practise you can get used to that, but mastering them is another matter.

Voodoo Nightmare is a well designed product, with an interesting storyline. I'm not too sure

As you begin the game standing in the middle of nowhere, you start more than a little aimlessly. However, the theft of a scepter soon takes hold, and thanks to the use of the game's hints, interest peaks as you near the end of the game – provided you keep playing that is – and finally disappears after you either give up or complete it, whichever comes first.

The graphics are bright and attractive, though don't really make use of the Amiga's subtle palette, especially when compared to Castles III. The musical sound is strictly limited to a few spot effects. The lack of scrolling is replaced by an awful 16-screen system that seems to display as small a section of the room as possible. That, coupled with the sluggish controls, leads to a poor enjoyment of the game.

Wing Commander

Wing Commander contains a wide variety of viewpoints from both inside and outside your fighter including: Chase Plane view which puts the camera directly behind your ship (you can choose how close to be). Battle view displays a long-distance view of an entire battle. Tactical view always keeps you and the ship you've targeted (or the most significant threat) in view. Missile view gives you a missile's eye view of the action, and hiding views which position the camera behind any ship in the area.

TRADE SECRETS

Wing Commander took 77 person months to be developed. Chris Roberts plus four other programmers provided the revolutionary graphics code found in the game, while four graphic artists designed the ray-traced and bitmapped screens and sprites. Audio was supplied by two composers and one sound-effects specialist, and three writers developed the gameplay scenario.

The absolute minimum time to complete the game — if you don't screw up — is eight hours solid playing. Wing Commander can be played as a straight-forward shoot 'em-up or advanced space flight-simulation. It's a sort of cross between Sega's Galaxy Force II coin-op and a classic 8-bit Atari game called Star Raiders. "You can develop your own style and tactics in Wing Commander," says Chris Roberts — the ex-Brit creator of the world's first cinematic space combat simulator. But he confides: "I prefer to fly by the seat of my pants". Afterburners are the key to successfully flying the four spacecraft found in Wing Commander.

You must master this function to get good firing positions against enemy ships. In fact, they're the only way to survive later on in the game.

Roberts moved to Austin, Texas in the States after programming the BBC computer versions of Ocean's Match Day and Stryker's Run for Superior Software. Shortly after arriving in this busy Texan town, Roberts started to work for Origin — the leading American software company responsible for the hugely popular Ultima series of role-playing games — who just happened to be based just around the corner.

Roberts has written Times of Lore, Bad Blood and now Wing Commander for Origin.

"I wanted to create a game with the movie-like effects seen in Battlestar Galactica and Star Wars," states Roberts. "I thought it would be neat to play around with military hardware while also developing the characters personalities in the game."

Roberts is currently putting the finishing touches to an add-on disk for Wing Commander featuring 12 missions and a plot to find a new Kirthi Dreadnought after it butchers one of your outer colonies. In the longer term, he will soon start work on Wing Commander II which will include such extra goodies as user-defined weapon selection, more complex personalities, camera replay function, greater variety of spacecraft to fly including bombers and different bases. "I want to make it even more like a movie," confirms Roberts. Wing Commander II should be released by the summer of 1991.

● Rik Hayes

This "Meatbiter" sequence is another example of Wing Commanders film-like presentation. Animated mini-movies show the progress of the war throughout the galaxy. Here Kirthi soldiers attack the Tervan Research Gallery on McRuff VI and mercilessly kill all your scientists.

Back to the safety of homebase... the TCS Tiger's Claw. You must accomplish one of the following before you can land: travel to any New-point, achieve any mission objective or kill at least one enemy ship.

The bar is the favorite gathering spot for the crew of the Tiger's Claw. You can even talk to people - you always find the bartender and, usually, one or two pilots in the bar. Talk with anyone you can - you never know who will have clues and information helpful to you.

Landing takes you back to the hangar, where you can see what damage your ship has sustained. From the hangar, you go to a debriefing where your performance during the mission is evaluated, and every significant mission or achievement is noted by Colonel Halcyon.

Playing the Traindium in the Tiger's Claw has. Select this view, gamestraining simulator and you're presented with the current histories and a selection of kinetic enemy spacecraft to fight. The Traindium unit is a safe, painless opportunity to learn the basics of flying and combat. Certain game functions - such as navigation and communications are disabled in the Traindium.

Another dramatic sequence of multi-colored explosions and floating debris...

You can communicate with any spacecraft in your vicinity - including the enemy. The Communications system intelligently determines who is eligible to receive a message from you and what messages you can send. Wingscape sometimes disorients but you can give them orders like Break and Attack, Keep Formation and Return to Base. If you activate Communications when you have an enemy ship targeted and a means of locating space. Sometimes attack enemy ships to you, drawing fire away from a ship you're protecting, or perhaps, saving a wingman whose ship has been damaged.

EJECT WARNING

CURRENT SPEED (KPS)

LEFT VDU displays a graphic of your fighter, showing your ship's status. You can cycle through screens (displaying damage your ship has taken). You can also change your ship's active gun and weapon display system.

FUEL INDICATOR

BLASTER INDICATOR shows the power level of your ship's active gun. Frequent use of the gun runs down your blaster power. Your gun will not fire if you have no blaster power. Guns recover power gradually and recovery is slowed if your shields are also regenerating.

RIGHT VDU is a multi-function display allowing you to display targeting (which indicates the status of the ship you're currently targeting), Range data and Communications (shows both your communications options and incoming video from other ships).

VIEWSCREEN

EJECT WARNING flashes if your ship has sustained significant damage. When the eject warning starts flashing, you must decide how serious the situation is and whether to eject or not.

ARMOUR & SHIELD INDICATOR shows the status of your ship's armor and shields. The indicator shows the status of the ship you're currently targeting, Range data and Communications (shows both your communications options and incoming video from other ships).

One of the four spacecraft you fly in Wing Commander. This Raptor heavy fighter is armed with 2 Neutron Guns, 2 Gatling Mass Driver Cannons, 2 Heat-Seeking Missiles, 2 Spectrum III (Image Recognition) Missiles, a Phoenix FF (Friend or Foe) Missile and Porcupine Space Mine.

What does it feel like to play a movie? The moment you load up Wing Commander, you know you're playing something special. Some of the best graphics and presentation are supported by playstation and add-on games. This cinematic combat sim won't keep you hooked for months, but this doesn't detract from the fact that Wing Commander is a game in a class of its own. Origin could become the software house of the decade.

GREMLINS 2

The start of level 2. That green blob is a gremlin on a skateboard Gremlins 2, the movie, received a mixed bag of reviews. Some loved it and some hated it, so Elite took a bit of a risk in signing a license that could never be described as a 'sure fire hit'. Sad to say, it seems to have been a gamble that hasn't paid off.

The game is based around five scenes from the film, with each level following along basically the same lines. You travel from left to right along the flip-screen level shooting the gremlins that appear randomly throughout with your trusty torch, or any other weapons that lie about waiting to be collected (including frisbees and telephone receivers!). At the end of each level there is a lift, which will only open if you have collected a special item (marked with a yellow G) hidden somewhere on the level.

Visually, the game looks like nothing more than a standard ST game – garish colours and poorly masked sprites. Each screen is composed of myriads of platforms disguised (badly) as items of furniture. Bonus items, such as weapons, extra lives and extra time (yes, it's a race against the clock) are dotted at various heights, and it takes planning to get into positions where you can reach them, as well as incredible reflexes to avoid the randomly appearing gremlins.

Here lies the problem. Put very simply, gremlins appear randomly on screen and move quickly. You hot on the trot too, but the joystick response is appalling. Gremlins can appear from either side of the screen at any time – even as you are about to walk off – and (surprise) contact kills – with unjustifiable regularity.

Even more annoying is an interesting little glitch based around a character called Shocker, who pokes out of electricity sockets and fires bolts of energy at you. He has a tendency to hang around the edges of the screen – no problem, but when you die, you are placed at the edge of the screen you died on. Therefore, dear reader, if Shocker zaps you at the edge of the screen, the game is almost certainly over. Since this little number crops up on Level 4, a certain amount of hair pulling is likely to ensue.

Without these playability problems, Gremlins 2 could have been a really good game. Unfortunately, it's...well...pretty evil.

● Tony Dillon

ELITE fed them after midnight!

Terrible controls start accessibility right from the start and, as you battle to save over the game, frustration sets in. You soon begin to realise that you may be wasting your time and after that any incentive to return to Gremlins 2 must be evidence of a total mad mind.

COVERT ACTION

Microprose involved in undercover espionage shock!

Well known for titles of truly monolithic proportions, Microprose has come forth with another in the range of these epic games, the strategy orientated Covert Action, in which you play the ultimate secret agent known as Max Remington. Dissatisfied by the confines of CIA training, Remington decided to go it alone in the World of undercover investigation - at which he excelled. Now, having worked for nearly every western Government, Remington is rumoured to take on only those cases he finds personally intriguing - the one exception to which is said to be those asked of him personally by the U.S. President.

Upon loading, the game runs through a short intro sequence after which you are presented with three options enabling you to either create or load a new or saved character, or to practice a skill. It's vital to familiarise yourself with the important areas of gameplay. These areas comprise of combat, driving, cryptography and electronics.

Combat is generally coupled with break-ins, whereby you must first select a point of entry. It relies initially on arming yourself adequately, depending upon the tension of the situation you are entering. Equipment includes a hand/machine gun, body armour, grenades, a

It is advisable that the camera is taken, in addition to available bug-ging devices, should the room prove fruitful. A smaller display to the right includes the area immediately outside where any additional activity (like approaching guards) is shown, and a figure showing depleting resources. Combat itself is only engaged if your unscrupulous activities are discovered by others - whereupon a swift hail of bullets drops them like flies. In addition to physical combat, Remington may set booby traps, achieved by placing a grenade in a strategic position whereby enemy movement will detonate it.

The second of the major skills, (driving) involves pursuit of a suspect through the city streets - having first chosen from four possible

FROM MICHIGAN TO MICROPROSE

Sid Meier, mainman behind Covert Action is rather more than just a programmer. ACE now presents a compact biography on the man... As a child, Sid held a fascination with history, science and game design. In 1976 he graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in computer science. Following his graduation, Meier began programming mini-computers for General Instruments Corporation, Business Systems Division. In 1980, Meier purchased an Atari 800 as he felt its graphic capabilities were well-suited to the games he so enjoyed. Later that year, he set up an Atari user group. Having played an aerial combat game in an arcade, Sid felt he could add more realism with software specifically designed for home computers. Sid entitled his creation HELLCAT ACE and from this, Microprose Software emerged. Sid's ideas that software should continually challenge the player, whether beginner or expert, were at the forefront then as they are now, acknowledged by such Microprose releases as F-19 Stealth Fighter, Railroad Tycoon, Silent Service (I and II) and M1 Tank Platoon. pursuit cars with varying speeds, handling and levels of conspicuously. Pursuit is depicted via large map to the left, displaying all the locations you've visited. To the right are two smaller, scrolling windows, the lower showing a more detailed map and the upper, a 3-D representation of the cars. Having reached your destination a menu of options is displayed, (depending on your state of play – practise or otherwise). During this section you also have the ability to arrest subjects, but be wary that they don't become too aware of your presence beforehand – or you may become the hunted.

Cryptography involves simply deciphering a message sent by an opposing organisation. This is achieved by entering the letter you wish to decipher, followed by your chosen alternative. Once completed, the translated message will invariably reveal clues necessary to the completion of your mission.

Finally, the electronics section involves studying a partially connected circuit linked to either a wiretap or a car tracer and several alarms. The objective is obvious – connect the active current to either a tap or a tracer without setting off an alarm. A time limit is imposed, after which an approaching guard will deter your attempts. ing information, whereas car tracing proves useful when following a suspect.

Besides each of the four major sections, Covert Action includes dozens of additional scenes, locations, possible actions and inter-linking requirements, giving the player enormous tactical scope. These include observation, (a menu from which any of the major skills may be reached) where you may watch a suspected building or suspect, and Intelligence, giving you the ability to scan local and international reports, accuse double-agents or access a crime chronology making collating evidence easy, as it is all stored by your assistant with whom you may liaise.

Each of the organisations encountered will have agents and branches throughout the World making travel vital, whether inter-state or inter-continental. Once having reached a destination, play continues as normal.

Complexity of gameplay has become synonymous with the Microprose name, something that Covert Action has bountiful supplies of. The choice of options provide a depth of play rarely seen. A choice of four skill levels; three mission areas (Middle East, Europe of the Americas), three basic crime-orientations (espionage, international crime or terrorism) and over a dozen of enemy operatives (at least half a dozen of which will be involved with each crime), Covert Action is a game that will take many hours of play to successfully complete.

● Alex Rusinski

Initial impressions may vary slightly depending upon your machine, but once realizing the complexity and depth, and to maintain the potential for hours of play, Covert Action should have you playing for some considerable time – even after that all important price tag game that is worth the asking price.

Even running at its lowest capacity the game is pleasing to both eyes and ears. The various interludes and actual game screens keep interest high. Sound on the native version was somewhat grating, but the option for silence is given. Covert Action is one of the best espionage titles on the PC.

THE SPY WHO LOVED ME

Find yourself shaken
AND stirred as you go undercover with
DOMARK'S latest licence

Set over six scenes inspired by game genres ranging from Spyhunter to the more recent Xenon 2 and Op Wolf, the latest Bond tie-in from Domark brings one of the secret agent's most famous escapades to the small screen in pixel perfect form.

Following the original plot, Bond and Soviet agent Anya Anasova must confront nuclear sub kidnapper Karl Stromberg in his underwater fortress Atlantis. Each scene is introduced by a seriously funky rendition of the Bond theme and a briefing. For starters, you control the famous white Lotus Esprit; up against the clock, your objective is to reach the boat that is to take you to meet Stromberg.

A quick practice soon familiarises you with game layout and, once your skills are honed, each game element provides a level of gameplay that will keep your interest up. The mastery required to complete the game is sufficient enough to keep you returning for some time although on completion, you may find interest waning rapidly.

Under fire and heading for the cover of the Q-Truck...

Q's revolutionary car may carry up to three offensive and three defensive weapons, ranging from a basic machine gun, to ground/air missiles as well as smoke and paint guns for evasive purposes. Decked out with a full complement of hardware, the car is able to unleash some impressive firepower.

Armaments do not come free and, once purchased, diminish with use, but the road ahead is littered with bonuses that may be used to replenish or buy extras. Having reached the waiting boat, play transfers to the water in a similar fashion. Throughout this phase, other vehicles (pedestrians, armoured cars, bikes and the like) hinder your progress on land. On water, you must avoid swimmers, piers and more of Stromberg's agents.

The first part of Scene Two involves more of the same. After getting essential extra hardware that must include underwater capability, you proceed to the second half of the scene – the underwater section, reminiscent of the recent Xenon 2 and equally as difficult! Enemies come in the form of mines, scuba divers and sub-aqua vehicles, the latter of which are particularly lethal.

Scene 3 pits you directly against Stromberg's agents in the first of two Op Wolf style sections as, having infiltrated Atlantis, both Anya and Bond are captured. 007 escapes and, having released the crews from the captured subs, mounts a moving security camera in an endeavour to blow a hole in the control room wall. Using a crosshair, you must protect Bond with diminishing ammo (and morale) from attack by dozens of agents.

Protect Bond - Op Wolf style - from marauding enemy agents

CODED INTERLUDE

Next there's a code cracking section, where you must decipher a series of shapes in a limited time, allowing Bond to redirect the nuclear missiles towards the sites from which they are to be launched – fail, and the nukes take out Moscow and New York.

The penultimate scene has James setting off to save Anya aboard his Q-modified wet bike. Penetrating the defences, Bond reaches the final section and the second of the Op Wolf scenarios. Initially up against more of Stromberg's forces, including the formidable Jaws, Bond must then successfully disable Stromberg whilst carefully avoiding shooting Anya. Succeed here and taste sweet victory!

Graphic detail and good choice of colour make the game a joy to look at and the underwater section is, aesthetically, particularly pleasing. The shooting scenes are well implemented, though the sounds are fairly standard – engines and guns abound. I did, however, particularly like the agonised scream of the pedestrians as you 'accidentally' run them down in the driving sequences.

There are however, two questionable aspects. The code-breaking appears to be something of a filler to break up surrounding scenes and the initial difficulty level is quite high. If you're not a strong player, you might yearn for an easier introduction.

This is, however, Domark's best Bond game to date. It may seem blatantly plagiaristic, but the sources all work very well together. Each section has been introduced at a particular point during the overall structure, giving the player as much variety as possible whilst never becoming disjointed.

Wrath of the Dragon on C64...

...and SF!

Here guys worked on the C64 version of Wrath of the Dragon

Rik Haynes leads a bold quest to discover new games from the land of the Maple leaf...

ACE took an in-depth look behind the scenes at Sullivan-Bluth's Dublin-based movie studios back in issue 33. This leading animated film producer also created the innovative Dragon's Lair videodisc arcade game back in the early eighties. Now we've interviewed the people responsible for the computer conversions of Dragon's Lair – one of the few Canadian games companies.

ReadySoft was formed over three years ago by David Foster, a veteran of the Commodore PET, VIC-20 and Apple II micros. Before ReadySoft, Foster was an equal partner in Digital Solutions writing productivity software for the C64. "I've always had an interest in games but frequently seemed to end up working with productivity software," sighs Foster. ReadySoft's first product was a C64 emulator for the Amiga, this was followed by the Amiga version of Dragon's Lair in 1988. Over the last two years, this Ontario-based company has developed several computer versions of Sullivan-Bluth's Dragon's Lair and Space Ace videodisc games. In keeping with its roots, ReadySoft has even produced a Macintosh emulator for the Amiga.

CREATIVE FREEDOM

"I like the creative freedom of the games industry," confirms Foster. "You're only limited by your imagination, programming talent and determination."

"We have two styles of games that we are concentrating on: cartoon animation – such as Dragon's Lair – and high-end arcade (like the forthcoming Wrath of the Demon)."

Foster boldly adds, "We're unlike many companies in that we prefer quality over quantity. We're content with 2-3 high quality releases per year. Future releases will include games that combine Dragon's Lair-quality animation with greatly increased playability, and more Wrath of the Demon style games with even more graphics, variety and gameplay. Six-disk games don't scare us!"

DUNGEONS AND DEMONS

ReadySoft's next release will be Wrath of the Demon, an original hack-and-slash/em-up apparently featuring over 1200 frames of animation, more than 100 different monsters, 15-level parallax-scrolling and over two megabytes of graphics.

"After a briefing by the King, you set out in search of the Demon on horseback. At nightfall you encounter goblins who you must defeat. You must rescue a fairy from a dragon, travel through a cave which leads to the swamp which leads to a clearing. The clearing leads to an old tower and a temple where you must battle with monsters that inhabit them to collect items necessary to defeat the Demon. You then reach the Demon's castle which you must explore to reach your ultimate challenge – the Demon itself."

Most of the scenes in Wrath of the Demon include a parallax-scrolling scene (where you must defeat a number of monsters, avoid obstacles and collect items) – followed by a light scene where you must defeat one or more large, intelligent monsters. There are over 100 animated characters, including goblins, elfs, orcs, swamp creatures, snakes, fairies, ghosts, dragons, human-scorpions, gargoyles and demons.

With Wrath of the Demon, ReadySoft's programming and graphics team wanted to make a game that would take advantage of all the capabilities of the Amiga with better graphics, animation and parallax-scrolling than anything previously available. The game was conceived over one year ago and has taken 10 months to complete. ReadySoft sketched the graphics on paper first, then transferred them to computer using an EASYL drawing tablet. The images were then touched-up and completed using DeluxePaint III. Creating the mapping system for the monsters and graphics was one of the hardest things to achieve during the game's development. Fitting it all into 512k of memory was also a major frustration.

"We like to think that we're breaking new ground with the sophistication of the graphics and animation, and the 60 frames per second 15-level parallax-scrolling," says Foster. "The best features of Wrath of the Demon are the smooth multi-level parallax-scrolling, detailed and smooth character animation, and the large characters and intelligent monsters in the fight scenes – diehard gamers will love the final Demon fight scene!"

Wrath of the Demon will be released on Amiga, ST and PC this month (priced at £29.99 each). Additionally, a four-disk C64 version is on the cards – although this could turn into a C64 cartridge. Other versions under development include CPC console and Spectrum implementations due early next year.

ReadySoft is also developing the Amiga, ST, PC, Macintosh and Apple IIGS versions of Dragon's Lair II: Time Warp. Once upon a time... "Princess Daphne has been spirited away to a wrinkle in time by the evil wizard Mordroc who plans to force her into marriage. Only you, Dirk the Daring, can save her". The next installment of the Dragon's Lair saga will be available later this month for the bargain-price of £44.99 on Amiga, PC and ST. Lead on bold adventurer, your quest awaits!

SHOCKWAVE

This is the first published product from a new coding team called Light Source and has, beyond shadow of a doubt, some of the most impressive sprite-based 3D graphics yet seen on the Amiga. Afterburner-like, they give you a true first-person perspective view of high speed travel across four different landscapes, complete with huge items of scenery and a constantly detailed ground surface that flies underneath you at an enormous rate.

You've been placed in charge of one of the largest prison complexes ever built. So large is it, that it could quite easily be mistaken for a small city. This is exactly what it has been mistaken for by a wandering alien attack force. Your defences are small but effective. A few meagre army units dotted about to slow the onrush of attacking aliens, plus a tiny one-man fighter plane, armed with the weakest of missiles. With this you have to survive ten vicious attack waves?

Well, not quite. These prisoners are quite a resourceful lot, and so is the land you are based upon – split into four quadrants, each is capable of providing one of your four main needs. The mountains house the platinum mines that provide you with £10000 per mine built during every game. With this money you can buy more mines to provide you with even more money. You can also build oil rigs out in the sea quadrant to provide you with fuel for your plane, and buy extra army units to place in the jungle for extra protection and create factories in the desert region – to develop and build new and more powerful weapons for your craft.

The only thing you can't do, it seems, is to replenish your ship's already limited shields, which is a bit of a pain when you go out to fight the invading aliens. Before you go out to fight, you choose a quadrant to fly to (see the ALL MAPPED OUT panel), bearing in mind that the more aliens marked on your map, the more you're going to have to kill. You then check the armoury screen to make sure your ship is loaded with the most up-to-date weapons you possess. Remember, your factories are constantly developing new toys for you to play with. Then it's out into the bright, blue yonder for the fight of your life.

The flight scenes take place in one of four daily time zones (morning, afternoon, evening and night) and as the day draws on, your visibility lessens. Obviously flying against invading craft is hardest at night, as to be honest they have a tendency to blend into the background a fair bit. Flying the plane is a dream. The mouse controls an on-screen cross-hair that serves the dual purpose of both targeting your weapons systems and steering the craft. Things to aim for are the circling aliens. Things to avoid are large ground obstacles, such as buildings, trees and oil rigs, as well as steering clear of, or shooting, enemy missiles that threaten to steal one of your six shields from under your feet. As you work your way through the ten waves of ensuing aliens things get progressively harder. Hold out for long enough, and finally the Calvary will appear. Provided there's anything left for them to rescue, that is.

● Tony Dillon

Digital Magic Software defends its homestead

The main corridor in the prison. Here you have access to the three screens of the game. Note the nice illumination effects as you pass the cursor over the open doors.

The Map Screen (see ALL MAPPED OUT panel).

ALL MAPPED OUT

The map section of Shockwave is where the strategic side of the game takes place. The large disc in the centre is a radar showing the four sections of your world, plus the proximity of the incoming aliens, marked with a red dot. The four icons in the corners of the screen show what purpose each quarter serves, plus the percentage of aliens overrunning the land. The second any of them becomes 99% overrun, you lose that quadrant, plus the service it provides. For example, should you lose the sea sector, your fuel supply is cut off, stopping you from flying out to defend yourself, effectively ending the game. The wait icon advances the game one game turn, increasing your money by a certain amount and moving the aliens inward one step. Clicking on done exits you to a corridor screen, where you can go either to the armoury or to the docking bay, out to the flight sequence.

Flying along the sea quadrant, crashing into the oil rigs is pretty unhealthy. Flying over them is recommended.

As the alien is Interdimensional, you can get in and play straight away. As you get into this game, you begin to learn strategies, lengthening the interest factor. And if it does play so well, doesn't it mean you should continue to keep returning to the game time after time. A very well presented product that gets into a dream.

The fastest sprite-based 3D scrolling yet seen on the Amiga – equipped with some large, detailed sprites make Shockwave nothing short of breathtaking. The use of a detailed floor makes a world of difference visually when compared to the usual scrolling stripes or chessboard effect. A catchy tune and explosive effects take up the audio side.

Split-screen competitive cutsey from IMAGEWORKS

FLIP IT & MAGNOSE

Flip It and Magnose are two lucky guys. Winners of a Martian lottery, they get a trip to Earth (and there's always a bug in the lettuce) an assignment to return with millions of gallons of water for their dehydrated planet. The Martian to return from this vital quest with the most water will become a hero and be awarded two Gargoids - ensuring a life of wealth and ease

Getting started: the option screen is a riot as monsters get their backsides burnt and jab buttons to select your choices

...then you're into the game, each ready to go for the H₂O...

...and soon you're up against this beastie. Player One has found King Kong's cousin and has to drop a pair of nutcrackers onto the 'drop platform' - the small triangular feature below the gorilla. In return he gives you a 'boop' which you have to take to the frog, who will spit out a droplet of water for many years to come. So goes the plot of Imageworks latest game - the first to be programmed by newcomers Expanding Minds.

Six levels range from a jungle scenario to a farm house and, finally, a space station. Although gameplay is basically the same cute platform variant throughout (played on a vertically split screen), each level differs greatly in puzzle content, with its own specific characters and methods for obtaining H₂O. You can play either a single player game (in which the other character is computer controlled) or a competitive two player scenario. You are also given the option of selecting between in-game music and FX.

The miserable inhabitants crave something to bring the pzzzz! back into their life. Provide for their needs and you will be rewarded with either a droplet of water (which you must catch in a bucket and return to your tele-pad at the top of the screen where it will be beamed aboard your ship), or another object which must be appropriately used.

You'll encounter apes, reptiles, a yeti, a chicken and other strange blobs and although not every one requires an object, those that do are identified by a drop platform (differing from the others) nearby. To save time, Flip-it and Magnose have the ability to carry up to four objects, four weapons and the bucket. Scattered throughout the levels are objects which, although not character-specific, will aid in your quest (such as springs for increasing jump-height). Food is particularly important as it is used to purchase traps for your competitor, giving you a temporary advantage. Once set, however, the traps are non-discriminatory and stumbling into a carefully laid booby of your own will see you temporarily disabled.

SCROLLING EAUUVION

Movement is straightforward, progress being made by a series of jumps and mid-air manoeuvres. Miss a footing and your character will be sent hurtling downwards to concertina on landing, losing you valuable food. The natives get rest-

Initially appearing due to the sound and graphics, genuine new kids on the block. Each level is quite different and the incentives to complete for more water and deeper puzzles first ensures that addition remains high. Although each level takes some time to complete, the way games are designed to the hardware games player. Still not worth a look.

less too - the gorilla hurls nuts at you, while the second-level yeti drops rocks, for example.

Although the heroes do not rely on energy, there is an imposed time limit indicated by a descending chain in the centre of the split-screen display (both of which move completely independently of one another). Aside from this, the display is constructed from a panel of 'objects' held boxes, accessed by holding down fire.

Each sprite is humorously and well designed in cartoon fashion - colour is used to good effect and animation well executed. What is most striking about the game, is the fact that the parallel background extends to both the horizontal AND vertical - an achievement!

In essence, Flip-it and Magnose is a platform derivative with what are described as 'several new twists'. The puzzles are entertaining and although occasionally a trifle quirky are never too obscure. Sound complements the game to a tee and the only real quibble I have is that, once practised, six levels may not be enough. Otherwise Expanding Minds have produced an addictive, professional game bringing a fresh breath to the platform genre.

You've almost made it! The final level and you're only a few drops away from the final screen. Lack of extended challenge is the only serious weak point of the game

Programmed by Goliath and published by Electronic Zoo, Subbuteo bursts onto the screen accompanied by an original jingle and pictures bearing the obligatory official Subbuteo logo. You get the choice of playing either a single or league game. Single matches allow play against either a human or computer opponent and serve mainly as a practice ground for honing control skills. Once competent, the league (in which eight teams compete for dominance) awaits.

Having selected game type, the option is given to specify the time played over each half (up to 45 minutes) and one of three skill levels (novice, league and international), followed by a choice of kit colours. The final option before play gives you five team formation choices (see screenshots).

The pitch and players themselves are represented in 3D. What is innovative about this particular approach is that the pitch is moveable through 360 degrees and includes the vertical plane. Goliath have also incorporated a zoom feature to allow close inspection of both your and the opposing players - useful for planning strategies.

The game is controlled via icons situated along the bottom of the screen. These allow pitch manipulation, zoom and (most importantly) shot direction and strength, to be directly controlled. Having selected a player, clicking on the ball icon opens a window displaying the base of a Subbuteo figure and a finger. Clicking the mouse button sets the finger moving, whereby a second click stops it in the desired position. Once both flick-angle and strength have been set, the action is carried out in glorious 3D.

Play is governed by the "official" rules laid out according to F.I.S.A (Football International Subbuteo Association), differing somewhat from those of the F.A. These rules are accessible either in full or for specific manoeuvres by clicking on an icon of the pitch to the far right of the panel. All moves are covered and any made illegally are accompanied by a whistle and players ELECTRONIC ZOO bring out a novel footy game that should have been programmed by Colonel Sanders...

First impressions are quite high due to the excellent 3D manipulation. Although gameplay may seem a little off putting at first, this is minimal and soon compensated. The novel approach to play helps sustain interest but after a month or so, appeal may be only with fans of the original.

AMIGA

Not stunning graphically although the 3D looks excellent with. Ironically disappointing too - even an original these days cannot justify the rest of Amiga's title, but the game's theme fits in an area rate representation of the tabletop and provides even more excitement on screen.

being returned to their original positions. Moves covered include deadball, defending and position flicks. In essence the only differing rules are those such as disallowing shots from beyond a certain point (the shooting zone), repositioning players under certain circumstances, treating players that have left the pitch as though they are still in play and allowing only a limited time for each shot.

Whilst the rules themselves are fairly simple to understand (provided you have the patience to read them all), competent control of the players is considerably harder to master. The first few shots (if not games) will be spent sending players curving wildly on unlikely trajectories, but once mastered shots may be fairly accurately judged.

Unusual representation works well and the ability to rotate the pitch through almost every angle is both innovative and excellently implemented, (the original version ran at 7 frames per second, and has been increased to 15 frames per second). Use of icons for manipulation provides the speed necessary when against the clock, giving a feeling of assistance rather than hindrance, so encouraging further play.

Whilst graphics are noteworthy, the same can not be said for sound, which although tuneful at the outset, is confined (in game) to a warning whistle.

Transferring Subbuteo to computer format could have been disastrous. An idea that has been confined to tabletops for almost half a century is surely unlikely to survive the change. Having never been a fan of the tabletop (or even football proper), I was surprised to find myself enjoying Subbuteo. Initial inaccuracy fairly soon gave way to competent shooting and, as I imagine this will be the case for most players, Subbuteo should provide an alternative to the many football sims that swamp the market.

Death Trap

A trap so deadly that it has remained inviolate for five centuries, so ingenious that it gently lures an intruder to a certain death, a trap worthy of Shankriya, the magician king, a tyrant and absolute ruler of vast lands. The trap is set in a multi level labyrinth deep in the bowels of the earth and populated by creatures vile, vicious and venomous. Within it lay hidden the magic scrolls, source of Shankriya's power. Only a very brave man, dexterous, with exquisite sense of timing, versed in martial arts and a flair for mixing potent magic potions, can ever hope to survive the infamous DEATH TRAP.

SEXY SILICON

As Nintendo prepares to launch a new 16-bit console in Japan, Rik Haynes reveals the Super Famicom's specs and games...

None can doubt the worldwide success of Japan's leading console manufacturer. In the last five years Nintendo has sold something like 40 million Famicom consoles (known as the Nintendo Entertainment System in Europe and America), and is predicting sales of the Gameboy handheld console will top five million by the end of this year.

Caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption Nintendo video game characters have become cultural icons in both Japan and America. These cute sprites appear in theme parks and their own TV cartoon series – you can even eat them for breakfast (cereal), lunch (burgers), and dessert (cake decorations).

Now the Japanese video games company that rivals Sony in terms of pure-profit has turned its attention to 16-bit consoles, a rapidly expanding market currently dominated by Sega. So will the Super Famicom beat the Megadrive?

TECHNO-THRUST

Nintendo's new console boasts an impressive tech-spec (see the Super Specs panel for full details), including a palette of 32768 colours, eight-channel 16-bit PCM stereo-sound and hardware-assisted object scaling (sprites which can enlarge and shrink). The Super Famicom will be launched in Japan later this month for an unbelievable 25000 yen (approximately £100).

There are over 40 Super Famicom games in development at the moment. Three titles will be available at launch: Super Mario World (the latest addition to the Mario platform saga), F-Zero (fast futuristic racing-sim) and Bombluz (fun puzzle game originally designed by Tony Crowther). The average price for a Super Famicom game is 8000 yen (around £32). Other games to be released this year on the Super Famicom include Populous, Sim-City, Dungeon Master, Shadow of the Beast II, Final Fight (a kick'em-to-death-emp), Gradius III and Drakkhen.

There is currently no UK release date set for the Super Famicom, though rumours suggest Nintendo may launch its new corker of a console in Europe before the autumn of 1991. And that's not the only rumour circulating around the Land of the Rising Sun. Japanese pundits are speculating on the future release of a Super Famicom CD-ROM drive and a special adaptor allowing you to play NES cartridge games on your Super Famicom.

ACE will be receiving the Super Famicom console and games as soon as they're released in Japan... look-out for our definitive review in a near-future issue. Finally, a special thanks to our friends at ASCII Corporation in Japan for providing the pics used in this article.

somehow you don't get quite as much advantage on the console as you would in real life!

RIDING HERO

Coming, as it is, on the 'console of the future', you'd expect a little more from Riding Hero than just a run-of-the-mill race game. Not only does it offer you a straight motorcycle racer, it also gives you an adventure. Yes, an ADVENTURE! What will they think of next?

OK, so it's not the most original title ever, and on the face of it isn't the most original game either. A left-to-right scrolling beat-'em-up, with bad guys ranging from black-clad ninjas to large firebreathing robot dogs walking on at certain points of the scroll. As you bash the badies, they drop weapons and bonuses that can be collected to heighten your own abilities, such as speed and power, or just to increase your offensive strength. After all, someone with a ten-foot broadsword is a far more formidable opponent than someone with a tiny dagger.

As the game progresses, it becomes very difficult indeed. Huge swarms of nasties come flooding on screen, and you really need to be quick with the highly responsive controls to win through. However, I still finished the game within

The first of the two games on the cartridge is a rather typical motor racer with a choice of four machines to ride. Racing in a field of eight, you have to complete two laps of each of the world's most famous courses, finishing in the first three to continue to the next course.

The adventure, on the other hand, is something quite novel. It takes place over three different screens: a map screen; a picture of your current location, where you can arrange races for money, and the race screen itself (involving a typical 'behind-your vehicle' view of the race, just like almost every other race game ever written). You begin as a novice racer without a bike, and have to progress up through the reputation ranks in your town until you finally meet Diamond Dave, King of the Bikers. Beat him, and you become the new ruler.

The controls are simple and uncomplicated. No gears, one button to accelerate, one to brake and one to ignite the turbo, a handy little gadget, with limited uses, that gives you a very short burst of very high speed. The screen display is clean and uncluttered, with the only overlaid information being two lines at the top of the screen that show your current speed and standings.

The actual race segment of the game is pretty uninspiring, but with the adventure you increase the lasting power of the game considerably. Riding Hero is definitely fun to play, and offers a novel twist on a well worn genre. Worth checking out on rental.

The menu driven adventure section adds to long term interest

NINJA COMBAT

SNK pit you against arcade quality opponents

What happens when you're the offspring of an unholy union between Rocky and Rambo – you end up mauling and beaten to a pulp by aggressive sprites half an hour, thanks to a nice little design flaw in the first batch of the Neo Geo consoles called 'infinite continues'. Every time you die, the machine prompts you to press START to continue and hey presto! you're back in the fight where you left off with a full complement of lives.

To finish any game that quickly is sad, particularly at this asking price. Speaking to Active Sales, who are handling the machine in this country, they tell us that SNK are rectifying this, which should make the games a little more competitive. Until then, you'll just have to have a little self control.

The presentation is top notch, with arcade quality graphics and sound, and even an arcade-style attract mode. On the bottom line, this game is fulfilling what the Neo Geo promises – a standard arcade machine for the home.

AFTERBURNER II

Fly low and fast in this PC Engine shoot-'em-up

Originally one of Sega's hydro-cabinet coin-ops, Afterburner has now hit the PC Engine at a mighty Mach 2. But does the lack of hydro-hardware costing thousands of pounds effect the game?

As a Navy Air Captain in charge of a F-14 Thunder Cat fighter you must wade through wave after wave of enemy fighters in an endless succession of total destruction. Your Cat is armed with fire-guided missiles and Vulcan cannon, and is capable of speeds in excess of Mach Two.

Blasting the opposition on stage one.

A brief piece of peace... the action stops while you re-load.

Afterburner II is a simple head-on shoot-'em-up enhanced by fast and furious graphics. Your highly maneuverable Cat can twist, tilt and turn round the screen. It can even flip 360°. An 'artificial horizon' scanner is displayed at the top left of the screen, while weapon, speed and score stats are located along the bottom. The game is divided into multiple stages, with a brief respite between each for reloading. Although you've an unlimited supply of Cannon blasts, the fire-and-forget missiles are strictly on a tight number basis. A sight appears on any enemy aircraft currently in range.

Afterburner II is the nearest there has been to a shoot-'em-up game. Fast and very involved, the PC Engine's game machine is pushed to full throttle as it rapidly directs huge chunks of paint onto the crowded screen. Burnt-out, dead enemies keep up with the action... just! The sprite and background are accurate to the original, but the lack of any degree of high definition, Afterburner II is repetitive but playable. Over the lights, turning the volume, and your mind off-line and pay one of the fastest games on the PC Engine.

Afterburner II is packed with all the extra goodies usually found in Japanese games – including a neat '3D room' where you can play ball with the flying three-dimensional Afterburner II logo found on the title page. You can change its pattern, colour and speed, zoom in/out and rotate the logo around its x, y, and z coordinates. To be honest, this is probably the most innovative feature of Afterburner II.

● Rik Hayes

W-RING

Nemesis-style shooting on the PC Engine courtesy of Naxat Soft You've moved the multiples in Nemesis, you've released the ripple lasers in Salamander. Now do exactly the same in W-Ring.

The Double Rings from Naxat Soft. That's right, Japan has just given birth to yet another multi-level horizontally-scrolling blast-em-up.

W-Ring is a six-stage shooter with all the trimmings: extra missiles, ring beams, multi-way shots, lasers, multiples and gyro shields to collect – ordinary alien laser-fodder and end-of-level guardians to blast out of the screen.

The only trouble with the game? W-Ring is all too easy to complete. You're practically invincible once you've got a few power-up items. For instance, the level-guardian sprite at the end of stage 3 – a sort of triffid with a huge light-bulb on its head – can be quickly dispatched with a single squirt of your 'aqua toothpaste' laser. So get ready to knock-up some giant hicosres with this one!

● Rik Hayes

The beam laser seems to be the most impressive weapon.

It's a bird, it's a plane, it's a triffid with a light-bulb on its head!

FINAL BLASTER

Namco blasts away on the PC Engine

Unfortunately the hard is strictly for Bruce Willis fans. Although the presentation, sprites and music are above average, the gameplay is very repetitive and unimpressive. You just travel round maze-like corridors blowing away terrorists, soldiers and policemen. That's all there is. Die Hard must be the first game to cause Resonance Brain Injury. The sprites aren't very big and have only two frames of animation. The game's multiple backgrounds are also and poorly drawn... minimal is definitely the word. More music and gameplay variety is needed.

PC ENGINE £32.99 OUT NOW
No other versions planned

How do you improve one of the best vertically-scrolling shoot-'em-ups ever developed? Gunhead redefined the way people rate this style of game on not only the PC Engine, but also other home games decks. Now Namco is touting a successor – so is it the blasting business? Will this be the final fight for the number one spot?

As far as gameplay is concerned, there's no new features to be found in Final Blaster – just a well-tested selection of ideas tuned to near-perfection. You control a small but mobile space-fighter over a moving backdrop filled with various alien sprite ships of all shapes and sizes. Your job is to blast them away. If you hold down the fire button, your ship turns into a flaming phoenix which shoots out a massive fireball – useful for dealing with your larger foes. You manually select the speed of your fighter, and by collecting special pods which appear throughout the game you can power-up with extra shots, shields, lasers, multi-directional shots, missiles and multiples (which increase your weapons systems by a factor of one to three).

Turning your fighter into a phoenix-like 'mega-weapon'.

The alien forces are equipped with some particularly nasty weapons such as a submunitions bomb which quietly drifts to the bottom of the screen, then unleashes a barrage of deadly missiles. The end-of-level guardian ship on stage one tries to trap you between its two laser beams while blasting you with blue bouncing ball bombs.

Final Blaster has 7 rounds – each featuring new alien craft with progressively better weapons, 16 weapon configurations for your spacecraft and some of the most demanding stages I've ever played in a PC Engine game. For game satisfaction it's got the right tactics.

DIE HARD

Based around the reasonably popular all-action movie, Die Hard sees you taking the role of Bruce Willis' playing a cop on a rescue mission. Some business executives have been trapped in a LA high-rise building by armed and dangerous terrorists, and you have to save them single-handed.

Punching your way out of trouble.

Die Hard has been inspired by the Commando genre of shoot-'em-ups and is split into 10 separate stages. You start the game outside of the building in the local park. As you wander through the undergrowth you encounter armed terrorists, soldiers and policemen who immediately shoot at you. You must punch their lights-out before your energy is completely depleted by their bullets. Fortunately, these thugs sometimes leave their weapons for you to pick-up and use. The M16 rifle is the worst weapon as it's only single-shot. The Heckler and Koch automatic weapon is fast-firing, the grenade-launcher is great for wide-area attack but the flame-thrower is the best of the lot – providing you with a surround-field of fire. You can also collect a flask jacket for added-protection and a power bottle or medical kit to replenish your energy.

A valiant effort to surpass Gunhead is 'the definitive' PC Engine shoot-'em-up. Final Blaster narrowly loses this very difficult goal. Although some of the sprites are too small – including your own spacecraft – the graphics throughout are well defined and colourful. There's a good variety of alien craft in terms of both design and tactics. The on-screen action is complemented by lively soundtracks and suitable FX. You may find Final Blaster a little difficult in the beginning, but otherwise... the later stages of the game are very challenging.

Although this Activision/Pack-In Video/Nihon Bussan release is enhanced by attractive bitmap 'splash' screens digitised from the film, Die Hard's relentless violence is just too repetitive to make you want to stay with it.

Living

Are you ready to become an interactive book-worm?

Imagine an electronic book on compact disc. You could have over 550Mb of information at the click of an icon. This data would be presented to you in a variety of interesting and informative ways – through the use of computer text, graphics, animation, sound and speech and/or motion video and CD-quality audio (for music and narration). Everything would be cross-referenced and instantly accessible. You wouldn't just read a book, you'd 'play' it.

The central ideas behind the 'interactive electronic book' concept form the basis of a new CDTV project currently under development at Digigraphic. At last, the multi-media novel, hyper-magazine and digital comic are here... well almost!

HOT WORDS

Digigraphic was formed four years ago to develop applications software for the Amiga. In that time it has created various projects including Eidersoft's Prosound Designer, Pro Midi Plus and Video Magic. It wasn't long before Digigraphic decided to get involved in the emerging multi-media market.

This Lutterworth-based company has been developing the Living Book Publisher system on the CDTV for the last 12 months. Its first application of the system, Everyman's Technology Living Book, is well under way and due for release in March 1991. It's just a shame about the sexist title.

"We have program development, multi-media research and computer graphic design departments now working on CDTV projects in probably the most powerful Amiga development environment in Europe," states Digigraphic.

ELECTRONIC BOOKMARKS

Although Digigraphic is being secretive about all the features found in its CDTV Living Books, here are a few intriguing glimpses of what you'll find in the book of the future.

Graphics, computer animation and full motion video of any size and display mode (including images Dynamic Hires and sliced HAM modes). "Animations will support multi-channel frame accurate audio synchronisation," says Digigraphic. You can also have unlimited video animation and audio length due to the fact that Digigraphic's electronic books incorporate a disk read capability.

Living Books have powerful search facilities automatically built-in. You can search for animations, video, pictures and audio – which all have textual search tags. 'Hot' items are really handy. With the 'Hot Contents' page, you can select a chapter heading and immediately move to it. 'Hot Index' presents you with a list of all the references in the Living Book. And things really get interactive with 'Hot Words' – words on a page which can be selected and cross-referenced to other sections of the Living Book or glossary. Electronic Bookmarks let you move freely across references throughout a Living Book – you can then backtrack to the start point and continue 'reading'. Every line of the text can be magnified for people with impaired sight. A 'Narration' reads the text out loud.

"Living Book Publisher allows a fully interactive book to be developed from start to finish within a single environment," explains Digigraphic.

Lee Gibson at Digigraphic says, "Everyman's Technology Living Book will cover many aspects of technology from ball-point pens to satellites – explaining their operation and use. Some of the areas covered include: communications, entertainment, industry, medical and military. Each chapter will be illustrated with graphics, animations and motion video. This application is being produced concurrently with the publishing system giving us feedback on the functionality level and problems encountered with a full CDTV production". A CDI version of the Living Book is also likely.

What reading material would you like to see in Living Book form? Write to ACE and we'll pass your ideas onto Digigraphic... you never know, you could be 'playing' an interactive version of the Amiga Hardware Reference Manual next year! Send your ideas and comments to: LIVING BOOKS, ACE magazine, EMP Images, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU.

A page from a Living Book... just click on the graphic box for a part- or full-screen animation with narration or music.

So here I am, riding herd on six planets, checking out the cultists, keeping an eye on the droid assassins... same old stuff. Then, the idiots downtown decide they want me to bust up an "intergalactic drug ring".

But, it's not all bad, I do get to see Betty, the bdy in the Mind Zi tavern. And I get to take a little just walking in the front door of the Mind Zi Temple. Some things never change, though. The scariest dudes I talk to are still real estate brokers.

Like they say at the academy, you gotta look before you transport. One wrong move and a guy could end up an air hokee.

UPDATES

Latest conversions this month for PC, ST, Amiga, and Spectrum

PC

Millennium £24.99; Atari ST version reviewed Issue 34; ACE Rating 917
It is the year 2038. A dangerous time to be living. A time when the unruly rule. In a last bid to combat this deadly reign of crime, the Government instigate a law known as resolution 101, whereby any criminal may receive amnesty for past misdemeanours by successfully tracking down other criminals. Reviewed in issue 34, the ST version of Resolution 101 was hailed as "aggressive, bracing, crisp, devious...." amongst other superlatives. Fast 3-D, well executed graphics and gameplay saw the game ACE rated. Fortunately, the transition to PC has seen a retention of all these good points - unfortunately those aspects that were below par have also remained. The gaudy colour scheme does nothing to enhance what should be a dingy, oppressive atmosphere and sound may accurately be described as dire. Having said that, gameplay is the important factor and Res 101 has plenty of that to hold your interest. If you're into fast-thinking, fast-acting software, you'd be hard pushed to find anything better than this - for now at least.

PC Rating: 900

AMIGA

RESOLUTION 101

Millennium £24.99; Atari ST version reviewed Issue 34; ACE Rating 917
Playing identically to the other versions, but with a slightly improved screen update. Graphics remain unchanged (colour is still slightly gaudy) being well designed but having rather less menace about them than I would have imagined. Sound FX have vastly improved over both ST and PC versions, but unfortunately the in-game music is less than fitting. Still however, a game worth buying.

SHADOW OF THE BEAST

Psygnosis £24.99; Amiga version reviewed Issue 25; ACE Rating 885

Some 12 months after the original classic, Psygnosis' Beast finally makes it onto the ST. But to what degree of success? Fortunately for ST owners, Beast is virtually indistinguishable from the Amiga classic in every detail and although the original review stated that as an (at the time) Amiga only product, Beast would not have to suffer the confines of the ST, these restrictions would appear to have fallen by the wayside. The only noticeable differences are on-screen colours, which have been marginally toned-down and scrolling, whilst although not pixel perfect, does not detract from gameplay. The digitised sound is of high quality, (something many recent ST products cannot claim) with the melodies remaining as haunting as ever. The main criticism of Beast on the ST, is one that was levelled at the original, in that the difficulty presented by certain sections considerably outweighs that of others, (for example, many of the enemies may be felled with a single blow, whereas taking a wrong turn may bring you face to face with an insurmountable foe!) Other than this ST owners are in for a technically excellent and playable product. An audio-visual treat that appears to have aged very well in the face of competition. Well worth a look.

ST RATING: 815

TEAM YANKEE

Empire £24.99; Amiga version reviewed Issue 38; ACE Rating 893
Empire's tactical tank sim makes it the ST in a form virtually indistinguishable from that of the Amiga. Placing you in control of four platoons

ST

ST Shadow Caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption caption

ST Team Yankee

each containing four tanks, the game is most notable for its completely independent screen displays, allowing simultaneous control of each platoon. Graphics are identical to the Amiga - fast moving bitmapped sprites on a smooth scrolling scenery. The only real difference is in the sound department - perhaps inevitable - which is rather more grating on the ST. Otherwise, Team Yankee is as good a tank sim as you are likely to find on the ST.

ST RATING: 879

SPECTRUM

Rainbow Arts £8.95; Amiga version reviewed Issue 35; ACE rating 912
The original version of this arcade adventure was perhaps the best arcade blast yet seen on the Amiga. The quality of gameplay and presentation were as near to arcade perfect as any game of its genre. The Spectrum version cannot hope to emulate that quality. Limitations aside, Rainbow Arts have successfully managed to cram in all the features of the 16-bit version and although this inevitably makes Turrican a multi-load, this is of little consequence. Graphics are colourful (if a little blocky), move well and the play area is huge. The internal speaker is used with successful results and the game as a whole whilst perhaps not groundbreaking, retains the playability of the original.

BADLANDS™

From the creators of the classic Super Sprint comes Badlands - a fabulous conversion of the popular coin-op.

It's been 50 years since the nuclear disaster and a new sport has evolved in the arid wastelands known as the Badlands. Sprint Racing with a killing touch is the sport - a destructive battle between armoured cars. It's all out war on the track as players blast the drone cars and each other to finish first.

Aggressive and dangerous, in the Badlands only the ruthless live to tell the tale. Customise your racer with extra missiles, speed, tyres, turbo boosts and shields. Avoid oil spills and a host of hazards to race the eight unique tracks which become more dangerous as the level of difficulty increases.

Badlands: For one or two players - its ruthless, destructive and great fun!

DRAKKHEN

For those of you who have been cursing last month's subtle omission of the Drakkhen tips, rest easy with part three of this epic title. Rollin'...

Before flinging yourself headlong into the quest proper, it is necessary to have elevated some of your party to higher levels to ensure that any progress is made at all! In order to succeed in Drakkhen, the printed solution should be followed exactly and the game saved regularly - (never save a game if you have lost a character, as all of them are needed). Oh and as a matter of interest, the tears of the quest's title are actually the gems worn on the heads of the Drakkhen Prince and Princess.

One piece of advice - when inside the Drakkhen palaces it is often quicker to explore with one or two characters rather than the whole group, but be sure that at least one character has the ability to open locked doors using magic. When moving about, be sure that the remaining party members are ready to cast protection or invisibility spells should they be attacked. It is in fact a good idea for all characters to move around in this state, as when an enemy appears the spells are cast automatically and the players enter combat mode.

Worm... nice. The Quest For Tears has been on hold for some time but it's back with a bang. Here, a lovely selection of garments from the fantasy collection, sported by your party.

Here goes with the first two stages....

STAGE ONE

Enter Prince Hordtkhen's palace, remembering to wait until the shark's fin has passed under the bridge and emerged to your right. Operate the symbol between the two doorways in the wall facing you and enter the central doorway, leading to the first floor.

Having killed the lizard, use the warrior to enter the room on the left and dispose of the Drakh soldier. Unlock the door in the left wall. Don't allow any of the weaker characters to stray too close to the opening in the left wall of this room as it possesses a nasty bite!

Oyez! Oyez! All hail the return (at last) of the Adam Morley solution to Drakkhen - "The Quest For Tears" - in addition to the fourth part of Jons' Guide to Hacking, infinite energy in Shadow of the Beast 2 and much more...

Rounding off our serialisation of maps for System 3's Last Ninja II, we have levels four to seven inclusive. The story so far finds our Ninja in the basement....

Select a character other than the leader, disable the combat mode and enter through the door at the bottom left of the room. With luck you'll find yourself in Prince Hordtkhen's bed chamber, face to face with the man himself. Whatever you do, DON'T go into combat mode or he'll zap you. Behind him you will find a suit of armour; take it and retreat towards the door through which you came. Before leaving, question the Prince twice. He will tell you to take a message to his sister - this is your cue to leave as the Prince is easily offended, so don't hang about.

STAGE TWO

Leave the palace and travel east towards Princess Hordtkha's palace. Enter and you will find that the place has been attacked. Return to the Prince's castle at once (as instructed by a servant) and make straight for his room, remembering to disable the combat mode. He will be angered by the news you bring but will help you nevertheless, sending you to Prince Haaggkhen's palace where he thinks his sister is being held.

Whew, and that's only about one fifth of the complete solution! Back with more instalments nex' munt.

OP STEALTH

In last week's episode, Secret Agent John Glames had just cheated death by starvation, suffocation and possibly boredom. Having escaped one hideous doom, Glames continues shaken, but not stirred, in his search for the mysterious Stealth fighter...

Having completed the arcade sequence, you should make your way back to the bank and exit the screen bottom left. You should now see a man on the beach, whom you should speak to. USE the coins on the man. You should now have been given a bracelet. Go up the steps and back to the hotel. Once inside, SPEAK to the receptionist.

OPERATE girl.

You should now swim to the surface and be automatically saved...

Will Glames get the girl, will Glames succeed in his mission and who the Hell is Will Glames? All these questions and more, will be answered in next month's undercover issue of ACE.

SHADOW OF THE BEAST 2

This game, in our opinion, is just too difficult for most gamers. Thanks, therefore, to Joost den Hartog of Holland for the following...

When starting the game, run right until you meet the first man who tells you to "Halt...!". When he does so, press "A" and enter "TEN PINTS" (with space) for infinite energy. Yay! And Psynosis tell us that the gameplay features get sexier and sexier as you progress - so this cheat could open up new worlds of addition for you.

.... and out again. Ever closer to the final confrontation and victory! Once over it's back to the land of bamboo for a well earned holiday... for now.

CITADEL

For your delight and delectation, here's the continuing saga of Jon's guide to hacking, missed in last month's issue due to T'nT changing hands. Retribution will be served... or something like that.

A quick look at my notes reminded me to go back and check out the mysterious subtracts I had found. First were the ones that took zero away from locations and executed as the traps opened. The subtracts are told to do something useful by another part of the program and seem to spend a lot of their time subtracting three, but that isn't important.

Obviously these offending beasts are connected to the routine that opens the traps. To prevent the traps opening, I traced the program backwards to a conditional branch at which the program below it executes only as a trap opens, whilst the program above it executes continuously. Once I have found that, I need to find stores into the location that makes the condition 'open trap X' true, and neutralise them.

After tracing back for some time I ended up somewhere in the middle of a routine that makes sure the on screen display of your lives does not spill above nine when you obtain an extra. This indicated very strongly that I was totally lost. Instead of making my way forward from where I was, I found my stupid mistake, took out the 'of doobrey, re-entered the wassname and now, Citadel keeps its traps shut. After a thorough test, it turned out that if I completed a level after NOT letting the traps open from the very start, then the traps on the following level REFUSED to open when I removed the cheat, a problem I shall solve later on.

The other subtracts were executed when you warped a level and when you changed sides. If I trace the code back I can find the condition that must be true to make the player warp to the other side of the level, in this code will be another condition that indicates the player has finished the level. I did the business and had some fun swapping sides in silly places. I traced the code forward until I found a promising looking branch and by making both the appropriate conditions true, I could jump to the next level at any time.

Right then, now there isn't much more rummaging about to be done. I would like to find the bit that gives your energy back when you collect the appropriate pod. I know the location for the players' energy, so a hunt for the increment instruction should do the trick. There is only one occurrence of energy incrementation and it appears in a bit of code that looks like this:

- What sort of number is X?
- If it is positive then GOTO the rest of the program.
- If player has less than 16 energy then GOTO program INCNG.
- Make X positive.
- Initialise 'pling' sound. INCNG: Add one to player's energy

..... Rest of the Program.

This program is executed at the same rate as your energy increases. You can probably see that making X (in this case location $20ED) a negative number starts the energy increasing cycle. In my travels I also found a number of stores to the location that holds the player energy level. One of them is among a sequence of forty successive stores to various memory locations in the game setup sequence: it took me about two minutes to reduce the code to 63% of its original size. Another thing I found was that a cheeky little fellow among the energy stores neatly steals energy from your craft as you innocently buy weapons, but I soon put a stop to his game.

Well, that's all the room we've got for in this month's installment. The next listing will follow as soon as we can shoe-horn it in...

XENOMORPH

Back for the attack with the continuing solution to Pandora's space odyssey - this month, tips for levels four to six and the map for level four.

LEVEL 4

There is nothing on this level that you could possibly want, with the exception of the card. The best tactic is to grab it and run back to level 3, due to the fact that there is an alien of indestructible proportions on the lurk! Once on level 3, walk to ladder I, take the RL ammo and move on down to level 5.

LEVEL 5

The six marauding aliens here mean that you must be prepared to move fast and accurately - no time for mistakes! Run to area 8 and pick up all six objects that you find there (opposite the entrance). Once collected, run out REMEMBERING TO CLOSE THE DOOR BEHIND YOU. When you've time to breathe, drop your old clothes (ahem!) and don those you have just collected. Go to area 9, (but be ready to blast the two aliens you'll encounter on the way) and take both RL bullets from the Anti-Grav Units. Find the maintenance area and pick up all the chips you need. (Just in case you're hungry it, there's food in area 10.) Go to ladder K, and down to level 6.

LEVEL 6

This level is entirely safe from nasties. All you need to do is collect the chips; card; battery; food and the charge for your gun. Having done so, it's back up to level 5 where you should go to area 11. Collect everything and make your way to area 12. Blast those nasties, walk to ladder L where you'll find a grenade. Take it and go down to level 7....

More next month. Until then you'll just have to struggle bleary-eyed through the long evenings on your own!

How to gain the hidden extra lives:

Level One

your whip whilst you are in the air. Press, an extra life.

Level Three

CLASSIC

Splitting Images

cheese, clogs and canals maybe, but the Netherlands have never been famous for software. However in 1986 Dutch programmers Ruud and Ernest Peske produced a neat little game for Domark which was to bring the fledgeling company one of its first major successes...not to mention threats of legal action.

Twelve months earlier Ernieware had produced a game called The Evolution; a fact I remember only too well because I was the only British journalist who bothered to review it. It was a solid but uninspiring example of a now thankfully defunct genre, the computerised block-shift puzzle. It did pave the way for this highly addictive development though.

BREAKIN' UP IS HARD TO DO

Split Personalities, as it was later called (see box), was a distinct evolution from The Evolution. The aim was simple; rearrange squares in a five by four grid to create jigsaw portraits of various luminaries, from Maggie to Ronnie Reagan, Sir Clive Sinclair (in the days of the Spectrum something of a star himself) to Alan Sugar, Bogart to Monroe. All of this was against a time limit, naturally.

The real development came with the addition of novelty tiles which caused random events, ranging from the merely inconvenient to the downright terminal or, if you got lucky, the beneficial. Just as special bricks turned mundane old Breakout into endlessly addictive Arkanoid, these bonus

Corner control in Splitting Images made selecting blocks easy. You just placed it over the piece you wanted to move then hit the joystick in the relevant direction. The section slid away until it hit the wall or another block.

HALL OF FAME

How does a game qualify for the Hall of Fame? It may have been a best seller in its day or overlooked and underrated. But one thing's for certain, it led the field, either creatively or technically. Clones don't qualify, however competent. And it's got lasting appeal. It's the program you still want to play after years - not weeks. So if you've got any suggestions, drop us a line.

RUBBER (LEGAL) SUITS

Until Split Personalities, Domark was best known for its massively hyped prize adventure Eureka and the lost opportunity of the first Bond licence View To A Kill. When Ernieware's demo cassette arrived it contained pictures of a standard hitherto unseen on the Spectrum. Domark delight doubled when they were told there was a game to go with the graphics.

Ever deferential, and probably with an eye to possible knighthoods, Dominic and Mark checked with Buck House whether the Queen would like to appear. The answer was a frosty 'no', but Chuck and Di were delighted and Andy and Fergie left it to the Dom's discretion - after all, they could always cart them off to the tower if they disapproved.

Less lenient were the latex lawyers of Spitting Image, who complained about the similarity between the program's original title (Spitting Images) and their satirical show. So in a matter of days the game gained a new name (Split Personalities) and the packaging was re-designed. The gameplay stayed the same though and remains to this day a demonstration of how addictive a simple brain-teasing formula can be.

blocks gave a whole new dimension to an ancient formula and transformed it from a mere micro version of a Christmas cracker novelty into a real computer game.

On pressing fire, the tiles popped out of the top left of the frame along an empty row which could hold four squares. If you obtained part of the picture all you had to do was manoeuvre it into place with relevant twitches of the joystick, sliding it as far as it would go, left or right, up or down.

Any sections which appeared too soon, such as the top left of the picture which was irrelevant early on, could be shoved through doors in either side and at the bottom of the frame to join the back of the queue. On the lower levels the doors opened and shut but as things got harder they remained open, making it all too easy to lose a piece you needed. You could also inadvertently shove a piece off the play area by banging into it with another one. And there were cracks in the walls which zapped squares on impact. The doors were also required to deal with dangerous special tiles, such as the bomb which fizzed for five seconds before it blew up, taking one of your three lives. Disposing of it in the early stages was usually easy but if you had half a picture built you could find the exits blocked. Even then you may have held disposal to the last second because hitting it with a tap tile not only neutralised it but also generated a 5000 point bonus.

There were other special benefits from bashing tiles together. A collision between two diamonds put the clock back by up to a minute and a bullet and pistol combined to double your bonus. The destructive effects of match meeting petrol can are easily imagined though.

Naturally everything became more frantic as the levels progressed with more special squares appearing and increasingly inconvenient doors. But it offered perfectly balanced playability, so that each time you got that bit further...and just had to have another go!

ACE CHARTS

The ACE Charts give you the definitive list of top scoring games EVERY MONTH – as reviewed by ALL British games magazines.

Well, this month not quite all the magazines, because sadly our charts compiler has had to go into hospital. We all wish her a speedy recovery and, in the meantime, she's still managed to include almost all the mags in her survey.

If you're new to this section, you should know that each month we print the top five games, as reviewed in the latest editions of computer magazines, for each of the main computer formats. Because these charts are based on review ratings around the country, they make an excellent buyers' guide...

We also give prizes away each month to anyone who can predict next month's entries. You can win up to £150 worth of software for your machine, so it's always worth exercising your vast knowledge of software market trend and submitting an entry.

Because software prizes have to be ordered from third parties, there are inevitably some delays in delivery. But if you experience ANY disappointments, please phone the Editor on 071 251 6222 Ext 2467 and we'll put it right.

THE STOCKMARKET

In addition to our games charts, we also have a bit of fun with the figures each month when we produce the ACE Stockmarket. It's a list of the top 25 softcos as determined by the ratings their games are currently receiving. You can see their fortunes rising and falling in each issue...

First, we calculate the average mark that each publisher receives for every one of its games on each format: this is the rating in the second column below. So, for example, if the company is great at sourcing 16-bit games but botches up its 8-bit conversions, that will pull down the average mark, even if you can see one of its titles heading up the Amiga, ST or PC charts. If all the games are excellent, or if the company has just one brilliant program doing the rounds at the moment, it will have a high rating. The third column, labelled '•' or '••', shows you how much the publisher's score has improved (or deteriorated) compared to last month.

The last column shows how well a company's games have fared compared to the Software Index. This single figure represents the average review mark (expressed as a percentage) that all games, all formats, received during the last month. It's a quick guide to how good the current crop of titles is, and each company's Index score shows how well their games compare to the norm. For example, in this month's chart, Core Design's current titles are worth 9.11 percentage points above average – according to the industry's reviewers.

We print only the top 25 companies each month. In fact, we keep tabs on all of them, but you don't want to read through a list of over 100 names in every issue. The asterisks by the Sales Curve and Klassik's names indicates that these are brand new entries to the Stock Market company column.

Finally, we take care that the information here is genuinely useful. To that end, we don't count companies which have only received a single solitary review.

Software index: 75.39

Rising sharply - and the big Christmas titles are just around the corner!

PUBLISHER	SCORE	+/-	INDEX

AMIGA

Captive	Mindscape	91
F19 Stealth Fighter	Microprose	91
Pang	Ocean	90.75
Supremacy	M. House	87.5
Simulcra	Microprose	87.25

Supremacy takes a drop and F19 climbs one place, although its rating hasn't changed from last month. Captive should still be there in next month's chart, but there are still some hotties coming up for Christmas.

C64

Complete Games Centre	CD5	92
Olli and Lissa 3	Cartoon Time	89
Lords of Chaos	Krisalis	85
ACE/ACE 2	Encore	87
Quattro Power	Code Masters	86

The budget games take over in the C64 chart this month, with CD5's compilation at the top. Let's hope we get some strong full price product this Christmas for a machine that still deserves a lot of support.

AMSTRAD CPC

Iron Lord	UbiSoft	87.17
Monty Python	Virgin	78.84
Quattro Sports	Code Masters	76.5
Night Hunter	UbiSoft	76.5
Skate Wars	UbiSoft	76.42

Ubi Soft threatens to take over on the CPC (probably reflecting the continuing strength of the machine in France), with Iron Lord indisputably the critic's choice this month.

IBM PC

4D Boxing	Mindscape	95
Wonderland	Magnetic Scrolls	94.5
Midwinter	Rainbird	83.9
Breach 2	Impressions	80
Search for the King	Accolade	69.25

Wonderland is still getting rave reviews, but Mindscape's novel approach to 4D Boxing seems to have wowed everyone. Some high-scoring games around on the PC, but not much strength in depth.

WHAT THE FIGURES ABOVE MEAN...

First, of course, you've got the game. Then the software house and – in the last column – the average score (converted to a percentage with typical ACE precision to two decimal places) the game received in ALL reviews during the last month. Don't forget that the review ratings are taken from all UK magazines, not just ACE, so we don't necessarily agree with some of the judgements here, but all review ratings are, to a certain extent, subjective.

SPECTRUM AND ST CHARTS OPPOSITE

STEP ONE

Find a postcard. Enter your name and address, a daytime telephone number if you have one, and the Round Number.

STEP TWO

Tell us your age and which machine you own. Just in case you win!

STEP THREE

Examine this month's charts. Then, using your knowledge of the games scene, try to predict which games will come top of the six machine specific charts. Finally, enter on your postcard:

- the top game for the Spectrum
- the top game for the C64
- the top game for the CPC's
- the top game for the IBM PC
- the top game for the Amiga
- the top game for the ST

YOU DON'T HAVE TO ENTER A SUGGESTION FOR EVERY MACHINE! But remember that your chances of winning may increase if you do.

STEP FOUR (OPTIONAL)

You can also try to predict which company will be at the top of next month's Stockmarket listing (see this page). Enter on the card: The top software will be...[name of company]

STEP FIVE (OPTIONAL)

If you want to go for the jackpot £150 prize, then select any of the previous categories and try to predict the top FIVE entries for next month instead of just the top one. Then tell us which category you're predicting for – it can be either the Stockmarket or any of the machine categories in Step Three. REMEMBER – YOU CAN ONLY SUBMIT ONE JACKPOT CATEGORY!

STEP SIX

Post the card (WITH a stamp!) to us to arrive not later than the closing date for this round (31st November). The address is:

ACE Stockmarket
30-32 Farringdon Lane
London

ECIR 3AU

Dozens have won prizes – perhaps you'll be lucky this time!

THIS IS ROUND 13

Each month's competition has a round number so that we can correctly identify entries. You MUST include the round number on your postcard otherwise your entry may not be processed correctly.

LATEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED ON PAGE 153!

THE RULES

- All entries must be received by November 31st 1990.
- No employees of EMAP, or of any company involved in the production, distribution, or sale of ACE Magazine are eligible for entry.
- Only one entry per household. Proof of posting not held as proof of delivery.
- We cannot undertake to deliver specific software titles as prizes, but rest assured that we will make every effort to ensure that the games get the adventure pumping!

ATARI ST

Operation Stealth	Delphine/US Gold	87.17
Rick Dangerous II	Firebird	87.04
Simulacra	Micro Style	87.02
Int'l Soccer Challenge	Micro Style	80.38

Lots of top-notch stuff to choose from on the ST this month, with the Bittmaps' Cadaver edging Operation Stealth off the top spot.

SPECTRUM

Ivan Ironman Stewart	Virgin	92.5
Satan	Dinamic	78.5
Nightbreed	Ocean	78
Salamander	Hit Squad	75.5
4x4 Off Rd Racing	Kixx	70

Here's hoping the overall quality of Spectrum product improves as we get closer to Christmas – makes Virgin's racing game look even better than the reviews

HARD SELL

Here it is: the one and only hardware guide to give you COMPLETE details on the machines you're most likely to upgrade to, including that all-important criterion of software availability.

The ACE Hardware Guide comes in two sections: 16-bit upgrades (this month); and consoles (next month). Please note: we do our best to ensure that all information is correct and update the section regularly, but we cannot be held responsible for any errors.

ACORN ARCHIMEDES

Models: Archimedes 310, 3000, 410, 420, 440

Package: keyboard, mouse and drive; keyboard mouse and drive plus monitor (colour or mono); Memory: 3000 512K; 310 1Mb; 410 1Mb; 420 2Mb; 440 4Mb

Processor: Acorn ARM
RRP: Prices range from £789.97 for A3000 alone to £2644.60 for A440 with colour monitor
Contact: Acorn 0223 245200

IN BRIEF

Still the cutting edge of micro technology, Acorn's ARM is about the fastest thing this side of a C-ray. This very exciting machine – although gathering admirers since the introduction of the A3000 – still lacks a good games software base and is best left to the enthusiast.

GRAPHICS

Resolution: 320 x 256 or 640 x 256 with normal monitors. 640 x 512 available with multi-sync monitors. Palette: 4096

Colours: From mono up to 256 (320 x 256) or 16 (640 x 512).

TV: No

Monitor Output: Mono composite video: colour – RGB + sync.

Monitor Supplied: Depends on package bought.

Monitor Options: Acorn dedicated 14 inch medium res. colour; 12 inch high res mono; Multi-sync colour.

Sprites: 1

Speed: Blistering.

SOUND

Speaker Quality: Good

MIDI: With extra hardware.

Stereo Output: Yes

Performance: 16 channels (8 stereo pairs); 6 octaves, 1 internal speaker.

HARDWARE

Disk Format: 3.5 inch – 800K

Disk Price: From £1.20 upwards.

Disk Performance: Good and fast.

Keyboard: 103 keys with programmable auto-repeat. Early keyboards have a cheap feel given the quality of the machine.

Joystick/Mouse: 3 button mouse; no support for joysticks.

Interfaces: 25 pin D parallel; 9 pin midi; 3.5mm stereo headphone jack-44 way din; 41612 expansion port; ILC 320 video output; I/O interface.

SOFTWARE

Existing Software Base: Still very limited. Some games available but software is for productivity and business.

Current Releases: See above.

Games: Most famous are Zarch (Virus) and Conqueror. But there have been several impressive one-off titles released recently.

Graphics: Potential is enormous.

Music: Like graphics, but developers remain shy.

Prospects: Limited. Even the cheaper models find it tough competing with STs and Amigas.

Software Loading: Very reliable.

BUYLINES

Best Buy Price: As RRP

Second Hand Availability: Still scarce, some 305 and 310s starting to appear but expect to pay for them.

Maintenance: One year's guarantee. Return to faulty machines dealer.

APPLE MACINTOSH

Models: SE, SE30, IIfx, IIfx

Package: Monitor with built-in CPU and disk drive, separate keyboard

Memory: 1Mb

Processor: SE Motorola 68000; IIfx 68882; IIfx Motorola 68030

Recommended Retail Price: SE

£2,195 upwards; IIfx £3540 upwards

(all ex VAT)

Contact: Apple 081-569-1199

IN BRIEF

A very expensive up-market machine for those keen on ultra user friendly computing. Software is very expensive. Quite a few games in the US, but few over here. Good for MIDI musicians. Watch out, however, for a new budget Mac, believed to be launching in the New Year.

GRAPHICS

Resolution: SE 512 x 342; II 10027 x 760

Palette: SE – black and white; II (with colour monitor) 16 million. Colours: With colour monitor – 16 to 256

TV: No

Monitor Output: Integral monitor.

Monitor Supplied: Built-in

Monitor Options: SE – use dedicated model only; II Apple hi-res monochrome or Apple/Color hi-res RGB.

Sprites: None

Speed: SE reasonably fast; II very fast. SE30 and IIfx even faster; IIfx blinding

SOUND

Speaker Quality: Good

MIDI: Third party interfaces available.

Stereo Output: SE no; II yes.

Performance: 4 channels give good performance.

HARDWARE

Disk Format: 3.5 inch – 800K

Disk Price: £1.50 – £2.00

Disk Performance: Generally fast

Keyboard: Separate with 81 keys including function keys and numeric key pad. Optional extra is the Apple Extended keyboard with 105 keys.

Joystick/Mouse: Joystick is not supported; high-quality single button mouse is supplied with machine.

SOFTWARE

Existing Software Base: A very wide base exists in all fields except games.

Current Releases: Adequate, though largely of US origin and in the business or DTP field.

Games: Very few arcade titles but plenty of icon driven adventures.

Graphics: Lots of interesting software for those interested in DIY publishing.

Music: Very well supported for MIDI software – but it's expensive to boot.

Prospects: As always, excellent – especially in business and DTP.

Software Loading: Quick and reliable.

BUYLINES

Best Buy Price: Generally the RRP – Macs are only sold through dealerships. Ask for a discount for cash.

Second Hand Availability: Scarce and expensive. A better market exists in older models but these are best avoided.

Maintenance: One year's guarantee. Apple offers AppleCare – "insurance" you take out to cover the cost of repairs after the guarantee has run out.

ATARI ST

Models: Atari 520STFM; 520STE;

1040STE; Mega ST; Stacy

Package: 520 and 1040 have keyboard with built-in disk drive; Mega versions have separate keyboard.

Power Pack includes 520STE with light gun, joystick and £400 of "free" software. New "Discovery" pack includes similar value software to Power pack but with an STFM and an educational bent.

Memory: 520STFM and 520STE 512K; 1040STE 1Mb; Mega ST 1, 2 or 4Mb; Stacy 2 or 4Mb. STE machines expand internally to 4Mb.

Processor: Motorola 68000

Recommended Retail Price:

520STE (Power Pack) £399;

520STFM (Discovery Pack) £299;

1040STE £499; Stacy N/A

Contact: Atari 0753 33344

IN BRIEF

Excellent as a general purpose home machine for games, small business and productivity. It's the number one choice for MIDI musicians. The ST's price still gives it a slight edge over the graphically more advanced Amiga. The new baby ST – Stacy – is tipped by Atari to be the musician's portable since it is a complete 2Mb or 4Mb ST with hard disk and mono monitor in a small box.

GRAPHICS

Resolution: Low-res 320 x 200;

medium res 640 x 200; high-res 640 x 400

Palette: STFM 512; STE 4096; Stacy 2 Colours: Black and white in high-res; 4 colours in medium-res; 16 in low-res.

TV: Yes. Not Stacy.

Monitor Output: STFM models only, others through TV modulator

Monitor Supplied: No; Stacy has integral LCD monitor

Monitor Options: Atari monitors SM124 high-res mono; SC1442 med res colour.

Sprites: 1

Speed: Fast

NB High resolution display is only available on monochrome monitor; medium and low res displays only available on colour monitors or TVs. Blitter fitted to late STfms (standard on STE) improves the GEM access.

SOUND

Speaker Quality: Depends on monitor.

MIDI: Yes

Stacy Output: STE only.

Performance: 3 channel sound is average to good depending on software. STE features 8 bit PCM sound but no current software uses it.

HARDWARE

Disk Format: 3.5 inch - 720K

Disk Price: £1.20 to £1.50

Disk Performance: Reliable and fast. Early machines were supplied with a single-sided disk drive.

Keyboard: 96 keys including 10 functions keys. Has a cheap feel which can be improved with third party spring kits.

Joystick/Mouse: 2 joystick ports are standard. 2 button mouse is supplied with machine. Stacy is supplied with a trackball.

SOFTWARE

Existing Software Base: Excellent. A few budget titles are starting to appear now.

Current Releases: None of the major software houses ignore the ST so it is well served with plenty of good software.

Games: About the board.

Graphics: Good with some excellent software to manipulate them.

Music: Excellent. Plenty of sound samplers, editors and MIDI software make this the musician's choice.

Prospects: Very good, but the Amiga is currently the favourite with software houses in the UK and the ST has failed to capture a market in the States.

Software Loading: A hangover from the original machines is the 360K disk format which means few companies bother to supply double-sided disks. This means large games require two or more disks with all the tedious disk swapping this entails.

BUYLINES

Best Buy Price: As RRP. Watch out for the twice yearly bundles.

Second Hand Availability: Very common and quite cheap. STs do not hold their value well - beware very old, single sided machines.

Maintenance: One year's guarantee. Return to dealer if faulty.

COMMODORE AMIGA

Models: Amiga A500; A2000; A3000

Package: A500 has keyboard and built-in drive with separate PSU; A2000 has separate keyboard with built-in (fan assisted) PSU. Recently released A3000 is a very powerful machine indeed.

Memory: A500 512K; A2000 1M; A3000

Processor: 500/2000 Motorola 68000; A3000 68030 16 or 25MHz

Recommended Retail Price: A500 £NA; A2000 £1236.25; Batman Pack £399.99; Flight of Fantasy Pack £399.99; Class Of The 90's pack £579.99; A3000 from £2659

Contact: 0628 878888

IN BRIEF

A stunning specification with custom chips to rival almost everything around, the Amiga is the first choice for the most exigent of games players and video professionals. After an initially shaky start the machine continues to sell extremely well and has overtaken the ST in the UK, though the latter machine still has a slightly larger installed base. The A3000 is a top-end workstation substitute; includes Workbench 2, featuring enhanced icons, file handling, and security features plus Amiga Vision, a multi-media programming tool. A3000 also comes in three configurations, ranging from a 16MHz, 40Mbyte hard disk at £2659 to a 25/100 at £3610.

GRAPHICS

Resolution: From 320 x 200 to 640 x 400 (more possible in software)

Palette: 4096

Colours: 2, 4, 8, 16, 32, 64 or 4096

TV: With modulator.

Monitor Output: SCART + composite video in monochrome.

Monitor Supplied: No

Monitor Options: C1084 £349.99

Sprites: 16 in hardware + unlimited BOBs from software.

Speed: Very fast with good software.

SOUND

Speaker Quality: Depends on monitor.

MIDI: No. Third party interfaces available.

Stereo Output: 2 phono connectors.

Performance: Among the best around. Custom hardware squeezes 9 octaves of 8 bit digital sound into the four channels.

HARDWARE

Disk Format: 3.5 inch - 837K A3000; 40/100Mbyte hard disk formatted.

Disk Price: £1.20 - £2.00

Disk Performance: Noisy and sluggish. Third party software is available to improve matters.

Keyboard: 94 keys. 10 function keys and separate cursor cluster.

Joystick/Mouse: 2 button mouse supplied as standard.

Interfaces: Two Joystick/mouse; stereo audio; external disk drive(s); RS232 serial; Centronics parallel printer; SCART RGB/video; composite monochrome video; expansion bus (internal on A2000; 32 bit on A3000); clock/memory expansion on A500 only; internal PC expansion on A2000 and A3000.

SOFTWARE

Existing Software Base: Similar to the ST.

Current Releases: Everyone's doing them.

Games: Something for everyone.

Graphics: Quality and range is unsurpassed.

Music: Needs better support for MIDI. Internal sound software is well supported thanks to IFF standards.

Prospects: Excellent.

Software Loading: Noisy but usually reliable. Plagued by viruses.

BUYLINES

Best Buy Price: Old Amiga 1000s can be picked up cheaply enough but these lack the extra graphics modes of later models. Try to find a good value pack.

Second Hand Availability: Becoming common. Best buys are late Amiga 500s with Kickstart 1.2.

Maintenance: One year's guarantee. Return faulty machines to dealers.

IBM PC

Model: IBM's PC was the first PC to be accepted in large quantities (not the first PC) and remains the standard by which all others are judged. There are hundreds of clones and variations including offerings from Amstrad, Atari and Commodore. In general, with PCs you pay for speed and better graphics standards. The extra money is worth it if you can afford it.

Package: Depends on the manufacturer although most are supplied with monitors. They can even be bought in kit form at no extra saving Memory: Usually 512K or 640K. Can be anything from 64K to 1Mb+. Always go for a 640K model.

Processor: Intel 8088/8086 in base machine is sometimes replaced with the faster NEC V20/30. More expensive machines are based on Intel's much faster 286, 386/5, 386 and even the latest 486.

Recommended Retail Price: Can be picked up for as little as £299 for a "no frills" machine. With top-of-the-range 486 based clones - and the official IBM versions - the sky's the limit. Look for a good EGA or VGA model for between £750 and £1200.

IN BRIEF

Superb value if you want the ultimate all-rounder, the PC still betrays its business origins. Almost every major software house now port their titles to the PC but these remain limited by the constraints of the basic (most common) machines - which means they tend to be limited in sound and graphics. Definitely NOT first choice if entertainment is your preferred use for computers, or if you cannot afford the better EGA or VGA models (these are really essential for good games playing).

GRAPHICS

The first PCs weren't fitted with graphics as standard but most clones incorporate the necessary hardware and come with a monitor. There are three main standards: CGA - a nasty but all too common colour display, EGA about the lowest colour display worth considering, and Hercules monochrome. To get Amiga/ST graphics you must go for at least EGA or VGA which are usually only fitted as standard to more expensive machines (Amstrad's PC2086 is one exception).

Resolution: CGA 320 x 200; EGA 640 x 350; Hercules 720 x 384

Palette: CGA 8 (in two fixed sets); EGA 64

Colours: CGA 4; EGA 16; Hercules/2

Monitor Output: TTL RGB/RGBI (CGA); analogue RGB (EGA)

Monitor Options: Vast. Many monitors are dedicated to just one or two modes - some have amber, green or white monochrome displays - check before buying.

Sprites: None

Speed: From very slow - 8088 to very fast - 80486

SOUND

Speaker Quality: Anything poor from to downright diabolical. MIDI: Third party interfaces available.

Stereo Output: No

Performance: Not the ideal machine for the musically bent - an Atari ST offers more for MIDI, the Amiga more for software sound purists.

HARDWARE

Disk Format: 5.25in - 180/360K/1.2Mb; 3.5in 720K/1.44Mb

Disk Price: 60p - £3.00

SEGA MASTER

Tecmagik is an exciting new software label created by the International Development Group (IDG) to produce new games on the Sega Master System. The first releases will be Master versions of Pacmania, Populous and Shadow of the Beast. All three titles will be available between March and October next year. IDG was originally established back in 1984 to create marketing and licensing opportunities for American, Far Eastern and European companies. And now for something completely different...

BLACK BELT

BOSS ONE (RYU): Jump over him, face him in mid-air and on landing punch him then quickly kick him. Chase him into the corner then, as he runs back past you, repeat the aforementioned routine.
BOSS TWO (HAWK): Jump his projectile then, as you land, kick him. Keep advancing at him, kicking him whenever possible.
BOSS THREE (GONTA): Make him walk toward you with his hands outstretched. Run into him, punching rapidly. If he jumps at you, back off. Don't get too far away or he'll run at you.

BOSS FOUR (ONI): Stay in the left corner of the screen. When ONI is less than an inch away, kick. He will duck and punch you. As he rises, kick him. Repeat the routine. Don't worry about losing energy, he dies with one energy block left.
BOSS FIVE (RITA): Use the following routine on her... Kick, Punch, Down Punch, Down Kick, Kick, Punch, Down Punch, Down Kick, Fly Kick.
BOSS SIX (WANG): You're on your own here!
 • Jojo Cicero and Mark Hook from Wales

SHINOBI

On the title screen, wait for the Ninja face to appear then press down and button two on the control pad. A blank screen will appear for a second, shortly followed by a screen that allows you to start on any stage of any level.
 • James Greenland from Bristol

GOLDEN AXE

To add an extra credit (you can only do this once), wait for the GAME OVER message then press the joystick diagonally up and left.
 • Daniel Jakubas from Loughborough

BE MASTERFUL!

This is your chance for world-wide fame. Write-in with your Sega Master System tips, cheats and comments to: SEGA ACE LINES, ACE Magazine, EMAP Images, Priority Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU - or fax 071 490 1094.

SPECTRUM

"And none by one they fell from grace, with poisoned arrow heath their heart. To journey to a distant place where no-one really gave a fart."

The strangest thing to happen in the Spectrum world lately must be absence of the +3 from many large chain-stores at the moment. Indeed, I had a difficult time in obtaining a +3 just a few weeks back and was horrified when independent shops in London and Birmingham told me the machine had been discontinued. Would Amstrad make a decision to halt production on the +3 and bundle all its hopes into the sales of the +2 Christmas pack?

Peter Roback of Amstrad insisted that this was most definitely not the case. "It's true that we'll not be promoting the +3 this Christmas, but I don't know where retailers got the idea that Amstrad had halted production. We are promoting the +2 Bond pack this Christmas but we feel the +2 promotes the range of Spectrum machines."

He also went on to say that +3's are available and held in stock. He suggested that perhaps independent retailers are not holding much stock of +3 but insisted that the +3 had always done well through the independents. So, what is exactly happening? Well, the Christmas spend seems to be centered on an advertising budget aimed purely at the +2 double oh, oh, 007 pack which seems to mark a back to cassette only games for Spectrum owners. Perhaps this news should create a bit of a sales boom in one area at least. All those lucky creatures who sell Multiface 3's and similar tape-to-disk products should be rubbing their hands with glee as they race to the bank.

IT'S WAR!

It's that time of year again when suddenly, all the software houses suddenly leap out of bed, and like an incontinent Rube Goldberg, suddenly relieve themselves of all the products that they have had slowly working their way through their systems for the whole year. Yes indeed! They've all had the CES exhibition with which to display themselves to the public in a ritual reminiscent of a male peacocks courting ritual. And in a reaction that could very well be equally reminiscent of the female who is being courted, we must ask, "Okay, we've seen the show but what's in it for me?" Well there are a lot of titles out there - all being busily programmed even as we speak.

Ocean's hopes for the Yuletide number one slot must rest with their film licence deals - namely Robocop II which, if it has the same success as its predecessor, we'll probably see in the top 20 charts for at least a year after release. It only has to be as good as Robocop I and Ocean are once again, in the money. Film licence number two will hit our screen in the guise of Ocean's Total Recall, it's still being programmed at the time of writing. Though Ocean's Pang would take top place this year in the Specy stakes - if products sold on their own merit. I can only say that it's the best graphics I've ever seen on a Spectrum. And I've seen some.

Meanwhile, Mirrosoft's Predator II is currently under the programmers fingers at Arc Developments. The team have been given a fairly free rein with the development of the game play, graphics et al and so, it'll be interesting to see whether this added responsibility will produce the best of results. The graphics on Amiga are excellent and due to the amazing quality of the graphics on Ocean's Pang, I expect a lot of this package. In fact Mirrosoft may well have it all their own way this Christmas with their major industry scoop - the Teenage Mutant Hero Turtle licence. The full colour graphics on this are good and it seems that Probe, the development house, have done an excellent job. With good game play, good, full colour graphics and the Turtle licence, I can't see any way that Turtles won't take full honors this Christmas.

US Gold has been releasing good quality games regularly throughout the year and Christmas looks to be no exception - but if they can fight through all the big piggy-back marketing of the other biggies, then my friend, they are a man. US Gold have several, including ESWAT, Line of Fire and UN Squadron.

CPC

Well what have we here? No sooner do several companies speculate as to the doubtful longevity of the CPC, than a virtual barrage of releases find their way onto the market in glorious CPC format, (yay).

First off, we have Microstyle's Rick Dangerous II, the follow up to the incredibly successful puzzle-based platform original. Sporting reasonably drawn, very colourful graphics and very good quality sound (loads of FX and a different tune for each level), RD II packs all the frustration and addictiveness of the original, which just goes to prove that there's life in the old CPC yet.

Secondly, we have several releases from the suddenly prolific Gremlin, who have certainly been a bit quiet on the CPC front of late. Not only have they recently released Switchblade on GX4000 format, but they are currently in the throes of putting together both Lotus Esprit Turbo Challenge and the somewhat ambitious conversion of Shadow Of The Beast (originally from Psygnosis). All three of these titles look impressive, the common denominator being that each use the Amstrad's four-colour mode as opposed to the lower resolution 16-colour mode. The resulting effect is that the extra resolution allows a very impressive level of detail to be achieved - nice going Gremlin!

News from a recent departure in the games world. Nemesis, the company behind the classics Bonzo Blitz, Super Meddler and Maxidos, have well and truly kicked the bucket. However, the software will still be made available through suppliers Microstyle (no, nothing to do with the Microprose subsidiary) and the latter product is to be given away with every Microstyle disk drive purchased. All three titles are to appear in software bundles, priced at £13.75 each and since production is to continue, stocks will not be limited. To order or gain more information, contact Microstyle at 212 Dudley Hill Road, Bradford, West Yorkshire BD2 3DF, or telephone on (0274) 636652.

There's nothing like fluidity in prose, so here it isn't, some assistance for the tape version of the Rainbow Arts blast Turrican:

And a quick tip for those of you having trouble with the first couple of screens of Knightmare.... Go to the dripping wall, take the water and give it to the old man. Then take the food and give that to him as well, in return for which he should give you a magic spade. Walk into the second room (open door) and use the spade.

Back on the track for news, I hear that Amstrad have decided to withdraw the Speccy Plus 3 from the market. Now whilst Spectrum owners may feel sad at the loss of this machine, it does bode well for those of us with Amstrad's own, especially those considering buying a 6128+. The reason Amstrad stopped manufacturing the disk-driven spectrum, is because it feels that the machine competes with the new 6128. Granted the speccy may cost half as much as the 6128+ AND have the ability to be plugged into any TV, BUT... the new Amstrad is technically superior and comes packaged with a monitor. In addition to this, now that the Plus 3 has gone, Amstrad will be able to concentrate their full attention on the new machine. A welcome change of heart from the company, who have at times appeared to let their machines plod along in no particular direction.

And finally, the SX1100 Challenger, this stick boasts a somewhat unusual six button configuration, allowing use by either left or right handed players. (There is even an infrared version for those who like to wander!) And on that rather deranged note, let's hear it for the CPC!

With so many people poo-pooing the survival chances of the 8-bit formats, it's good to hear that the C64 is still going strong. In fact, software houses are reporting that C64 games are outselling those of every other 8-bit machine, including the C64's long-time nemesis, the Sinclair Spectrum!

The C64's likelihood of high sales this Xmas are very good, especially following the announcement of Commodore's £159 bundles, which comprises a C64 computer, C2N cassette deck, two joysticks (a great idea with so many two-player games about) and the all-important games. These are made up of two compilations: Ocean's Night Moves, which contains Shadow Warriors, Secret Agent, Midnight Resistance and Nightbreed, and Domark's Midbenders, which contains Trivial Pursuits, Shane, Confusion and Split Personalities. The intention would appear to be to mix arcade thrills with more thoughtful tasks, perhaps to attract parents looking for a more educational aspect to a computer and don't want Junior turning into a video junkie (not that it ever hurt me!).

Commodore has also taken this opportunity to repack the 1571 disk drive. The price is now down by £50 to £129.99, and this includes the two compilation packs given away with the C64 bundle detailed earlier. Commodore has clamped down on third-party drive manufacturers copying the protected technology used in the disk interface and it has thus seized control of the market.

Of course, if the console is a hit then the future looks even brighter still. The price of the cartridges will apparently be around the £20-25 mark initially (quite steep compared to what C64 owners are used to), but once they start selling in volume this will hopefully drop to about £15, no more than a disk-based game. Incidentally, the game compilation being bundled with the C64GS, which contains Klax, Fiendish Freddy's Big Top o' Fun, Flimbo's Quest and International Soccer, will be released on its own, along with two joysticks, for the delectation and delight of C64 owners at the very reasonable price of £29.99.

Commodore seems to have a lot of confidence in the C64 being with us, in some form or another (note that statement!), for quite some time. So, shout it loud and shout it proud, 'Long live the Commodore 64'.

I recently had a letter from Peter Martin in Liverpool, who wrote in to say how much he liked the new style Pink Pages (I'm pleased that you do!) and whether I had any pokes for the old but very much a giddy Batman-The Caped Crusader. I certainly have, Peter. To obtain infinite energy for the winged wonder in his clash with the

Penguin simply type in the following BASIC routine and RUN it:

10 FOR I=348 TO 432: READ A: POKE (A-NEI)
20 SYS 384
30 DATA 32, 86, 245, 169, 32, 141, 94, 3, 96
40 DATA 147, 141, 93, 3, 169, 1, 141, 94, 3
50 DATA 173, 89, 1, 201, 32, 240, 4, 173, 5
60 DATA 96, 169, 169, 141, 89, 1, 169, 1,
141, 159, 125, 76, 32, 6
70 DATA 169, 181, 141, 159, 125, 76, 32, 6
```

...but for the ruck with the Joker change line 70 to read the following:

This is the sort of service I'm more than happy to extend to readers of the column. If you're having trouble with a game, be it old or new, just write in and I'll try to do the best I can to get some tips for it into the next issue. Also, remember that if you have any short tips or hints please send them in.

I have to admit that Peter was the ONLY person who wrote into the column this month. Where are you all? I know that you're out there to do write in - about anything, please! I really do need to know what sort of topics you want to see featured in this column. (Why do I have this terrible feeling that I've said this before?)

SUPER SHINOBI

Level One: Select Kariu magic and it, then somersault and shoot who he is slashing till he explodes.
Level Two: Select Kariu magic and
it. Then, when he is somersaulting walk next to him, crouch and shoot
Do this until he explodes.
Level Three: Walk forwards to the machine, wait until the laser is above you, then walk back to the left side of the screen. Wait until the laser is above you, then walk forward as the brain should be visible, jump and shoot, then somersault and shoot.
The brain will now be hidden again.
Repeat the cycle described above.
After about seven times, select Kariu magic and use it. If the brain is still alive, repeat the whole cycle until it explodes.
Level Four: This is an android, wait until it lifts the scrap metal above its head, then walk towards it and shoot. When it has thrown the metal it will charge twice. Jump over his charge and then he will throw another piece of metal.

GAMEBOY

Bullet-Proof Software has done a good job converting Pipe Dream onto Nintendo's handheld baby. This alone could even replace Tetris as the arcade strategy game to play on the Gameboy. Originally on computer formats, Pipe Dream is a very original title with you acting as a hi-tech plumber building a pipe system so that 'boos' can freely flow. Fast logical thinking, real-time creativity and quick joystick reflexes are just some of the attributes you require to successfully complete the game. Those generous chaps at Entertainment International have 'lent' me a copy of the game - they won't see this one back in a hurry - so you can expect a full review in the next issue of ACE.

Talking of issue 40, we'll also be reviewing Boulderdash, a classic C64 game now available in beautiful portable monochrome. How does it compare to the original? Find out next month...

Zoids

Dale Wilks has sent in his personal review of this £27 cart from Tomy: "You've played the (rather old) computer game, you've seen the build'em and break'em plastic toys, now Tomy revives the fearsome war-robot robots on the Gameboy. Gameboy Zoids is not a new version of the old strategy game, but a shoot'em-up based on the zoids. You play the part of the heroic blue zoids in a battle to rid the earth of the evil red. You begin by choosing which team of three zoids you want to use, although this has absolutely no effect on the game, and is purely aesthetic. You are then shown a picture of the zoid's pilot with attributes like speed, weight, etc. (Although these are all in Japanese!) The game then begins with your zoid walking from left to right, laying waste to the assorted robots which fly, crawl and swim towards you, whilst absorbing lethal boulders, bushes, fire-spitting volcanoes and other obstacles. Extra energy and weapon upgrades can be collected on the way, and each zoid has their own type of super-weapon, which acts as a kind of smart bomb. These are in short supply, but they can also be found scattered around.

After completing 3 stages, one of the main red zoids has to be defeated by shooting it several times before progressing to the next level. There are some excellent shoot'em-ups available for the Gameboy - I'm afraid

Zoids isn't one of them."

HAVE YOU ANY PLAYING TIPS AND CHEATS?

Please send your game tips into us at: GAMEBOY ACE LINES, ENAP IMAGES, PRIORITY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGTON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU.

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES

Dale Wilks from Cambridge has sent us in a useful tip on this brilliant martial arts arcade game. When one of turtles is low on energy, press Start to pause the game, then press Up, Up, Down, Down, Left, Right, Left, Right, B and A to give you full energy again. This can only be done once per game.

NEMESIS

Thanks to Mizanur Rahman from Hull for this mega weapon cheat for the classic Konami Horz-scrolling shoot'em-up. Start the game and press Start to pause. Then press Up, Up, Down, Down, Left, Right, Left, Right, B, A, B and A. You'll now have all the weapons except speed-ups and 45° directional firing. Have you a sense of deja vu with this tip? It's about time Konami came up with a new method for activating the cheat modes in its games.

SUPER MARIO LAND

Mizanur Rahman has the locations to the secret rooms in this playable platform-romp:

- World 1-1: Pipes 3 and 6
- World 2-3: Pipe 9
- World 2-1: First and last pipes
- World 2-2: First and last pipes
- World 3-1: First and last pipes
- World 3-2: Pipe 7
- World 3-3: Pipe 4
- World 4-1: Pipes 1 and 34 (before the stack of guns)
- World 4-2: Pipes 2 and 12 (use your gun to collect all the gems)

TETRIS

Jody Goodall from Manchester has found a way to put this arcade puzzle game on speed. Press Down and Start at the same time on the title screen for a super fast game. A heart will appear next to the level number to confirm this cheat.

CASTLEVANIA ADVENTURE

Mizanur Rahman has the way to gain the hidden extra lives in this epic game...

Level 1: You need a powered up whip, you can now shoot the token with the fireball and the one-up will fall to the ground.

Level 2: Run and jump across all three moving platforms, whilst resisting the temptation of using your whip while you're in the air.

Level 3: Wait for the ceiling to fall then hit the tower four times, make sure the last hit is very late. Quickly run back to the torch, jump and whip it to collect the one-up.

AMIGA

The launch of the CDTV in Spring 1991 is getting ever closer by the minute. However, you may be having reservations about forking out the 700 snickers required to buy yourself this little piece of hardware heaven. After all, the machine may be a marvellous piece of kit, as ACE readers will no doubt be aware, but it wouldn't be the first time that the great British public has decided not to embrace the next best thing since sliced bread. But have no fear, here comes good ol' Commodore to the rescue. They are currently negotiating with several big High Street television and video outfits to organise CDTV rental, with a monthly fee of £25-30 being suggested. Thus you will be able to give the machine a full test in the comfort of your own home before having to take the risk of parting with the realies. Well done, Commodore!

And so, on to games. It's very rare in this world to have a sequel turn out better than the original, but Anco managed to pull it off with Kick Off 2. Fans of this fantastic game - surely one of the true computer classics in recent years - will no doubt be pleased to hear that Anco are soon to release Kick Off 2 Extra Time, which should include such features as pitch slope and goalkeeper control. Keep an eye out for it.

Time seems to be going so quickly. 1990 is slowly drawing to a close and all too soon Xmas will be upon us again. Poor old Granny will be trekking through a howling gale to get to the software shop, scanning the shelves for a game to fill little Timmy's stockings. As she carts her rheumy gale over the bewildering range of brightly packaged titles, she clutches at the £25 in fear gnarled hand, a sum culled from many months scrimping and saving small amounts of her meagre pension.

Which should she buy? She doesn't know anything about these computer games, they all look the same to her. And what if she spends all that hard saved money only to find that Timmy already has it. Oh, the dilemma! Then her gaze falls onto a compilation - Timmy's surely not going to have every game in the pack, is he? Oh, the utter joy! Her trembling fingers clutch the box to her chest as she shuffles towards to the cashier...

Yes, once again the software manufacturers are bringing out these bundled packages of titles, and it has to be said that many of them are excellent value for money. Here's a quick overview of four of the most recent:

• Platinum, from US Gold, collects four recent hit Capcom conversions, namely Ghouls 'n Ghosts, Strider, Forgotten Worlds and Black Tiger. All are above average conversions, with Black Tiger the only weak link.

• Hollywood Collection, from Ocean, comprises of Batman, RoboCop, Ghostbusters II and Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade (action game). Batman is the main star here, with the other three titles being fairly average. Still good value for money, though.

• TNT, from Domark, bundles the Tengen conversions Xybots, Toobin', APB, Dragon Spirit and Hard Drivin'. These are all decent conversions, and the fact that there are five of 'em makes them even better value.

• Wheels of Fire, again from Domark, is made up of Chase HQ, Turbo Outrun, Powerdirt and Hard Drivin'. If you're a racing freak, you can't really go wrong here. Powerdirt is pretty abysmal, but the rest are at least above average.

There you go, now make up your own minds as to which to spend your (or Granny's) money on.

As you may have noticed, Hard Drivin' appears twice in these compilations, and it thus seems appropriate to pass on this handy little tip from Jason Hutchins, who lives all the way round the other side of the world in North Lake, Western Australia. G'day, friend - it's nice to know that ACE is so widely read!

Anyway, on with the tip. To access it all you have to do is select manual transmission, accelerate to the required speed and then press the "N" key. The speedometer will drop to zero, but the car will continue moving at the old speed. You will find that the car won't skid, or slow down if you crash. If you do want to decrease speed, press "1" to go into first gear. Thanks, Jason!

Those of you having trouble with Rainbow Arts' wonderful Turrican (my favourite blast at the moment) will welcome this cheat code from Brian RM of Bristol. Type in BLUESMOBI on the high score table, and - voila! - 99 lives are yours for the using and abusing!

By the way, if you have any other brief tips or cheats, please send them to me at the usual ACE address. However, please note that maps and long game solutions are really TNT's province. That's all for this month - ciao!

Sam Vickers

ATARI ST

Recent rumours in the computer industry have indicated that the ST may be on its way out within the next year. What foundation these rumours have I shudder to think. However the deluge of software to be released over the Christmas period makes that statement highly ironic and should see the industry eating its own words – with any luck!

Now for the news... Having heard of Atari's intentions to release an ST console – the Panther – what you may NOT have realised is that the company also has plans for a new mid-range ST – the Jaguar – aimed at low-end Desk Top Publishing and business markets. Scheduled for release next spring, the Jaguar looks intended to fill the gap between the £300 ST and £2000 plus TT, currently hardly bridged by the presence of the STE.

When launched, the new machine should retail at about £750 and, correctly presented (something Atari have been notoriously bad at in the past), should help secure the apparently doubtful future of the ST (due to a rekindled Atari market).

Next up, another new ST based machine – the pseudo-portable 'Tracy' from Australian company Austech computers, is designed to be plugged into a monitor or TV 'on the move'. Internal hardware incorporates an Apple Mac emulator, 286-based PC, 40mb hard-disk and 2 megs of Ram.

Right, enough of the teccy stuff, let's move onto the rather more original titles looking to present ST owners with a huge range of high-quality software of massive variation. Not only are there the obvious licences such as 'Turtles, Robocop 2, Total Recall, Godfather and Gazza 2, but there will also be more original titles looking to become classics, including Infogrames' Light Corridor, (a 3D scrolling breakout affair), Botx from Krysals (an isometric Pong derivative) and the excellent B.A.T. from UBI Soft, a role-playing game set in a darkened future, boasting a huge number of locations, superb graphics and an exciting new add-on giving the ST 16-channel sound capability! UBI Soft hope that the cartridge will help combat piracy (working as the kind of widgeon previously seen in USG's World Class Leaderboard) and if successful, intend to use its capabilities in the future.

So, there you have it. The doom and gloom predicted by the industry seems to have suffocated under its own enthusiasm. Ah well, the world is a strange and fickle place, full of things that mere mortals are not meant to wot of.

IBM PC

PC software is far too expensive. That's right, it's far too expensive – but this is partly your own fault. You see, the price of software has always been related to the initial cost of the machine it services... that's why C64 software always cost more than the Spectrum equivalent, and it's also why your games cost a good deal more (up to 15 quid more in some cases) than those that your mate buys for his ST or Amiga.

Okay, that bit's not your fault, but what is your fault is that publishers are reluctant to release 'budget' software for the PC like they do for every other machine because so far you've kept what's on offer at a low price at a distance somewhat greater than the length of your arm.

The situation is so ridiculous that Virgin Mastertronic's 16-Blitz budget label actually decided to raise the price of its software in order to make it more attractive. According to the label's product manager Andrew Wright:

"PC owners turn up their noses at a game which only costs a fiver, so we've introduced a new range, 16-Blitz Plus, which will feature re-releases of hits at £7.99."

Do you want to read that again? You wouldn't buy it for a fiver so they're now going to charge eight pounds – and it's a good bet that sales will probably increase dramatically.

The most amazing thing is that under these circumstances any of the publishers are bothering to release games at budget prices – but they are, so here's a quick run through of what's come on stream in the last month or so.

One of the larger companies which has only just entered the budget market is Electronic Arts, with its Star Performers range. These are all games which have had a full-price release and are now selling at £9.99. Of the six PC titles available, only three are real stunners – Bard's Tale II, Chuck Yeager's AFT and Skate Or Die – but that's not a bad strike rate, and picking up those three for the price of one new piece of full-price chart fodder can only be a good thing.

The aforementioned 16 Blitz range also has a new range poised to attack your small change, kicking off with Xenon and Double Dragon: the former (not to be confused with its older brother, Xenon II) was the now infamous Bitmap Brothers' first effort and still provides a good deal of challenging shoot 'em up action – on the subject of Double Dragon however, I think the less that's said the better.

Walsall-based Elite is another of the 'majors' which has decided to unleash some of its back

MAC EMULATION +

News that may upset die-hard owners – the announcement of two new gadgets allowing the ST to handle Macware, giving the potential to run powerful DTP software of the kind previously unavailable. The first, (Mac Emulator v.3) includes support for the Mac Laserwriter, the ability to format Mac disks on the ST, compatibility for 68020 and 68030 and using PC disks in Macmode. Such a powerful tool should come in very handy for those of you involved with DTP.

Secondly, the market has recently seen the launch of an internal genlock for the Mega-ST range and an external one for STE's, in addition to an enhanced palette giving 4096 colour capability.

Okay I know I said only 2 gadgets, but here's a third. Forging ahead in the quest to allow the ST to operate fully as a Mac replacement for DTP, an ST version of the hardware AppleTalk emulator (surprisingly named STalk!) has become available, allowing the ST to operate an effective DTP system at less than a quarter of the usual cost.

catalogue, kicking off with two TV licences, A Question Of Sport and Mike Read's Pop Quiz. Actually these are basically the same game, albeit with different questions – and they're actually a little bit on the expensive side at a tender apiece – but if you want a little family fun, pick the one whose subject matter most suits your preference and kill some time showing off your amazing wealth of trivial knowledge.

The trouble with budget software though is that it's something of a double-edged sword. If games drop in value too quickly, then it's bound to damage their sales when they originally appear as people won't mind waiting a little while to get them at one third of the price. If however, the low price release is delayed for too long then the games will look so out of date that we'll remain in exactly the same situation as we're in at the moment with games buyers looking down with contempt on anything that costs less than 20 pounds.

Personally, I'm looking forward to the day when Populous, Midwinter and the likes become affordable to every PC gamesplayer – and the rise of a strong market for budget software can only help to bring this day a little closer. So, to do your bit, next time you see a gift horse, try to hold back for just a little while before examining its teeth – who knows, you may even end up with a few classics to add to your collection.

TCB TRACKER

THE PROFESSIONAL MUSIC PROGRAM FOR YOUR ST

TURN YOUR ST INTO A PROFESSIONAL MUSIC STUDIO WITH THE - TCB TRACKER

The TCB Tracker - is a 4 channel music synthesiser, drum machine, and mixing studio that allows you to play back 4 different samples all at the same time in glorious stereo (STE only) without any special hardware. It will run on ANY ST and will automatically make use of any extra memory, disk drives and MIDI equipment that you have.

The TCB TRACKER - uses special techniques to replay all 4 channels simultaneously at 10KHz to give crystal clear sound. Not only is the music clear, but it is also very loud. Music that is this clear and loud isn't normally achieved without using all the computer's processor time. The - TCB TRACKER - will only use a MAXIMUM of 28% leaving plenty of time for the computer to do other things. This makes the - TCB TRACKER - perfect for both the demo writers and professional programmers alike.

TCB TRACKER - FEATURES

- ★ 4 Channels of sampled sound
- ★ Simple Keyboard Entry
- ★ Full Midi Compatibility
- ★ Turns Yours ST into a 3 Octave Keyboard
- ★ Uses a maximum of 28% processor Time
- ★ Stereo Sound on the STE
- ★ Amiga Bass
- ★ Simple Keyboard Shortcuts
- ★ Stores up to 16 samples in Memory
- ★ Powerful volume control
- ★ Tuning of Samples
- ★ Must add to your own programs
- ★ Over 20 Cut and Paste functions
- ★ On screen help.

PC ENGINE

Hello and welcome to a completely new column dedicated to the PC Engine and the Super Grafx. There's still uncertainty about an official launch of the Engine in the UK, but in the meantime an Austrian firm called Digital Image Systems have stepped in and purchased the European PC Engine until NEC take over - hopefully in the spring.

Digital Image Systems will be releasing the console and all the peripherals, such as joypads, 5 player adapters, audio-visual booster and most importantly the Compact Disc Rom Player. They will also be releasing all the latest and greatest Engine games complete with English instructions and packaging. All this backed up with a helpline phone number sounds like a winner. The main query is whether the machine will be fully compatible with grey imports. First indications appear to be no but nobody will really know until the machine hits the shops, priced at £160-170 for the machine and the normal price for the games....

CORKING GOOD GAMES !!!

New Engine games at the minute after the summer lull include: Klax which is a pretty good conversion of the arcade game. The gameplay is there but there is a slight difference in the speed and the lack of a two player option is a bit of a disappointment. Another new game is Operation Wolf, the graphics are spot on and that along with the playability involved in going behind enemy lines, and rescuing hostages make this classic game a must for all Engine owners.

The final important release is the follow up to Legendary Axe 2. It features the same storyline, same gameplay and the same type of graphics but in my opinion Legendary Axe 2 has more depth, and is thus better than the original. Finally supplies of Splatterhouse and Formation Soccer are reaching our shores again. Last time around only a few copies managed to reach us, because of a large demand in Japan. Now their manufacturer's have produced a new batch, and so they should be readily available. Both games are equally brilliant, and I wouldn't be surprised if they were snapped up within a week.

Supergrafx...
This amazing 8 bit console has been poorly supported with very little in the line of software. The most recent release was Ghosts & Ghosts. This is the follow up to Ghosts & Goblins which was a huge HIT a few years ago. In this sequel your task is to rescue the Princess Prin Prin from the clutches of Lucifer himself!!! The graphics and sound are spot arcade perfect and believe it or not it plays better than the Megadrive version. Forth coming releases scheduled for a Christmas release are Afterburner 2, and Outrun.

AND FINALLY ...

If the price of Engine games such as the classic Tennis (£32.95) are getting you down, why not buy a second hand copy. Console Quest are one of the leading companies which offer second hand titles for sale. They have a large selection of games ranging from £12.95 for Drunken Master to £25 for a copy of Super Star Soldier. They also run an exchange system. The way that works is that if you have finished a game instead of putting it away, use it as part exchange for a completely new game. They also offer a helpful information service and can be contacted on (0903)63786.

TIPS.

If you already own a copy of the best console footy game around at the minute (Formation Soccer) here are the passcodes, and some helpful tactics. The team you play with the passcodes is Holland, and their best formation is 4-3-3. The first tactic to master is how to control the goal-keeper on manual, as the auto-keeper doesn't stand a chance on the last few matches. The next tactic you need to master is how to take the ball off the opposing team.

Once you have this mastered you then teach yourself how to master the skills such as heading and volleying the ball. With this skill you will soon be able to head the ball up for another player in the team to take a shot. The next two skills are very important. They are passing and shooting. The passing is simple when you get the hang of it, and is absolutely necessary if you want to win the Human Cup '90. The way to score goals is to pass the ball around the outside of the box and then when you see an opening run into the box and hit a hard curling shot to one of the corners. Another method is to take the ball to the outside left of the box, and then cross it in to a team-mate.

In the following codes list, the arrows are represented by numbers. Straight up is 1, and then straight upright (like NNE on the compass) is 2, and so on. 1st: 71251517; 2nd: 71255414; 3rd: 71154512; 4th: 71253455; 5th: 61152554; 6th: 71257555; 7th: 61156457; 8th: 71252471; 9th: 611515173; 10th: 61155478; 11th: 71256576; 12th: 61153436; 13th: 71254538; 14th: 71258433.

WINNERS!

HEROES IN A HALF-SHELL

These ten lucky Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle fans have each won £100 worth of Turtle gear and Imageworks products: KEVIN BUCHANAN (Derby), STEVE BILLING (Plymouth), S. KHAN (Iford), GRAHAM ROSS (London), HILMAN LEE (W.Yorks), COLIN JACK (Livingston), BEN LARKIN (Shenfield), DAMIAN CASSIDY (Plymouth), JAMES BRIGHTMORE (London) and NIGEL CURL (Coventry).

STOCKWATCH WINNERS

As usual, ACE gives you more - and here are the results of not just Round Ten but Round Eleven as well!

Round Ten saw Core coming out as the top Company, correctly foreseen by Scott Bruce of Cheltenham. Paul Davies of Luton wisely plumped for the timeless classic Head over Heels on the Spectrum. Phil Maxfield (yes, I know, again!) wins yet more software by making a good stab at Murder on the C64. Come on, Phil, what's your method? Kick Off 2 in the ST charts was netted by David Pearce of Southampton, and Corporation on the Amiga was the correct executive decision by Dominic Veney of Liverpool. Steven Painter of Lywd spotted Stunt Car Racer roaring its way to the top of the Amstrad charts and D.Pickup gets a hole in one for PGA Golf Tour on the PC.

On to Round Eleven, which was obviously a bit tough - there were only four winners! Nobody guessed the top Company (which was Magnetic Scrolls) or the top games in the Spectrum or PC charts (which were Time Machine and Wonderland, respectively). However, Jeremy Gardner of Gateshead caught sight of Salamander slithering up the C64 charts, while R. Hawkins knew Supremacy would live up to its name in the Amiga charts. Anthony Amielle of Glasgow caught Operation Stealth sneaking up the ST charts, and Christopher Hagney of Sutton Coldfield correctly saw Stunt Car Racer going for its second lap on the Amstrad.

Enough has been said about user interfaces to sink a decent-sized battleship. But what use is there in judging a user interface if it doesn't include the most important part of all - the control mechanism? And when it comes to games that usually means a joystick. Mice are a different can of high-tech, worms altogether - and there's plenty of juicy tell-tale specifications that can separate good mice from bad ones. But one joystick is much the same as the next one, right?

If that were true then this would be a very short article and you could nip off and enjoy the rest of this ACE issue. Joysticks come in all shapes and sizes and as consumers we buy them by the thousand. Some (the Competition Pro, for instance) have become almost legendary among gamers. Curiously, many players get so attached to one sort of 'stick they steadfastly refuse to buy a different type when the old one wears out. That especially applies to the old Atari offering which, although firmly aimed at "budget" bundles, still finds favour with many veterans.

But with Christmas looming ever closer, the manufacturers have something for everyone and what could be a better stocking filler for a favourite grandson than a new 'stick? But as granny meanders into the store and finds herself met by a bewildering selection of styles and a wide variety of prices, how can you influence her decision? For a start it helps if you have some idea of how much her purse will stand - it's no use eyeing the latest top-flight Quickjoys if she can't stretch to more than a tenner.

To help you choose, the table overleaf compares the most important attributes in a joystick - as suggested by a collection of dedicated gamers. But, before you dash off, each one requires some further discussion. In making your choice it's useful to know why. Remembering too, that 'looking good' is not the same as 'playing well'.

Style: this could also be listed under the heading of aesthetics, but it's best kept separate for reasons of clarity. With a few exceptions all joysticks can be placed into 2 distinct categories: those with an "aircraft" grip and those with a good, old-fashioned stick. If you have small hands (or are buying a stick for a youngster) the aircraft grip may prove too clumsy or just plain uncomfortable - they're all made to fit an average hand and as we know so well, Mr Average does not exist. Also, aircraft grips are not very suitable for certain types of games which require a high-degree of 'stick wagging'. At the same time, they are ideal for most scrolling shoot-em-ups.

SWITCHES

Despite what the manufacturers may claim, there are more than just two types of switches. Unfortunately, without opening up every 'stick on test, it was impossible to ascertain exactly which variety applied to each stick. Microswitches are just small switches, so without further guidance (or a gentle prod) a manufacturer can legitimately claim that a cheap "bubble" switch is a microswitch. Bubble switches, however, tend to lack feel, and wear out quickly.

Proper microswitches last a lot longer - but even they come in many styles. They all make a sharp "click" when operated. If the stick makes no sound or a dull thud, it's probably based on the cheaper bubble switches. Just to confuse matters, clicking microswitches come in many variations. The best ones are usually sealed - but even they can be confusing. Very few manufacturers will admit to what types they are using. The very best 'sticks use heavy duty switches - but these run expensive.

AUTOFIRE

There are several considerations for autofire. First of all, does the joystick feature an autofire? If it does, can the rate of fire be varied? Can autofire be switched off? Last, does the autofire work correctly on your machine - some autofire joysticks have a "CPC" switch, others don't. Regrettably not all these details were available for all the joysticks listed here at the time of going to press so it's wise to check compatibility before you buy.

ERGONOMICS

This is a fancy word which encompasses a lot of considerations. Actually ergonomics is the study of the relationship between workers and their environment. In this context, it asks precisely how well the designer did his job. That is: does a hand-held joystick sit well in the hand? Are the fire buttons within easy reach? Is the 'stick suitable for a left-hander? Does it have a positive feel? How much force is required to move it?

AESTHETICS

This is another fancy word which doesn't really apply to joysticks. Used by experts, it suggests how good the thing looks. When the bullets start to fly, though, good looks mean about as much as a bent sixpence.

BUILD QUALITY

Is it made to last? This consideration can only be applied to more expensive sticks, the budget ones (under a tenner) are unlikely to take a lot of hammer - but they are cheap to replace. Build quality, like the quality of the microswitches can only be adequately tested by using a joystick until it falls apart - literally! You will only get what you pay for. An expensive joystick with a lot of extra gadgets is unlikely to take the pounding of one with less features but a similar price.

The key is knowing how to check the quality of a stick without actually breaking it in the process. Bearing in mind also, what has already been explained about price – don't expect too much from a cheap unit. Most upright and aircraft joysticks (with the exception of the Navigator) can be placed on a desk. A good test is to place the unit on a sturdy table and hold it firmly by the base. Now grasp the stick firmly with your other hand and force move from left to right and up and down. Apply firm but gentle pressure – this isn't a test of strength and the shopkeeper is likely to take a dim view of anyone breaking a display model. A good joystick will have a positive feel and should have a pronounced stop after each switch activates. If the base appears to flex or creak, or if the handle appears to move more than a tiny amount this joystick is unlikely to take much heavy hammer.

At the same time, this test allows you to get some feel for the stick and the weight of the movement. Generally it should be firm, but not too heavy for your needs. Games which require a lot of 'stick' wagging (sports simulations for example) usually work better with a light stick. Where more precise control is required, a stiffer movement is usually the order of the day. Very stiff movements should be avoided because they tend to wear out the player during a long session. A great example of this is the Cruiser which has a three position weight setting.

THE ACE SELECTION

Judgements are inevitably subjective to some extent, but here for the record are the sticks our testers went for...

HOT OFF THE SHELF

Hot Off The Shelf pinpoints those games that are on the shelves NOW and are worth your discriminating attention. So if you fancy a new game for the festive season, this is where to start looking. The games in this listing should all be readily available from your software dealer.

ANTHEADS

Cinemaware/Mirrorsoft • Amiga £14.99dk

For all those who loved Came From The Desert here is more of the same in the shape of a handy bolt-on scenario. It's fifties style Sci-Fi again, and this time some very strange things are happening to the inhabitants of the tiny Mid-West American town of Lizard's Breath. You play 'Brick' Nash, an ex-fighter pilot determined to solve the riddle of the Antheads. If you enjoy puzzle solving with great graphics and sound, then you can't go far wrong with this number, and if you haven't played Came From The Desert then why not give that a try first?

★ ACE RATING 902

CAPTIVE

Mindscape • Atari ST/STE £24.99dk • Amiga £24.99dk • PC £29.99dk

Another in the ever expanding number of RPG's portrayed using first-person perspective. Captive, programmed by the veteran Tony Crowther pits you against hordes of rampaging aliens, with nothing but a briefcase at your disposal. This briefcase however, contains a computer giving you remote-control over a four-droid team, with which you must free yourself from the fortress where you are imprisoned. Excellent bitmapped graphics, atmospheric realtime stereo sound and a total of 65000 levels to explore place Captive very much in the ACE rated bracket.

★ ACE RATING 930

CHAOS STRIKES BACK

FTL/Mirrorsoft • Atari ST £24.99 • Amiga TBA

The long awaited sequel to Dungeon Master. If you have already played through the first program you can use your existing characters, otherwise there is another hall of mirrors you can select from. Chaos has a similar feel to Dungeon Master, but is much tougher. There are also some new features thrown in, like a character editor and help oracle (very handy). If you haven't played Dungeon Master then play that first before making a definite date with this game.

★ ACE RATING 945

CONQUEROR

Rainbow Arts • Atari ST £19.99dk • Amiga £24.99dk • PC £24.99dk

An arcade style tank sim which makes use of a 3D graphics system based around the one David Braben developed for Zarch. There are three types of game available: arcade, attrition, and strategy. All three are best played with two joysticks Battlezone style, but there are enough control options to suit every set-up. A definite buy for tank buffs.

★ ACE RATING 925

CORPORATION

Core Design • Atari ST £24.99dk • Amiga £24.99dk • PC £29.99

This role-playing cybernetic extravaganza from CORE pushes the limits of previous RPG's just that bit further. Corporation is a 3-D exploration, puzzle-orientated arcade combat game (!) in the mould made traditional by the original Dungeon Master RPG. Your objective is to find and remove an embryo belonging to the ultimate biogenetic killing machine, bred by the UCC Corp. Light-source shaded rapids and sound of film-like quality, along with excellent playability and an intuitive control method all contributed in pushing Corporation over the 900 mark.

★ ACE RATING 945

DAMOCLES

Novagen • Atari ST £24.95dk • Amiga £24.95dk • PC TBA

This unusual combination of flight sim and adventure game, and sequel to the well-received Mercenary, has been in development for a couple of years now, but the resulting game has been worth the wait. The wireframe graphics of the original game have been replaced by solid 3D vector graphics, but they are just as fast. There are now nine planets to explore instead of one city, so there is plenty of long term challenge here.

★ ACE RATING 935

F-19 STEALTH FIGHTER

Microprose • Atari ST £29.99dk • Amiga £29.99dk • PC £39.99dk
A program that could well be described as the Flight Simulator's Flight Simulator. The PC version has enjoyed much success since its launch year ago, and now it's brothers on the ST and Amiga look set to do the same. The sim is based around the much talked about (or perhaps that be whispered about) Stealth Fighter. It boasts four huge scenarios with hundreds of missions, and plenty of detail. If you are looking for the definitive flight sim, then you can't go far wrong with this one.

★ ACE RATING 935

FLIGHT OF THE INTRUDER

Mirrorsoft/Spectrum Holobyte • Atari ST £7.?? • Amiga £7.?? • PC £7.??

From the people who brought you the superb Falcon comes yet another world beating flight simulation. It is based on the book of the same name by Steven Coonts and has you flying either an Intruder or a Phantom on bombing and reconnaissance missions over Vietnam. The simulator is very strong on features, including a superb (if a little unrealistic) auto-pilot option.

★ ACE RATING 910

FUTURE WARS

Palace • Atari ST £24.99dk • Amiga £24.99dk • PC TBA

A totally mouse-driven graphic adventure from French developers Delphine. You are cast as a mid-mannered office window cleaner who gets caught up in an alien plot to conquer Earth in the 43rd century. The graphics and background music are very striking and the game is made very accessible by the lack of text entry. There is enough of a challenge here to keep most adventurers happy for some time. A delightful game.

Deep space strategy unlike anything you've ever seen before. The universe is being invaded by the alien outposts who are attempting to turn all the suns in the universe into black holes. Meanwhile you must create as many inhabitable systems as possible. The game makes use of the principle of Einstein-

Minkowski four-space - this makes for some very unusual graphics.

When you add unprogrammable drones and travel via black holes you have yourself a highly original and compelling game.

Emmerly successful conversion of the hot coin-op hit Operation Wolf. Grab your Uzis and shoot your way through hordes of terrorists to rescue the luckless hostages. There are new 3D scenarios this time to add to the frantic lead spitting of the original. Best played with a light gun, but a mouse will suffice if you don't have one. Joystick or keyboard controls don't really cope however.

PANG

Ocean • Amiga £18A • ST £18A • PC £18A • C64/128 £18A • Spectrum £48/128 £18A

This unlikely mish-mash of space invaders and asteroids makes it to the home computer in all its arcade glory. Bursting bubbles over 50 screens around 17 countries throughout the World, provides for addictive, compelling arcade fun. Excellent quality graphics and sound, and slick presentation make PANG indistinguishable from its arcade counterpart. Go on... burst a bubble!

PGA TOUR GOLF

Electronic Arts • PC £24.99 Well, what can I say? For anyone who's never set eyes on a golf sim, this is one. Four accurately modelled courses and a wealth of options provide for a comprehensive and playable game. Each course is has been designed for the professional player, so fortunately there's a driving range to allow you to practice that swing. Features such as course maps, percentage range indicators and a 3-D display of the green showing every pit and ridge all contribute in pushing PGA GOLF into the ACE Rated category.

PIPEMANIA

Entertainment International • Atari ST £19.95dk • Amiga £19.95dk • Spectrum £9.99cs £14.95cs • C64 £9.95cs £14.95dk • Amstrad £9.95cs £14.95dk • PC £19.95dk

• Macintosh £24.95dk •

Archimedes £24.95dk • MSX £9.95cs £14.95dk • BBC/Electron £9.95cs £14.95dk

The game that proves plumbing can be fun. You must construct a continuous length of pipe from several sections before the floor escapes. The action is just as compelling as that in games like Tetris and will have you burning the midnight oil in an attempt to beat the odds. It is available for practically every machine, so there is no excuse for not owning a copy.

Kick Off with a management/strategy element. The game is completely icon driven, making it easy to get into. The management detail is superb, right down to planning in-match tactics. And for the match you can either watch from the sidelines or join in with the Kick Off style fun.

ACE CLASSES!

All the games in HOT OFF THE SHELF - this month's software selection - have been released in recent months and should be readily available from your local dealer or by mail-order. We've chosen the titles carefully to ensure that, if one should take your fancy, it ought to be readily available. Don't forget that most dealers will be happy to order titles for you if they haven't got them in stock.

However, the truly discerning player knows full well that some of the greatest games of all time are not generally available in the shops. ACE is compiling a listing of History's Greatest Games - but we've hit a few snags. Our main problem has been that software houses tend not to keep records on their older games and we have still a lot of detective work to do to locate stocks (if they exist) of older titles. However, we do hope to have the listing ready for the New Year - our apologies for the delay.

PRO TENNIS TOUR

UBI Soft/Blue Byte • Atari ST £24.99cd • Amiga £24.99cd • Spectrum £9.99cs £14.99cd • C64 £12.99cs £16.99cd • Amstrad £9.99cs £16.99cd • PC £29.99cd

One of the best tennis games yet. The control method works really well, although the standard of the computer players is good, so you'll have to put in a lot of practice. There is a choice of grass, concrete, clay, and indoor courts, as well as comprehensive practice options. A good way of spending a few hours while you are waiting for Wimbledon.

THEIR FINEST HOUR: THE BATTLE OF BRITAIN

Lucasfilm • Atari ST £24.99cd • Amiga £24.99cd • PC £24.99cd World War II air combat relived in this superlative flight sim. You have the opportunity to fly a variety of WWII craft from the Spitfire to the Hurricane. A neat option is the camera which records your flight and can be replayed to assess your performance.

ULTIMA VI

Origin/Mindscape • Atari ST TBA • Amiga TBA • PC £34.99cd • C64 TBA

The ultimate rôle playing game. Sixteen thousand objects, two hundred and fifty characters, unlimited encounters, a quest that will take months to solve, and graphics better than you'll see on any other game of this type. The Ultima series of RPGs go from strength to strength. Join forces with Lord British and once more enter the fray... unbeatable stuff!

★ ACE RATING 950

VENDETTA

System 3 • C64 £9.99cs £12.99cd

A great arcade adventure that really pushes the C64 to its limits. You must fight your way past the terrorists to defuse a bomb, and rescue the professor and his daughter. But while you are on the terrorist's tails the police are on yours. Most of the action takes place against an isometric 3D background, but there is also an excellent driving section to rival many full-scale driving games.

VETTE

Mirrorsoft/Spectrum Holobyte • Atari ST TBA • Amiga TBA • PC £29.99

High speed racing round the streets of San Francisco in one of four Corvettes on offer. The superb 3D colour graphics in the game give a great sense of the wind in your hair as you roar down precariously steep streets desperately trying to avoid pedestrians and other vehicles. Realistic and lots of fun, this game, from the people who brought you Falcon, will have you hooked.

★ ACE RATING 926

WARHEAD

Activision • Atari ST £24.99cd • Amiga £24.99cd

Veteran programmer Lynn Williams' latest masterpiece is set in deep space. Earth is under threat from a horde of nasty extra-terrestrial insects. The only hope is the FOE-57, an advanced craft absolutely loaded down with weaponry. Fast solid vector graphics and rapid action make this a winner. Work your way up through the training missions and you'll soon be zapping away quite happily.

★ ACE RATING 920

WELLTRIS

Infogrames • Atari ST £24.99cd • Amiga £24.99cd • PC £24.99cd Effectively the follow-up to the resoundingly successful Tetris, Welltris takes the original idea and literally turns it on its head. Seen from a plan-view, Welltris requires you to rotate coloured shapes that fall down the walls, fitting them together to make a horizontal or vertical unbroken line. This achieved, the line disappears to make way for another. Sound familiar? Despite the obvious connection, Welltris looks good and plays well and is worthy of anyone's collection.

WHEELS OF FIRE

Domark Amiga £29.99 • Atari ST £24.99cd • C64/128 £14.99c / £24.99cd • Amstrad £14.99c / £24.99cd • Spectrum (+3) £24.99cd / (48/128) £14.99cd Hard Drivin' disappears from the classics column to reappear on this Domark compilation, which also sports three other successful driving games. Namely, Chase HQ, Turbo Out Run and Power Drift. The answer to every boy-racer's dream, each title shows its own individuality and has done well in its own right. And just in time for Christmas too!

SHOPWATCH

It has been called 'the most eagerly awaited electrical appliance since the colour television'. It boasts NAQ (er, Near Arcade Quality) graphics which, when implemented correctly, are capable of inducing jaw dropping in even the most jaded observer. It loads all software instantly and reliably, ending the tedious procedure of disk access and swapping. It is half the size and price of an Amiga and potentially more powerful. And, amazingly, it's as readily available as The Satanic Verses in a Tehran bookshop.

The official (forget the 'grey imported versions' - think long-term) Sega Megadrive has been 'available' for about three weeks, at the time of writing. In that time we have been able to obtain eight machines and yet we could have sold ten times that amount. If our experience is typical (and it appears to be) then Virgin have what could be the biggest selling machine this Christmas on their hands - if they could get enough of them into the shops in time.

So where are they?

The answer, amazingly, seems to be that Virgin/Sega are 'not too concerned' with selling the Megadrive this Christmas. They want it to be NEXT year's Big Thing. This year they would prefer to shift large amounts of Master systems and, obviously, the associated software.

I am not alone in thinking that this scenario could seriously backfire. If little Jimmy wants a Megadrive then little Jimmy wants a Megadrive! Virgin are being (appropriately) naive if they think he will settle for anything less or wait until 'some time next year'. If little Jimmy's mother can't get her hands on an official Megadrive then she will buy an unofficial one. Which is bad news for everybody concerned (except for the person selling the machine). Incidentally, a 'grey' machine is not grey in colour (as some people seem to think), it can be identified by having a purple, as opposed to silver, plate surrounding the power LED.

So what can be done? Well, if it's not too late, if Virgin NEEDED to obtain fresh stocks, they could, within a matter of days rather than weeks. So if you want a Megadrive this Christmas, it is vital that you let Virgin know how you feel.

And just in case anybody reading this is thinking 'What's the problem, I'll just buy a Japanese imported model', then let me correct you. The initial batch of games WILL run (because they are basically just the Japanese games re-packaged) but forthcoming titles most certainly will NOT run correctly. If anyone, retailer or otherwise, tells you differently then treat their words with extreme scepticism. If you want to own a machine which has as much software support as a 16K Spectrum then go ahead, buy an import. You have been warned!

At this time of year many people are considering buying computers/consoles etc either for themselves or as presents. Some people know exactly what they want, while others go shopping only with the concept of buying 'something to help with the children's education'. This latter group are prime targets for some of the less scrupulous members of the retail trade. It is poignantly amusing to have customers come into the shop after Christmas and ask to see our selection of Atari XE education and business software. When we politely inform them that the sum total of such a range would fail to fill a cricket's condom, they immediately transform into 'rate mode'... 'But the man in Dickheads said you stocked it!'. My advice: go to a shop that's a member of the National Association of Specialist Computer Retailers (identified by a NASCR on the door). And spare a thought for us retailers, besieged at New Year by tearful Jimmies returning their adolescent amphibian games and wailing: 'but I thought it was going to be the coin-op, not the crappy Nintendo version'.

Whoops! has the feline escaped?!

HEADCOACH V.3

Stop Press: Now contains 1990 NFL Team/Player Data!*

THE GAME

Headcoach is the complete American Football simulation. You take charge of the latest recruit to the National Football League, and through skillful design of gameplans and the use of the college draft, build up a 45 man squad to keep your fans happy and win the Superbowl. Unlimited seasons, and aging players, produce a realistic game of fluctuating fortunes.

THE MATCH

The match is a game in itself taking about 40 minutes to complete. With 26 offensive plays and 21 defensive plays, there is ample scope to match your gameplan to the skills of your squad, and exploit the weaknesses of your opposition. It's here where the strengths and weaknesses of your own players are highlighted.

European orders: add £1.50 for airmail delivery.

OUR PRIORITY: GAMEPLAY

"From my point of view, the game has kept me sitting up at nights and through holidays and weekends for up to 12 hours at a stretch, with minuscule breaks for food and other necessities. It is a game I have no hesitation in recommending to anyone with even the slightest interest in American Football."

ATARI

TRAINING CAMP

Here is an opportunity to assess your players before they take the field. The appropriate coach will give you his view of the current form of any of the players and how they are performing in training. The current sharpness of any player can be assessed from their time in the 40 yard dash. Wide receivers, cornerbacks, running backs and linebackers are all positions where speed off the mark is crucial.

COLLEGE DRAFT

During the 16 match season, plus whatever playoff matches you achieve, you will find yourself playing for a second classy running back or wide receiver, or need to beef up your offensive line (too many sacks). There can be many weaknesses. The college draft should be used to find those stars of the future and make sure that they're playing for you.

STATISTICS

The statistics section will encapsulate your team's, and your player's, season. Total yards, rushing yards, passing yards, kick-off returns, punt returns (and averages for all these), interceptions, sacks all these are kept for each match, the whole season, for the team, and for each player. MVP votes are accumulated for the season. American Football is a game of stats and this simulation sustains that.

ADVENTURELINE

Stuck in an adventure? Write in with the name of the game and the nature of your problem. Be as specific as possible and I'll do my best to answer (on these pages only so no SAEs please), and if I don't know the answer, I know a man who.....! News, tips, gossip, anecdotes and adventuring trivia are also all most welcome. Write to me, Pat Winstanley, Adventureline, Pink Box, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London, EC1R 3AU

NOW HEAR THIS!

Last month I asked for contributions for these pages - I'm still looking. Particularly welcome are short, self-contained hints and single problem solutions like those from Gavin Manning and Paul Hardy below. I'm also interested to hear of PD and Shareware programs - the best will be reviewed (space permitting). So get in touch!

LEISURE SUIT LARRY 1

Beginning a solution by Augustus De Silva

When at Leftie's, enter the bar (notice how subtly you look compared to LSL2). Sit at the empty seat and order a beer. Don't order champagne as Larry will get himself drunk. Now order a whiskey and head for the jukebox. Insert the dime and it will play your favourite tune. Go to the toilet and pick up the rose. Give the whiskey to the drunk who will give you a remote control. Then enter the toilet and read the graffiti. You will find that one reads a password called "Ken sent me". Now look in the sink to find a ring. Pick it up.

Leave Leftie's and call a cab. (Don't enter the alleyway or you will be beaten up). When the driver asks "Where to Mister?", say "Shop". Go into the Quickie Mart and buy a "Tubster" (com-dol). After he asks what kind and embarrasses you, pay him and leave the shop. If you don't pay, he'll blow you apart with his double barrel rifle.

Get a cab back to Leftie's. Knock on the cushioned door and say the password to the pimp. Now use the control on the TV and keep switching channels until the pimp sits down and watches. Now head for the stairs and take off your clothes. Look at the prostitute and put on the condom, this bit is censored, but afterwards you are no longer a virgin. Pick up the candy and climb out of the window. Fall into the bin and pick up Leftie's hammer. Peel off the condom or the police will arrest you.

Call a cab and go to the casino. Wander about outside until a man with a barrel appears. Buy an apple from the man. Enter the casino and play on the black jack table, saving your game every time you win. Give up when you have broken the bank. Go to the hotel at the back of the casino where the lifts are. Get the disco pass from the ashtray. If you want some fun, visit the can-can dancers at the side, then leave the casino and summon a cab. Go to the disco and show the disco pass to the bouncer then enter the disco.

ZAK MCKRACKEN

Our solution continues from Mike Bareham

While falling, use the parachute and when you land in the water use the kazoo. A dolphin will now appear. Use the blue crystal on the dolphin and you will then have control over it. Swim underwater then to the right to the largest piece of seaweed covering a lump of fallen stone. Pick up the seaweed and you should now see a glowing device. Get the device, return to the surface and give it to Zak.

Change control back to Zak then wait around until an alien comes along and takes you away to the secret room where he will put you into the mindbending machine. You will now have lost your mind, but don't worry as it will soon come back to you. When you come to you will be standing outside the phone company shop. Walk to the left then up the stairs to your bedroom. Use the monkey wrench on the loose boards and the rope in the hole. Walk to the rope and you are now in the Alien's secret room.

Walk to the left to the cabinet and open it. You have now got back all that the aliens took from you. Walk back up the rope and out of the house. Make your way to Lou's loan shop. Buy a lotto ticket and write down the number you got from the alien ship. Now go back outside and switch to Leslie.

LEISURE SUIT LARRY 2

The start of a new solution from Augustus De Silva

Once the fancy LSL tune is over and you are left in control of the jerk himself, walk into the garage until you are no longer seen, then pick up the dollar stuffed in Eve's pocket. Eve is now LSL's ex-girlfriend. Then with only a dollar you must spend it on a "Luck-o-Buck" ticket at the Quickie Mart. Always remember to save your game every now and then.

Walk to the studio and give a ticket to the woman. She will have lost her glasses and will give you the winning numbers. Write them down and give them to her and you will have won. Once in the green room, sit down and wait until you are on the Dating Connection show, then sit down and wait until you are invited to spin the wheel. You will win a million dollar note.

ADVENTURE CONFERENCE?

Read about the ACE Conference in Intermedia's magazine? If you'd like to come along, check out the Conferences section next month.

CORPORATION

Hints from Paul Hardy

Take at least one time bomb with you into the NCC building and use it to blow up the walls of the cell if you are imprisoned. Place the bomb in one corner after setting it then retreat to the farthest corner. Stock cameras and detectors as soon as possible, but if the alarms do go off, run like hell, the further from the scene you get the better. The key to using the powers of the mind lies in the head of the left hand picture of the body, above the 'damage' rating.

HITCHHIKERS GUIDE TO THE GALAXY

An answer to one of the most common queries: how to get the Babel fish. Thanks to Gavin Manning.

First take both the satchel and the towel. Then hang your gown on the hook (after removing it). Next cover the drain with the towel and cover the panel with the satchel. Put the junk mail on top of the satchel and press the dispenser button. A Babel fish shoots out, goes down the sleeve of the gown and hits the towel. A cleaning robot then comes out and picks up the fish. It then hits the satchel sending the junk mail and fish into the air. An upper-half-of-the-room-cleaning-robot comes out, collects only the junk mail (as it can't manage any more) and the Babel fish lands in your ear with a loud 'squish'.

...and how to enter the engine room. The game says that this is a very dangerous room and you will die if you enter it. That is not true, but it is very obstinate. Simply be as obstinate about getting in there and you will eventually. Then it says there is nothing in the room but it is lying again. Keep looking and examine the room and something will become visible.

CORRUPTION

The solution completed by Alexis Kofteros

After collecting your things from the pavement, go to David's office and remove the television. Wear the stethoscope and listen to the safe with it. Unlock the safe and get the chips. Go to La Monaco and show the chips to the waiter. He will lead you outside the casino - knock on the door to get in. Give the chips to the teller who will then ask you to bring him a document. Wait in the casino until 4 O'clock then go to Mr Hughes' office. Use your credit card to unlock the door.

Enter the office, smash the drawer, and get the document. Read it and then go to the police. Tell Russell about the document. Once in the interview room, give the envelope to Goddard, ensuring that it contains the cheque. Tell Goddard about your BMW then give him the document. He will ask you to cooperate with him - you must accept. Go to Le Monaco and show chips to the waiter. Enter the casino and give the document to Charpentier. Don't panic! The police will break in to save you. The only thing you have to do is sit comfortably on your chair and enjoy the end!

INFOLINES

Lots of people have asked me about adventure creators for the Amiga so I was pleased to hear of "Hatrack II" from Heyley Software. Features are said to include a built-in multiple sentence parser handling verbs, nouns, adjectives and prepositions, a mouse-driven graphical compass/control panel designer and total control over screen layout and colour. A play-test feature is that you can use menu interrupts to examine and alter the state of play, so cutting down development time. The price is £29.95 and more details are available from Heyley Software, 27 Winnington Road, Marple, Stockport, SK6 6PD.

ACE CROSSWORD

Our monthly prize word puzzler, set by the inimitable MIPS

Despite complaints from a small minority of readers, the ACE Crossword seems to be growing in popularity every month. Make sure you get your entry in before this month's deadline!

PUZZLE PRIZES

Until recently, we've been offering £25 cash prizes to winners of the ACE puzzle and crossword, but several people have been asking us for games instead. From now on all prizes will be in software, so please make sure you include your name, address, and machine format when you enter.

CLUES ACROSS

- 4 Teenage mutants let rust develop (7)
- 6 Colour to be seen in RAM development (5)
- 8 Prisoner of game from Mindscape (7)
- 9 Admission of sentry losing his head (5)
- 11 Game for lad attached to push-chair (8)
- 13 New development, i.e. Zen, for computer game (8)
- 15 Devil of a disguise for Santa from 12 down (5)
- 16 Award he gets for developing Activision game (7)
- 18 Does away with skill say some (5)
- 19 Gone, so I play the game (7)

CLUES DOWN

- 1 Alan's crystals (5)
- 2 Fuel some of the wilder viruses (4)
- 3 Game from 4th Dimension that's very non-constructive (7)
- 5 Game in which nothing is forgotten? (5,6)
- 7 Virgin's flying circus

ATTENTION!

Have you won a prize for either the ACE Puzzle or the ACE Crossword which you have not received? If you're one of these unlucky souls, give us a ring and we'll sort you out straightaway. Remember that we can no longer guarantee individual choices of games to prizewinners, but we'll make sure the games get the juices flowing.

- (5,6)
- 10 Gore split in game from Origin Systems (4)
- 11 Give computer a kick to load program? (4)

Mark Smiddy casts a watchful eye over the wide world of Public Domain software and finds from little oranges. . . giant games doth grow.

Mandarin's STOS has been well received in some quarters and criticised in others; in both cases with good reason. But this article is not about tearing strips off STOS (or AMOS) – it's about what programmers have been up to. Since the proof of the pudding is in the eating – spoons at the ready – let's discover if STOS and AMOS really are what they're cracked up to be. Or are they just a test vehicle for prototyping games?

LAND AHoy...

"Well shiver me timbers matey, that salty ole pirate, Captain Blackhook has gorn off an lost his treasure map. Ee's managed to find the island where 'ee buried it alright, but now the crew are threatening a mutiny if 'ee doesn't come up with the goods – and pretty quick too! Why only last night, one could 'ear the sound of sharpening cutlasses, plotting on the poop deck, grubbing in the galley and murmurs by the mainmast."

That about sums up the level of intellect required to play Treasure Search (ST and Amiga, public domain) but is it a proliferation of Pugwash or just a load of old hogwash? To be honest, and although I hate to admit it, this kiddies game is great fun. The idea is simple enough, one or two players have to locate the treasure on a fictional 10 x 10 Km island paradise.

Keeping things as straightforward as possible it only has two levels of difficulty – easy (unlimited moves) or hard (limited moves). There's also an optional hint system – more of that in a moment. After the player(s) have made their choice, the game starts with a grid map and the captain asking where they think the treasure lies. Two numbers have to be entered – the number of Kms to move from East to West; and similarly along the North-South line. Then, a little pair of feet tramp along to the selected location and search for hidden treasure.

Unless the player locates the treasure, the ole sea dog booms, "There's no treasure here, shipmate!" This is usually accompanied by one of several pictures depicting where the captain is: being pursued by a bear; looking into a lion's mouth; about to become a native's main course; even underwater – with appropriate gurgling sound FX.

SHAMELESS PLUG

CHIPS of Middlesbrough would like you to know about their "Megadrive" competition. Every customer spending something gets a raffle ticket and the draw is made at the end of trading every Saturday. This competition is running up until Christmas. They can be contacted on 0642 219139.

If the hint system is active, the program tells the player how many Kms they are away from the treasure. This is especially useful for young minds to help with an appreciation of 2D spatial coordination and distancing.

At the end of the game, the player either gets the reward of the captain's greedy voice shouting "You've found my treasure" or a sight of the crew finally losing faith and making the poor guy walk the plank. The graphics are clear and colourful and the sound effects amusing. For little more than the price of a disk, this PD offering certainly doesn't show the real power of STOS & AMOS, but should provide hours of perplexing but pretty basic fun for juveniles of any age. Price: £2.95 (ST) or £3.45 (Amiga).

ROLL 'EM

Giving a description of Poker Dice (ST only) would not do it any favours – it just has to be seen (and heard) to be believed. Apart from being a great little game to while away the odd half-hour, from the title screen to the desktop – it's a beautifully designed and brilliantly thought-out implementation. For those who have never played poker dice before here's a quick review of the game.

In essence the game is a simplification of the classic card game, Poker. In Poker you have 52 cards and each player receives five. From this, each attempts to collect cards making up sequences: two kings and three aces; two pairs; numerical run and so on. Poker dice works in the same way but since a die only has six faces, only six "cards" are possible: nine, ten, Jack, Queen, King and Ace. This simplifies the game considerably because there are no suits to confuse matters.

What gives this ostensibly simple game the massive edge is the level of perfectionism the author has instilled in the graphics and sound. The title page is a digitised image of night-time Las Vegas accompanied by some raucous digitised music. Clicking the mouse takes the players to the control screen where you decide how many human players will play. Up to five players can partake in any one game with any mix of humans and computer. With zero human players the game enters a simulation mode.

The real treat comes as gameplay starts. A lovely little sampled croupier shouts, "Next" and one of a set of doors behind the playing area opens and a die spins out in perspective 3D that wouldn't look out of place in Starglider 2. The next four dice spin out in a similar fashion, each accompanied by a satisfying "swish". Click on the dice to hold and a gold label drops from behind with another sampled "clang". So it goes on until the round finishes.

Poker Dice plays an average but satisfying version of the game – not impossible to beat, but not too easy. However, gameplay is not what Poker Dice is really about – if ever there was a beautiful demo of what can be done in STOS, this is it. The graphics and sound are really impressive – suffice to say, if the Bitmap Bros. (Speedball, Xenon etc.) had written Poker Dice, it would probably look like this. This deserves to be in every collection: at £2.95, it ought to be!

THE LAST WORD

Which brings me to the reason why this month's round up almost didn't make it. Publishing deadlines? Don't you believe it – courtesy of Satsuma Software came a game which was so addictive I had to surgically remove from the ST! What's it called? Plumb Crazy – and no prizes for guessing what it's based on. Full review next month. This selection came courtesy of Sandra Sharkey's AMOS PD Library.

Sandra is one of the recognised distributors of the licenceware games mentioned, this ensures the extra charge levied on those programs is given directly to the author. Her address is: Sandra Sharkey, The AMOS PD Library, 25 Park Road, Wigan, Lancs. WN6 7AA. Tel: (0942) 495261.

WE WANT YOU

Whadya mean, "my PD Library/game hasn't been included!" Don't just sit there and complain. Write to the author, Co. ACE at the usual address, marking your envelope in LARGE LETTERS "PINK PAGES PD". Disks cannot be returned – but what's the price of a disk compared to coverage in ACE?

ENCYCLOPAEDIA MICROMANNICA

Here it is... a list of those vital topics that every up-market gamer needs to have at his command. Just because you thrashed the host at two-player Tetris doesn't mean you'll be the star of the party. No chum, you need know-how. And here's where to find it....

Each entry has a brief explanation, followed by a reference to an issue, so that you can hunt down the full lucid, in-depth, ACE assessment.

If, however, you missed an issue because you were abroad on a covert SAS operation, or nursing a sick relative in Botswana, or some other unlikely excuse, fret no longer. Back issues are available for all issues from ACE 4 inclusive (except ACE 11) at the giveaway price of £2.50 each in the UK and £3.50 each for overseas. These prices include post and packaging (surface mail). Overseas readers wanting airmail delivery should enquire as to the cost at the address below, listing the issues required.

To order, clearly list the required issue numbers and send them, along with your full name and address and a cheque or postal order for the full payment made payable to ACE magazine, to:

GAMEBOY BONUS!

By the time you've read this snippet, you'll either be patting yourself on the back or cursing your luck. Here's why...

On page 33 of the last issue there was a Mystery Bonus Voucher for you to use with this month's cover mounted gift. If you were clever enough to cut it out and keep it, you could, if you're one of the winners, be rewarded not only with a free Game Boy but ALSO with £100 of Game Boy software. Yessir! All you have to do is stick that voucher on your entry and if you're one of the winners, you'll strike EXTRA lucky!

GAZZA II

Yay! Bitter is proud to take the final step in offering you the chance to Meet Gazza. Here's the second instalment of Entertainment International/Empire's great comp, where one lucky reader will get the chance to meet the man in person.

Having successfully identified the two Entertainment International products on page 30 of issue 38, write your answers down (on a postcard only please), along with the answer to this third and final question.

● Which mutant comic character have Empire recently acquired the licence to, and are shortly to be releasing a game about?

The answer (if you're flummoxed) is in this issue. Send the answer along with the original two plus your name, address, and daytime phone number (if possible) to: ACE GAZZA COMP, Box 2, Priory Court, 30-32 Farrington Lane, London EC1R 3AU. Make sure you read the rules in the panel at the bottom left hand of the page before sending in your entry.

In correction of our provisional title in last month's GAZZA feature, we can now reveal that although provisionally entitled Gazza's Super Soccer! the new game is going to be called (wait for it...) Gazza 2. Available on all formats in mid-November at £24.99 for 16-bit and GX4000 and £9.99/£14.99 for 8-bits. Empire have asked us to warn CPC owners that the GX4000 versions may appear before the other Amstrad ones. Sorry, cpcchappies.

A spokeswoman for EI/Empire said "we believe that Gazza 2 has 100% potential, and will compete happily against the likes of Kick Off."

GAZZA RULES

1. Deadline for entries is Thursday 6th December.
2. The winner will be the first correct entry drawn at random from the qualifying entries.
3. Unstamped or incorrectly addressed entries will not be eligible for entry.
4. Employees of EMAP Images or Entertainment International, or anyone involved in the manufacture, sale, or distribution of their products are not eligible for entry.

IT'S THE BIG ONE!

PREPARE YOURSELF FOR THE BIGGEST ISSUE OF ACE THIS YEAR...

Hot Games for Cold Months

What games should you consider buying this Christmas? ACE checks-out the front runners in the race for the top Xmas spot.

We'll be taking a look at Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Robocop II, Total Recall, Line of Fire, Gazza II, Speedball II, Golden Axe, ESWAT, B.A.T., Champion of Raj, 4D-Boxing, Wrath of the Demon, Narc, Secret Weapons of the Luftwaffe, Nebulus II, and lots more for all the major micros - plus Pipe Dream (Gameboy), Strider (Megadrive), Days of Thunder (Nintendo Entertainment System) and the latest in CD-entertainment.

Find out what we think of the Christmas '90 games releases in the next bumper issue of ACE.

The Future of 'Entertainment'... Now

Next month ACE is bringing you exclusive on-the-spot reports from the Entertainment '90, the 3rd Annual Conference on Interactive Entertainment just held at the Marriott Marquis Hotel in New York, USA.

Speakers at the conference include key personnel from Origin, Lucasfilm Games, Sierra On-Line, Cinemaware, Mediagenic (Activision), MTV, Magnetic Scrolls, American Interactive Media (Philips), ABC, Time-Life, NEC, Mattel, Mitsubishi, Children's Television Workshop (Sesame Street), AT&T and, of course, ACE.

What are the New Gaming Worlds? Will you be experiencing 'Adventures in Cyberspace' in the next few years? How and where will interactive entertainment fit in with such technologies as HDTV, holography and digital television? What is Hyperfiction? Are companies maximising the impact of interactive entertainment with floppy disk adverts, sponsorship of video games, on-line ads and interactive TV advertising?

Will the 90's become the 'Decade of Interactive Entertainment'? The only sure way to find out is to buy the next issue of ACE.

Happy New Year!

ACE is giving away a FREE 1991 Wall Planner Poster next month.

Plus all the ACE Regulars...

Exclusive news on the future of Advanced Consumer Entertainment from around the globe... and even beyond!

ACE is the only magazine in the world with dedicated review sections for computer, console and compact disc entertainment.
